UNION, RAILWAY CHIEFS START CONTRACT TALKS

MONTREAL (CP)—Union and company negotiators met here today to launch crucial contract talks involving millions of dollars for Canada's major railways and affecting 120,000 railway workers.

Representatives of 15 unions representing rail workers who do not run trains sat down with CNR and CPR negotiators in a downtown hotel to thrash out union demands for a 25-cent-an-hour pay boost.

KRISHNA MENON GETS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon Tuesday received overwhelming support at a parliamentary caucus of the ruling Congress Party.

A party spokesman said all legislators who spoke at the closed-door session supported Menon who has been under fire for his handling of India's defence problems.

The defence minister was reported to have told the meeting that "all steps" are being taken to protect India's disputed frontier with Communist-controlled Tibet.

In forcible language, Menon declared that Communist China is posing a threat to India's security along the Tibetan frontier.

Reds Ease Stand At A-Ban Talks

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia today unexpectedly proposed a study of new procedure to eliminate the veto in a control commission for policing a nuclear weapons test ban.

Hitherto, Russia has insisted on veto rights in the proposed seven-power commission.

United States and British delegates at the three-power talks on a test ban said they would have to study today's Soviet statement closely before they could reply at another meeting Friday.

Today's session lasted 55 minutes. Afterwards, Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told reporters: "We are trying to find forms of voting in the control commission other than unanimity veto rights among the three original nuclear powers."

Tsarapkin said he had urged the Western side to propose an alternative procedure to the veto system.

Russia originally listed seven points over which the veto rights should apply. Since the talks began 13 months ago, the list has been whittled down to one item—budgetary and financial matters.

The three-power session took place today shortly before U.S., British and Russian scientists began their talks on detecting underground nuclear explosions.

Tsarapkin agreed Tuesday to the work program for the technical talks on new American data. This data purports to show that underground tests are harder to detect than first was believed.

Tsarapkin accepted an American compromise proposal made a week ago on the way the scientists should tackle the new data.

Western conference sources described the Soviet agreement on the terms of reference for the experts as "a very considerable and welcome advance on the Russian side."

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru warned Communist China today that "if war is thrust upon us we will fight with all our strength."

The aroused premier, raising his voice to emphasize India's determination, spoke in Parliament at opening of a debate on India's border dispute with Peking.

As Nehru was speaking hundreds of Socialists who have protested his mild approach to the crisis gathered outside Parliament and shouted anti-government slogans. Police prevented their storming into the building.

Inside Parliament pandemonium broke out when Nehru accused the opposition Socialist parties of using the Peking troubles to further their own political ends. The uproar died when he quickly apologized.

"It is a strange turn of events that India, which has stood for peace so long, is now faced with the possibility even of war," Nehru said.

He emphasized that India wanted peace; he termed war a "dangerous and a bad thing" and he said India would work to avoid it. But his speech was one of the most forthright he has delivered on the current Indo-Chinese tension.

He said at no time since India had achieved independence was its military in better shape to defend the nation's 9,000 miles of borders. And he said India's industrial might was equally able to back up military preparedness."

Nehru, in a one-hour speech to a packed House of Representatives, called for political unity and said the border incidents with Red China transcended party politics.

War and peace in the whole world might hinge on settlement of the border disputes, he said. The disputes arose when Chinese Communist troops occupied huge border areas claimed by India.

Money Probe By Ottawa?

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal for an independent inquiry into government expenditures, similar to the United States Hoover commission, is being "exhaustively examined" by the government, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

Atom-Powered Ship Planned By W. Germany

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) —West Germany announced plans today to build its first nuclear-powered merchant ship.

A 16,000-ton tanker, the Esso Bolivar, will be converted from conventional propulsion to serve as a "nuclear test bed," the announcement said.

The Society of Nuclear Engineering, a private group financed by West Germany's four coastal states, made the announcement on the eve of a three-day convention here of nuclear ship experts designed to study atomic propulsion.

U.S., FRANCE SIGN HISTORIC TRADE TREATY

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and France today signed a treaty of commerce and friendship designed to make it easier for the two countries to do business with each other.

It was the first time in more than 160 years that there had been any formal regulation of U.S.-French trade relations. A U.S.-British commercial treaty has been in force for more than a century, and the United States has concluded similar treaties with a score of nations around the world since the Second World War.

POVL BANG-JENSEN
. . . burned list

SUICIDE SUSPECTED

Hunt Launched For UN Prober

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (UPI)—Povl Bang-Jensen, a Danish citizen fired from his United Nations job after he destroyed a list of Hungarian freedom fighters rather than turn it over to the UN, was reported today to have been missing from his home and job for more than 48 hours.

Bang-Jensen, 50, was said by police to have been in good health but "mentally depressed over employment difficulties." He is married to an American. They have five children.

His disappearance was reported just a few hours before the United Nations was scheduled to open a new Hungarian debate. Today's UN proceedings had no apparent relationship to his former UN work.

He left his home here at 7.40 a.m. Monday, ostensibly for his job to C.A.R.E. Inc., in Manhattan, and has not been seen since, police said. His wife, the former Helen J. Noland of Port Jervis, N.Y., reported that he left his wallet at home.

CONTROVERSY

His discharge in July 1958 by UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskold followed a long controversy over the names of escaped Hungarian freedom fighters whom Bang-Jensen had interviewed as a member of the UN commission investigating the Hungarian revolution.

He said all had feared reprisals from the Communists and he had assured each that his name would be kept secret.

At the C.A.R.E. office, a spokesman said Bang-Jensen, who also used the Americanized name Paul Jensen, had been hired as a special consultant for a six-month term which expired in October and was then extended for another six months.

NO WORRIES

"He was receiving an adequate salary and had no job worries," the spokesman said. "None of us here knew him very intimately, but he was a steady man and we saw no signs of despondency."

Police, however, apparently were working on the theory that Bang-Jensen may have taken his own life.

Bang-Jensen had been employed by the UN since 1949. He served as deputy secretary to the UN commission which turned in a blistering indictment of Russia's part in suppressing the Hungarian revolution.

Existence of his list of witnesses became known to his UN superiors only after the United States government inquired about a refugee who said he had been interviewed by Bang-Jensen. Hammarskjold then asked Bang-Jensen to turn over the list to him for safekeeping.

When that was refused, he suggested it be placed in a sealed envelope in the UN vaults. But Bang-Jensen insisted that he had no assurance that a list so stored might not some day fall into Communist hands.

Likely Power Site Granted Free to PGE

A free grant of Crown land to be used as a Pacific Great Eastern Railway way-stop townsite was turned over to the government-owned railway today by cabinet order.

It is located at the junction of Hasler Creek and the Pine River, west of Dawson Creek.

The Pine, a tributary of the Peace, and the Halfway River, were mentioned by Peace River Power Development Co. President W. C. Mainwaring Tuesday as logical supplementary power sites, for development eventually in the Peace power system.

The order noted the land grant, (acreage not specified), would be made without charge or Crown fee and would be subject only to prior easement privileges granted the West coast Transmission Company for its pipeline in the vicinity.

PGE officials were unable to comment on the townsite today but Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said it is usual for the railawy to make townsite reserves where any new development is indicated in areas served by the railway. But he did not know of any development there at this time.

Biggest Effort May Go Thursday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The moon is about to move across the sky like a target in a celestial shooting gallery, and the United States is ready to take a shot at it. The attempt could come Thursday.

A towering Atlas-Able rocket stands on its pad here, waiting the signal to blast into space. Standing nearly 10 storeys high, the rocket holds a 375-pound satellite which scientists hope will go into orbit around the moon.

The 98-foot "Double-A" is the most powerful of all U.S. rockets to date. The four-stage behemoth will be a 375-pound payload that scientists hope to guide into orbit around the moon with a guidance system never tried by an American space rocket.

The spherical payload, riding in the topmost part of the Able upper stages, was designed to take pictures of the moon's "farside" surface with a facsimile scanner and transmit them back to earth upon "command" radio signals from scientists.

Also aboard will be a device to maintain temperature control inside the instrument compartment and an ultra-small electronic brain, designed to relay information to earth in the form of radio signal impulses, as well as instruments to study the lunar gravitational field and space radiation.

The most favorable time for the attempt is a four-day period starting Thursday. The chance of success is greater in this period because the paths of the earth and the moon, as they orbit about the sun, are most closely aligned.

Failure to get the rocket off by Sunday would mean a postponement until late December.

LONG TRIP

If successful, the four-stage Atlas-Able would take 2½ days to reach the vicinity of the moon, about 225,000 miles away. Then retro (reverse) rockets are to be ignited by ground signal to slow the payload so it will be attracted by the lunar gravitational field.

The United States hopes to be first in placing a satellite in orbit about the moon. Scientists here believe this would be a greater achievement than either of Russia's last two lunik shots. One of these hit the moon, the other hurled a satellite into a wide orbit around the moon and the earth.

The United States payload contains a camera to photograph the lunar surface, including the dark side which Lunik III captured on film for the first time. It also contains instruments to study and relay information on the moon's environment.

An Atlas ICBM scored its 11th straight test success Tuesday in preparation for the moonshot. The firing apparently was slated for a target somewhat short of standard intercontinental range of 6,300 statute miles.

FACES TRIAL

Immunity of parliament was stripped today from French Senator Francois Mitterand in a move that means he can be tried for allegedly faking an assassination attempt against him Oct. 16. His report of an attempt on his life created a political sensation.

$2 MILLION A MILE ROAD COST

Tenders for 1.23 miles of Trans-Canada Highway construction in the China Bar section of the Fraser Canyon indicate a new high in construction costs—where it was once described as costing $1,000,000 a mile, the price now is apparently doubled.

The lowest of five tenders opened by the highways branch Tuesday was $2,242,723 —submitted by Emil Anderson and Highway Construction, jointly. Both are Vancouver firms. The highest tender was for more than $3,200,000.

The section of highway involves tunneling and a major rock cut. Engineers describe the project as one of the toughest in the Fraser Canyon section.

PLEASE HURRY BACK, DAD

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seven-year-old Jackie Foster turned toward his father today, hugged him and said:

"Hurry back, Dad."

Jackie couldn't see tears in the eyes of his father, 28-year-old Eugene Foster. Jackie is blind.

His cancerous right eye was removed at Wills Eye Hospital Tuesday. He already was blind in the left eye after cancer struck it at the age of 13 months.

His father was "going away" — for at least six months to a year. Suffering from tuberculosis, he left directly from the hospital for treatment in Browns Mills, N.J.

Jackie, with his mother at his side, told how he underwent the operation for removal of his other eye.

"Nope, it didn't hurt a bit and I didn't even get sick," he said from his bed in the hospital.

TWO ARTICLES ON POWER ISSUE

In a speech to Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday, W. C. Mainwaring, president of the Peace River Power Development Company, outlined plans for the huge Wenner-Gren project and attacked a recent Times series on the power issue.

Specifically he claimed statements in the series regarding delivery of extra Columbia River power to the B.C. coast were "rubbish." A full report of his speech appears on Page 39.

Also, on Page 2, Times Ottawa reporter Tom Gould, who wrote the series, sums up federal power authorities' views on the same subject.

IT WAS JUST ROYAL MIX-UP

King Whistles for Taxi

LONDON (CP)—It's almost unbelievable in a country that specializes in dignified, red-carpet treatment for royalty.

But Tuesday night King Gustav and Queen Louise of Sweden had to stand in the Haymarket whistling for a taxi.

They eventually got one, and then sat still for 15 minutes while fire engines blocked the street.

It happened after the royal couple were driven by chauffeur to the Haymarket Theatre — the wrong place. They meant to visit the Globe.

They dismissed their chauffeur with a minimum of fuss, and walked in. Nobody met them, or even recognized them.

"Where are our friends with the tickets?" asked the queen.

The king and queen were supposed to meet Sir Harold and Lady Zia Wernher in the lobby. Lady Zia is a daughter of one of the grand dukes of Russia.

Then the king noticed that the show was "The Pleasure of His Company." They wanted to see Graham Green's "The Complaisant Lover."

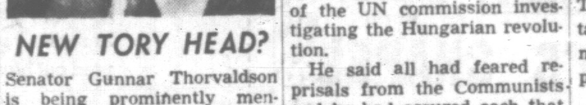
That's when he blew a royal whistle.

They arrived at the Globe 15 minutes after the curtain was due to rise, but the management, expecting the royal couple, waited for them.

Queen Louise, in evening dress and fur coat, apologized to their floor-pacing friends.

"I was sure the show was at Haymarket Theatre," she explained. "I was positive."

The king smiled happily as the four were ushered into their third-row seats.



Mebbe thet rocket w'd go if they filled it with moonshine.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. — A terrified gunman dropped his rifle, loot and pride Tuesday night and took to his heels when a pretty English immigrant lost her temper.

Pamela Stetson, 25, told police she was "furious" because "I tried to shoot him and the gun wouldn't fire."

Miss Stetson was working in the office of the Hillcrest Country Club when a man with a sheet over his head slipped in and pointed a rifle at her.

Ordered to "put all the money in this pillow case," Miss Stetson dropped in about $60 in club receipts. The man demanded more and stepped in front of her in a menacing manner, she told police.

Then she got angry. "I pushed and knocked him backward, and he dropped the gun."

"I picked up the gun and went hysterical. I pointed the gun at him and he ran like mad. He dropped the bag of money."

IPOH, Malaya—After hearing that Lee Joo Een nagged her husband constantly for 50 years, a court here sentenced Ooi Chye Teik, rubber plantation foreman, to four years in prison for killing his wife with an axe. "I cannot overlook your action completely because it would only encourage other people to get rid of their wives in the same way," the judge told him.

PORTLAND — "Nobody knows me," said A. J. Nahorney, "without my nickname."

And, he said, it was a bitter blow when the Sailors Union of the Pacific ruled that nicknames could not be used on union election ballots.

Nahorney, 38, ran last year for the office of secretary-treasurer, but almost nobody voted for him, he said, because they didn't know who he was.

"I'm a rank-and-filer who is tired of being pushed around," he said in explaining why he went to court and put his nickname into his legal name.

So this year against Weisberger on the ballot in the two-months voting period opening Dec. 1 is the name he is certain all will know: A. J. Packrat Nahorney.

HERTFORD, England—Children who don't see television are regarded as "outcasts," the Hertfordshire County council decided today. It agreed to install a television set in a children's home under its care.

Expert to Speak On Transit Trend

Vancouver planning expert G. F. Farry will outline the "Changing Transportation Trends in the Downtown Business District" at 8 p.m. Thursday in Holyrood House.

The public meeting is sponsored by the Victoria branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

Mr. Farry recently completed a five-year study of the transportation problems in Vancouver. He is a transportation specialist in the mainland city's planning department.

Columbia Power Ready In Five Years—Ottawa

By TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau
(See also Page 39)

OTTAWA — Federal power experts said today it is "entirely possible" downstream benefit power from the Columbia River could be delivered to the lower mainland within five years of a start on construction.

They did not agree with statements made on the subject Tuesday by Peace River Power Development Co. president W. C. Mainwaring.

In particular, Mr. Mainwaring, in an attack on a Victoria Times series on the Columbia, disagreed that the initial downstream benefit power could be delivered over transmission lines already in existence.

The Times series said this would be possible, because the broad plans for Columbia development are such that a number of different projects are essential to all development proposals.

In other words, one or two storage dams could be built, and power generated downstream, before final, detailed plans for the entire basin had been worked out.

BOARD'S REPORT

Here is what the International Columbia River Engineering Board said in its report to the International Joint Commission:

"Certain projects common to all three plans could be recommended by the commission (IJC) for early development without waiting for or prejudicing the final selection of a single plan of international system development."

Four of the Canadian government's top power men, all of them intimately familiar with the Columbia River basin, said the engineering board was "absolutely right."

They said the estimated period before downstream benefit power would be available—three to five years—was "entirely feasible."

The experts disagreed on the capability of the northwest power grid to carry downstream benefit power to the Vancouver market.

One said the only weak point in the system is the line to Blaine, Wash., where the B.C. Electric has an interchange with the northwest power pool.

EXPANSION POSSIBLE

"That line," he said, "could be strengthened considerably in a very short time. The right-of-way is available for expansion. It would take no time at all."

Another said the statement was correct, but "an over-simplification."

He said the statement was correct, but "an over-simplification."

He said the Bonneville grid has some extra capacity at the present time "because they over-estimated load growth," but that because excess capacity is wasteful, there would not be sufficient to carry large blocks of power.

"However, the Vancouver market isn't going to be able to absorb any great amount of power in the initial stages of development, and it is perfectly logical to assume small initial loads will be carried on the grid to the border near Vancouver," he said.

"When the load develops, we will have to decide, in agreement with the Americans, when, where, we will pick it up. It could be brought in from Osoyoos, and a line built to connect with the B.C. Electric's Waleach line near Hope."

CHARGE FOR U.S. LINE

One engineer said that the U.S. officials involved in Columbia negotiations have spread the story that transmission right-of-way across the mountain passes to the coast would be unable to handle line expansion required for carrying downstream benefit power to the lower mainland.

"We believe they are merely trying to convince us we will have to take the power at the border much farther east," he said. "Whatever happens, of course, is a matter for the administering authority to decide."

"If we use U.S. transmission lines, there will definitely be a charge for it, because it will be a superimposed load. They wouldn' need the capacity that will eventually be required for their own use."

BLIND WOMAN SAVES CRIPPLED HUSBAND

BRICELYN, Minn. (AP) — An elderly blind woman saved her crippled husband and her home by sounding the alarm after a fire broke out in the house Tuesday night.

Mrs. O. K. Anderson, awake shortly before midnight, smelled smoke and called the fire department. She then awoke her husband, crippled by arthritis, and together they made their way out of the house.

Firemen confined the flames to the basement. Bricelyn is in southeastern Minnesota.

Public 'Hoodwinked' By N.B. Liquor Laws

MONTREAL (CP) — J. C. Van Horne, former president of the Chateau-Restigouche Hotel at Campbellton, N.B., fined $1,000 Tuesday for keeping liquor for sale, said today the hotel may appeal the judgment.

"The fine won't be paid anyway, that's for sure," he said.

Mr. Van Horne, Progressive-Conservative member of parliament for Restigouche-Madawaska, and solicitor for the hotel, said the court's decision was merely an assist to the provincial government's policy of deceiving the public—temperance groups in particular—regarding its liquor laws.

Liquor can be purchased legally in New Brunswick only by the bottle from government retail stores.

"But there are 1,800 other establishments in the province that sell liquor with police knowledge," he said. "That includes 99 per cent of the hotels."

Mr. Van Horne said establishments are fined every week for selling liquor.

"But the fines are never paid," he said. "It's just one big joke to hoodwink the public." He said New Brunswick has the highest per capita consumption of liquor in the world. Some 75,000 of its people spent $30,000,000 annually on liquor.

. . . NEHRU

dians were killed and 10 captured by the Reds.

Nehru's main show of emotion came today after he described his Nov. 16 proposals to Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai to settle the border dispute.

He called such negotiations "fair and reasonable and honorable" for both India and Red China and then with raised voice promised that India would fight for its life if war was thrust upon it.

Nehru once again emphasized his belief in the principle of peaceful co-existence" and said this was the "right principle for the world today."

Nehru said he believed war would not come and he urged restraint so as not to unduly antagonize the Chinese Communists who "think and act differently and don't understand the workings of democracy."

Another outbreak flared in parliament when Nehru criticized the Indian Communist party for pro-Peiking demonstrations in Calcutta. A Communist party member arose to protest and was drowned out with cries of "shame!" from Congress and Socialist members.

When Nehru finished speaking he introduced as a resolution the Indian government white paper of Nov. 16 containing India's correspondence with Peiking on the border dispute. The opposition leaped to the attack with a flurry of amendments expected to be voted on Thursday.

Move Made to End Strike Of Fraser River Pilots

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — The transport department has made a proposal for ending a wildcat strike of British Columbia's Fraser River pilots that started Tuesday, a department spokesman said today.

The strike of the seven pilots was in protest over delay in the department taking over a pilot boat now maintained by the pilots themselves. The takeover was scheduled originally for last April 1 but has been postponed because of legal delays.

The spokesman said the pilots were informed the department would take over the boat as of today provided shipowners agreed to pay voluntarily an extra $10 for each pilotage towards the cost of the boat. The higher fee would be extra-legal until it could be confirmed by government order-in-council.

The department was informed that the proposal was to be considered by the pilots at a meeting in New Westminster today. The official said there is no doubt that the shipowners will agree to the added charge.

The walkout prevented at least four sea-going vessels from moving in and out of the harbor.

The walkout affected ships, crew, longshoremen, shippers and cargoes valued at tens of thousands of dollars.

Harbor Master Capt. John Clayton said Tuesday night two vessels had been prevented from sailing, while two other ships could not enter the port. The strike affected all deep-sea ships entering the Fraser River for New Westminster.

Sewer Bylaw

ALBERNI—A $565,000 sewer construction bylaw was introduced at a special council meeting this week and made ready for submission to the provincial municipal affairs department.

If government approval is received, then it will be placed before voters Dec. 17. The sewer system is planned to serve three main areas of the city.

French Gov't Censured

PARIS (Reuters)—Socialist and radical deputies today levelled a censure motion against Premier Michel Debre's government — the first such move under the new constitution of the Fifth Republic.

The motion bore the signature of 60 deputies—more than the minimum of one-tenth of the assembly required to make it valid.

Observers consider the Debre government in no danger in the debate, expected to be held Friday. To be successful, a censure motion needs an absolute majority.

Debre Tuesday night staked the life of his 11-month-old government on assembly approval of the 1960 budget after facing criticism of its economy cuts in ex-servicemen's pensions — an explosive issue in French politics.

The censure motion says the signatories, while approving President de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria, refuse to approve the government measures against "the legitimate rights of ex-servicemen."

Things that influence car insurance costs

Inevitably, automobile insurance rates must go up or down depending on whether the claims being paid are going up or down. In the long run, the money paid out to settle claims and to run the business cannot continually exceed the amount of money collected in premiums.

In recent years, practically all the things which determine how much money has to be paid out have been increasing. Here are some of them:

1 The Cost of Cars — The $2,000 car of yesterday has become the $3,000-$4,000 car of today. And even a "low price" car may smash another vehicle costing much more. The cost of insurance must always be related to the cost of repair or replacement.

2 The Styling of Cars — The modern car has many improvements over the car of yesterday — all costing money. Wrap-around windshields improve visibility, but cost five times as much to replace when broken. Power steering improves handling, but is expensive to repair. One-piece body units eliminate rattles but skyrocket replacement costs. In cost of parts alone, the repair bill that must come out of insurance premiums is more than double that of yesterday.

3 The Cost of Repairs — Quite aside from parts, the average garage repair bill is far higher than it used to be, because the garage's costs have gone up also and the garage repairman gets a higher rate of pay than he used to — as do most Canadians today.

4 Increased Medical Costs — Hospitals, too, must charge higher rates today than they used to — and once again this cost must come out of the car insurance premium. Other medical costs are similarly increased.

5 The Costs of "Lost Time" — Canadians generally, are drawing considerably higher incomes than they used to. That means that the costs of keeping an accident victim off work until his injuries are healed are substantially increased. This is another cost which has to come out of the premium.

6 The Number of Accidents — Naturally, the cost of car insurance is greatly affected by the number of accidents in relation to the number of cars insured. Thanks to the efforts of many people, this ratio of accidents has started to go down — only moderately down as yet, and not nearly enough to offset all the costs which have been going up. Nevertheless, this trend toward a lower accident ratio — a trend we all can assist by careful driving — probably holds the best hope of all for keeping auto insurance costs down in the future.

'Crack Down on Labor' Employers Urge Ottawa

Brief by Chamber Of Commerce Goes Before Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce today called for tougher federal labor laws that would tighten up on strikes and picketing and end the immunity of unions from lawsuits.

In its annual brief to the cabinet, the chamber also called for outlawing of strikes and lockouts that would endanger public health or safety, with compulsory arbitration of such disputes.

The proposal that unions under the federal labor code be made liable for civil lawsuits is in line with a British Columbia law enacted earlier this year. Organized labor has criticized it strongly.

The brief was presented to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and cabinet ministers by a delegation headed by chamber president H. Gordon Love of Calgary.

STRONGER REQUEST

Its propsals on labor were in stronger terms than last year's submission to the cabinet. There have been reports that the federal labor code may be opened for revision at the next session of Parliament.

The brief said picketing should only be allowed where a legal strike or lockout exists, with picketing only by the employees involved. It would prohibit picketing to establish bargaining rights, in jurisdictional disputes between unions, or where the employer is not involved in a labor dispute.

The chamber renewed its demand for prohibition of sympathy strikes and secondary boycotts. It said strike votes should be supervised by an independent party and that during a strike the labor minister should be empowered to conduct strike-settlement votes.

It also reiterated its stand for a so-called "right-to-work law" that would prohibit agreements requiring a closed union shop.

UNEMPLOYMENT FUND

The chamber also expressed concern over the recent drain on the unemployment insurance fund, which dropped from $927,000,000 at the end of 1956 to $496,000,000 last March 31. It called for an independent inquiry aimed at restoring the fund to a sound financial basis and said the fund should not be used to pay special wintertime benefits for seasonal unemployment.

Turning to other matters, the brief complained of high taxes and urged a tightening up of present tax concessions for co-operative businesses.

On agriculture, the chamber opposed government marketing boards, which limit "the free enterprise method" of marketing farm products. Farm price supports should not act as incentives to overproduction.

The submission also asked the government to take "aggressive action" to expand immigration and to make an immediate study of air and water pollution "with particular reference to nuclear fallout."

PREMIER CYRANKIEWICZ
. . . no retreat

'ATLANTIC ECONOMIC COMMUNITY'

LONDON (Reuters) — A London newspaper says an idea for bringing the United States and Canada into talks on European economic matters is under discussion.

The Daily Telegraph reports that the object of the plan would be to create an "Atlantic economic community' instead of a "European economic community."

As a start American and Canadian "observers" might be invited to attend talks between the six-country Common Market and the "Outer Seven" free trade area.

POLAND TOLD

Strong Controls Economic Need

WARSAW (UPI) — Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz told Poland's parliament today that the strong austerity measures his government is taking do not mean a return to the old and stricter kind of communism.

The premier also criticized the United States' stand on a United Nations Security Council seat for Poland in another section of his 40-page speech to the opening fall session of parliament.

He said that stronger central controls were needed to make up food shortages and increase lagging factory production.

"We cannot see in these changes a retreat from the road which we have chosen; on the contrary, they are steps along this road," he said.

On the UN election, Cyrankiewicz said that the 45 votes Poland has received shows that the United States is making a "grotesque and ridiculous attack" when it claims Poland's candidacy was forced by the Soviet Union.

The parliamentary deputies will automatically approve the government's program after debate on the balanced, eight-billion dollar budget proposed for 1960. Although no major controversy is expected, the delegates' questions about the national administration are expected to be more searching than usual.

Islanders Named As Horse Show Group Directors

Mrs. W. H. Dunbar, Victoria, and Mrs. H. H. Norcross, Duncan, were chosen as directors of the Canadian Horse Shows Association (British Columbia Division), at the annual meeting of the group in Vancouver.

Chairman is Mrs. J. C. Abramson, of Richmond. Other directors are F. C. Errington and D. W. Samuel, Vancouver, and Mrs. M. H. Symonds, Vernon.

Named to the regional committee were John Dean, Hammond; Dr. John Gilray, Newton; George Petty, Webster's Corners, and Mrs. D. W. Samuel, Vancouver.

Zone and equitation awards will be presented at a dinner dance in Vancouver's Manhattan Ballroom, Saturday, at 7 p.m.

Canada Urges Nations To End Refugee Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada called on United Nations members Tuesday to turn away from recriminations and seek a practical solution for the problem of 1,000,000 refugees from the Palestinian war of 1948.

Canadian delegate Arthur R. Smith, addressing the General Assembly's 82-member special political committee, declared:

"We urge Israel, the Arab states and all members of the UN to redouble their efforts to solve this problem in the knowledge that succeeding generations will not hold us guiltless if, by inaction, we perpetuate this tragedy."

Smith referred to political and psychological aspects of the Palestine problem and said he was encouraged by previous speakers who had made suggestions concerning the reactivation and expansion of the Palestine conciliation commission and the possibility of a special UN committee or organization.

RUSSIA WINS AGREEMENT

Polar A-Blasts Banned

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—The Soviet Union Tuesday won acceptance in the 12-nation Antarctic conference for a ban on all types of nuclear explosions in the South Polar region, diplomatic sources said.

The agreement of the nuclear explosion issue cleared the way for quick completion of a pact reserving the continent for scientific uses. Conference sources predicted that the treaty might be signed Friday.

Previously the other 11 nations — including Britain and the United States, the remaining members of the nuclear "club"—had been in favor of permitting peaceful explosions with the unanimous consent of all treaty signatories.

In addition to barring atomic explosions, the treaty also will ban all military activity from the South Polar continent and will set up an inspection and control system to ensure that there are no violations.

Observers believe that this first internationally agreed inspection system could establish a valuable precedent for dealing with militarization problems in outer space.

POLIO CASES TAPER OFF SAYS DEPUTY

Polio in B.C. is "tapering off," provincial deputy health minister G. F. Amyot said Tuesday, "but I wouldn't say we are out of the woods yet."

To date, there have been 104 cases, and 13 deaths, but only one new case in recent days. In 1958, there were only 13 cases and three deaths.

SCHOOLS 'WASTING' TOP BRAINS

BRANDON (CP) — A. D. Thompson, superintendent of elementary schools in Winnipeg, said Tuesday the lack of facilities for teaching exceptionally bright youngsters is "an extreme waste of human potential." He told the convention of Urban School Trustees' Association of Manitoba that many bright children are not realizing their potential because of the "clock-step" system which sorts them strictly according to grades.

Who Cried Wolf?

COBBLE HILL — Game Warden Bill Fowkes of Duncan and predator hunter Jim Dewar of Extension were called out recently to investigate a report by a farmer that a wolf had killed one of his sheep.

They failed to find any trace of the wolf but their investigations led to the shooting of one dog found roaming in the area.

There have been no further reports of slain sheep.

Official Mum on Threat In Toll Bridge Dispute

MONTREAL (CP) — J. A. Clement, federal bridge superintendent in Montreal, today declined to say whether he is the national harbors board official threatened by gunmen when automatic tolls were being installed on Jacques Cartier Bridge.

"I can't say one way or the other," said Mr. Clement after The Montreal Star quoted harbors board officials and the RCMP as confirming that Mr. Clement was threatened last summer.

The Star did not name the officials.

"What can I say?" Mr. Clement said when asked about the newspaper story. "If I say it's not me, what more does it give? It just means it's someone else. If I say it is me, what good does that do?

"There's one thing I can confirm. Somebody was threatened. That's true. But I can't say anything more."

Other national harbors board officials have confirmed that one of their key officers had been told by a gunman to stop the installation of the toll machines "or else." But they also declined to name the official.

The incident came to light following disclosure that toll revenue under the automatic system had jumped more than $150,000 in September and October over the corresponding months of last year.

In Ottawa today, the national harbors board said that an increase of 532,000 vehicles was registered in the first two months of automatic operation.

Mr. Clement, whose jurisdiction covers Jacques Cartier bridge and the new Champlain bridge now under construction, played a major role in installing the automatic devices on Jacques Cartier bridge, a key artery linking Montreal with the south shore of the St. Lawrence River.

There were reports that Transport Minister Hees and an unidentified associate cabinet minister were also threatened, but they have not been confirmed.

The Big Promise

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT at last has steeled itself for a fiscal conference with the provinces and their creatures, the municipalities, next summer. Any new taxation agreements reached then will take effect in April, 1962, or five years later than Mr. Diefenbaker promised, in the election of 1957.

The date of the intended settlement is no accident. It will fall, presumably, on the eve of the next national election when financial concessions to the junior governments will be most helpful to Mr. Diefenbaker.

But the junior governments will be foolish to expect too much easy money from Ottawa.

According to Mr. Diefenbaker, the Federal Government is paying $1.2 billions to the provinces in the present fiscal year. This figure includes every last cent passing from the federal to the provincial treasuries—contributions to the Trans-Canada Highway, university and health grants, contributions to hospital insurance and so on. However they are classified, these sums represent a huge total and a substantial segment of the national budget. How much more can Ottawa afford to pay?

That will depend on the state of the federal budget a year from now.

Clearly Mr. Fleming is making a strong attempt to get his budget under control after two years of alarming deficit, and clearly also, he is fighting off the demands of his colleagues for more spending. If the present business improvement continues to swell his revenues he may be able to balance next year's budget, or appear to do so, though no doubt he must continue to borrow heavily for what he calls capital costs.

If, on top of the gigantic commitments already made, Mr. Fleming must soon find more money for the provinces and, through them, for the municipalities, one of three things must happen: The hope of a truly balanced budget will be postponed; or federal taxes must be raised; or tax reductions possible otherwise must be abandoned.

Whatever happens, every cent conveyed by Ottawa to the junior governments will come from the national taxpayers, the inhabitants of the provinces and, for the most part, of the municipalities. The ordinary Canadian, demanding more help from Ottawa, must himself supply it in the end. Mr. Fleming has no source of money except the common taxpayer.

The real trouble, of course, is that the national and provincial governments already have pushed their budgets beyond the capacity, or at any rate, the willingness of the taxpayer to pay. The nation is living, to an excessive degree, on borrowed money and these borrowings, almost entirely by the national Government, have pushed up interest rates, thus damaging provincial, municipal and private borrowers.

Perhaps the most useful thing Mr. Fleming could do for the junior governments and the nation generally would be to balance his budget, begin to retire his debt, halt the pressure on the money supply, and reduce interest rates.

This he may be unable to do if, in addition to his present commitments, he must find large new sums for the junior governments which, as borrowers, are already the victims of his extravagance.

Unfortunately Mr. Fleming is caught in a web of pre-election promises.

It was on April 25, 1957, that Mr. Diefenbaker assured himself the support of Premier Frost, of Ontario, by promising in Toronto a "new deal" for the provinces and a federal-provincial conference as soon as he was elected. A conference was held in November of that year but no new deal was achieved. The provinces went away empty-handed.

Then, on January 25, 1958, Mr. Fleming hastily telegraphed the provincial governments, in advance of a second national election, informing them that they would be given 13 instead of 10 per cent of the personal income tax revenues. Nothing more happened, and nothing will happen until the conference next summer.

It has been so built up in advance, the provinces and municipalities have been led to expect such large concessions that, on the eve of another election. Mr. Diefenbaker can hardly dare to disappoint them. As a result, the national budget, already distended, seems likely to keep on rising.

Hard Cash and the Tourist

RECREATION AND CONSERVATION Minister Earle Westwood and Mr. Sam Lane have talked in terms of hard cash to tourist interests of this community.

In brief the minister and tourist promoter tell those who depend on the visitor industry that they have to spend more by way of advertising their attractions, to earn more. Their comparative statistics are impressive.

Mr. Westwood referred to the procedure in Florida. There the accommodation industry spends twice as much as the state to attract outsiders.

Mr. Lane cited Southern California, where he said the income from visitors' spending was 700 times the amount spent on advertising.

If his figures are anything close to the mark, Mr. Lane has provided unchallengeable support for Mr. Westwood. Of course those who cater to the tourists spend a great deal more on various services and supplies than the amount indicated in advertsing. If the return is 700 to 1 in total tourist spending in relation to publicity, they can afford to.

It will be generally admitted that everyone benefits directly or indirectly from a robust tourist trade. The new money visitors leave here filters down through the economy. But it is of first concern to those who receive the cash from the tourists' pockets.

Mr. Westwood has pointed out very bluntly to the Auto Courts and Resorts Association that its members are laying out far too little to attract the kind of money that could be drawn to them.

No one will discount the excellent job done by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau in making the city and island known and attractive to people elsewhere on this continent. Nor will government efforts to the same end be disparaged. These are essential services in a community which has so much attractive scenery and recreation.

But those who profit most directly have been told that there is lots of opportunity for a more persuasive approach to visitors if they are ready to produce the funds for that approach. And the experience of Southern California and Florida seems to provide the object lesson.

The argument assumes further importance as those concerned note the forecasts made by planners in this region. The planners, after careful investigation, indicate that the tourist industry has a greater potential to develop itself in the next 20 years than any other industry in the area.

It seems up to the industry now to decide whether or not it will make the necessary investment.

An Unnecessary Restriction

THERE IS NO VALID REASON why the old age pension, payable to all Canadians at the age of 70, should not be available whether the recipient remains in the country or chooses to live abroad.

This is the regular policy of Britain and the United States, and the Canadian requirement which at first forced pensioners to stay home for nine months of the year and later reduced this to six should now be completely lifted.

When the old-age pension was considered as a gift of the state there may have been some argument that the funds so donated should be expended in Canada for the benefit of Canadian producers. But as at present constituted the pension is, in effect, bought and paid for through taxes by the eventual recipient. On this basis alone it should have no strings attached. The possible boon to many pensioners, who might be able to live more comfortably on their limited means by returning to former homes abroad, or by seeking residence where the exchange rate and low costs would be in their favor, is also obvious.

The federal Government should introduce legislation at the forthcoming session of Parliament to make pensions payable regardless of residence once the proper qualifying conditions have been complied with.

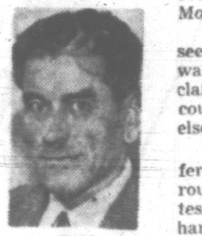
THE HUMAN RACE'S RACE

By B. A. TOBIN

We're So Happy, It's Fun to Suffer

EVERY era has its gimmicks and popular crazes. Quite apart from the fields of clothing fashions or music, which change perpetually, there are urges which sweep the country periodically, flourish for a while and then become thoroughly dead and unfashionable. Occasionally some try to make a reappearance after a few years in limbo, but they never regain their first popularity. You don't have to have a very long memory to recall such fads as miniature golf, marathon dances, yo-yos, flag-pole sitting and so on. More recently we had hoola hoops and the craze for crowding into telephone booths.



Tobin

No list of such activities would be complete without a mention of the famous C. C. Pyle and his cross-country "bunion derby".

This epic bit of promotion, athletics, merchandizing and hokum held the headlines back in the twenties and kept the continent agog for weeks. The trans-continental race was walked and run by a crowd of athletes and adventurers who made their way on foot from town to town each day, registering their total elapsed time and striving for spectacular prizes promised the winners.

Keen Interest

People followed the fortunes of the various contestants as closely as they now follow the daily adventures of comic strip characters. It was a fabulous display in a fabulous era.

England seems to be fairly prolific these days in inaugurating fads, and it is interesting to see in news dispatches that marathon walks reminiscent of Mr. Pyle's extravaganza are coming into favor over there.

These are amateur, solo efforts, however, not the subsidized retreat-from-Moscow stampede of an earlier era.

It all started about two weeks ago, it seems, when somebody spent a day walking from one city to another and claimed it was a record. Before you could say seven-league boots somebody else challenged the champ.

About 100 miles seems to be the preferred distance; the Norwich-to-London route of 110 miles has had a number of tests. Last Sunday the record changed hands three times, with a 56-year-old woman claiming the fastest time of 28 hours, 39 minutes.

Wild Green Yonder

But these are only the headliners. The reports tell of scores of Britons setting off on foot to reach distant objectives in Scotland and Wales and the remoter parts of England. And some are imposing bizarre handicaps on themselves. One woman says she carried a turtle and a hot water bottle. A group of students pushed a cartload of manure ninety miles.

What does it all mean? Is the modern world so lacking in attractive goals that we have to find peculiar substitues? And is there so great a guilt complex hanging over us today that man is moved to encumber and punish himself even in achieving these synthetic objectives?

It's difficult to say where the recurrent fads spring from. In many cases they are the brain-children of someone who wants to sell a new product or toy. But hundreds of such ideas fail for every one that succeeds. So what makes the public seize on one gimmick and ignore a score of others? The psychologists no doubt could provide a background.

Were the miniature golf courses of the twenties a form of self-punishment for the First Great War? Was there deep in the public consciousness a need to set frustrating, vexatious obstacles in the way of successfully sinking the putts—a feeling that man should make himself suffer even in his recreation?

Penance

And today—are we secretly paying for the atom bomb by these various forms of self-imposed effort?

The culture of this continent has been concerned with material comfort. The United States and Canada have built up a mass production of creature comforts never before seen in the world. A huge proportion of our industrial effort goes into making things that will soften the effects of life; they run all the way from air-conditioning units for large buildings to insulation for tumblers so our iced drinks won't chill our hands.

We put shock-absorbers on our springs, and cushions on our cushions. We'll be comfortable at any cost, because comfort means happiness—at least it does in our North American philosophy.

Sooner or later the pendulum must swing back the other way. We take up some gruelling sport or pastime that will compensate—in our minds—for the luxury we demand from life. Will we drive ourselves to exhaustion in marathons, suffer mock crucifixion on flagpoles, or do something else—in the name of sport and recreation and fashionableness—that will hurt us a little, perhaps vicariously, and make us feel better?

It's hard to say just when this sop to conscience will arrive, but come it will, I wonder what new form it will take?

View Royal Issues

For the information of those people who are interested in the development of the View Royal area, may we outline briefly the issues that will be decided at the polls Nov. 26?

For some years now the View Royal area has been increasing in population, with a corresponding increase in problems that have to be solved and services that have to be provided. The Community Association has been carrying the load to the best of its ability, and has accomplished a great deal, such as arranging for fire protection and the establishment of the present regulated area.

However, it is obvious that the association can no longer meet the need. A municipal organization is required to run the area on a business-like basis and to take advantage of the financial assistance available from the province.

The committee appointed by the Community Association to investigate incorporation has reported unanimously that incorporation is desirable for View Royal, because it would provide the necessary legally recognized council which would be elected by the residents to manage the affairs of the area. The cost of operating under such a council has been shown to be considerably less than the present arrangement. The actual saving to the taxpayer of the area will be at least seven mills for all the services now being provided, plus garbage collection.

Should the residents require more service or further improvements to the area it will be possible with a village organization to provide them on a local improvement basis.

The establishment of a village at this time will not in any way preclude the organization of a larger area at some future date, or interfere with amalgamation of the Greater Victoria area, should such become desirable. Nor is the establishment of the village of View Royal an irrevocable step. If the property owners of the area wish to revert to unorganized status they will be free to do so at any time. But if we do not incorporate now we may soon find it is too late, for our population will have passed the 2,500 maximum for incorporation as a village.

We on the committee have worked hard to make Thursday's vote possible. We have absolutely no hope of gaining anything for ourselves except the saving that will accrue to all property owners in the area. We are sincere and unanimous in recommending to the property owners of View Royal that they vote "yes" for incorporation of the area as a village municipality.

COMPLICATIONS

People are sometimes appalled at the perplexities of modern developments—for example, in mathematics—and they feel that they will never master them. It may help them to remember that the everyday language, even of the simplest of us, is a wonderfully complicated and subtle instrument. It may be that in the future we shall be able to convey in a minute ideas that take half-an-hour now. Man will have gone as far from us as we have from the apes.

France's Bomb Test

I'm hoping your paper isn't backing U.S. and Britain in their vote favoring France testing the atomic bomb in the Sahara Desert!

Has the UN stopped to have a meaning in keeping world peace for the United States and Britain?

I'm happy to see Canada take a view in favor of world peace and vote against France in using the atomic bomb. With the big percentage of vote that was given against France, she still plans to go ahead with it, with the United States and Britain clapping their hands.

With Deep Regret

In Saturday's evening paper I read that Attorney-General Bonner and his government held up little hope of financial assistance for the newly formed Victoria branch of "Alcohol Education Research Council".

We whose lives have been handicapped by this problem read this with deep regret.

Our government should willingly share in this program. A large revenue is made in the liquor trade. Could the government not share a small amount for alcohol education?

Let us not bury our heads too long in the sand, but face up to this problem which is affecting more families day by day.

This disease is recognized as the fourth most severe threat to the health of the nation. Can we afford to sit back and disregard this problem?

I do not think so.

Fluoridation Issue

I Say 'No'

Apart from the other pros and cons for fluoridation, I say "no" because there is the possibility of an accident happening.

We cannot forget the horrible state of our water a little while ago when too much chlorine collected.

Then recently the mistakes with cranberries, lipsticks, milk, etc.

These accidents can, and do, happen. With poisons they can be so disastrous. So let us not dabble with them, at least in the case of fluoridation.

PLAY SAFE.

Why?

The proponents of fluoridation state that tea, varieties of fish and other food products contain a much greater percentage of fluorine than they are advocating as an addition to our water supply.

If such is the case, then why are our children suffering from caries in their teeth.

Don't tell us that young children do not drink as much tea as they do water. Nor that poisonous inorganic silico sodium fluoride is the same as natural organic fluorides contained in foods, etc.

We are not that dumb.

INQUIRER.

Common Sense

The many controversial letters written opposing fluoridation have caused me no end of concern. A measure, such as fluoridation, cannot help but be good for people when it is recommended and endorsed by so many qualified persons and technical organizations. We take the advice of our local dentists and doctors in most matters so why do we not pay attention to the fact that fluoridation has been unanimously approved by both professional organizations representing these persons.

I am told that more than one million persons drink artificially fluoridated water each day in Canada and I have yet to hear anything but praise for the results. The great variety of nasty things attributed to fluoridation like softening of the brain, diarrhea, flat feet and a host of similar ailments, are more than offset by pictures of healthy young children with sparkling decay-free teeth.

Common sense should alone tell us that this measure is good and desirable for Victoria. Let this magic ingredient of common sense guide us in making a decision to have fluoridation in Victoria.

WILLIAM P. McCALL.

No Damage

For those who contend that fluoridation is injurious to the general state of health and contributes to bone damage, arthritis and other impairments, these studies by the Nutrition Foundation can open up new avenues of thought.

I quote from the New York Times:

"One of the studies consisted of chemical analysis of the skeletal tissues of two women who died in their seventies. One who had lived in Washington, D.C., where the water naturally has a fluoride content of only 0.2 parts per million, died of a heart attack. The other, who had died of a stroke, had lived for the preceding thirty-four years in Bartlett, Texas, where the drinking water contains the high fluoride conte;nt of 8.0 parts per million. The fluoride values of the bones of the Washington woman ranged from 900 to 1,800 parts per million, while the fluoride values of the bones of the Texas woman ranged from 7,150 to 9,410 parts per million.

"The absence of any gross or systemic findings, or of any impairment of health or well-being, malformation of the skeletal tissues or malfunction in the subject who had consumed water containing 8.0 parts per million fluoride indicates that the human bone is not adversely affected when it contains levels of fluoride in the 7,000 to 10,000 parts per million range."

There were other studies made along the same lines, including microscopic examinations of bone samples from long time residents of high fluoride communities as against those who had resided in low fluoride areas. As in the first case these all proved negative.

'A NATIONALIST IN BEST SENSE'

Canada Always First With 'Andy' McNaughton

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Dedicated is one of the milder words used to describe Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian chairman of the International Joint Commission. Tenacious is another. Some of the words—especially from those negotiating against him—are pretty rugged.

Democratic Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, speaking from experience, put it this way:

"Gen. McNaughton is one of the most determined men to come up against in negotiations. He is an extreme nationalist—and I say this in the good sense."

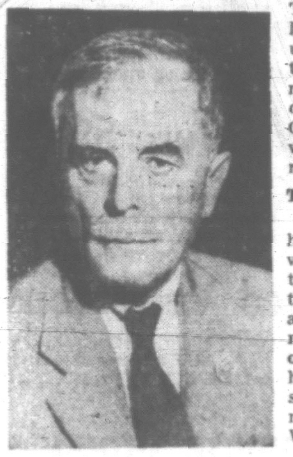
The appraisal by an opponent underlines a chief characteristic in the McNaughton makeup, exhibited throughout a career embracing the army, diplomacy, science, politics and crown administration.

PUTS CANADA FIRST

That trait is a hell-or-high-water devotion to any question of principle that the general feels is in the Canadian interest as a whole—regardless of whether opposition springs from foreign or Canadian sources.

The attitude probably cost him his job as wartime commander of Canada's army overseas. But just as surely it paved the way for the progress now being made between Canada and the United States for co-operative development of the mighty Columbia river's vast hydro-electric potential.

Soldier . . .



. . . Diplomat

Even Canadians who attribute a certain rigidity of view to the general credit him with an almost single-handed campaign to ensure that Canada will draw benefits from the use in the U.S. of Canadian-stored water.

Gen. McNaughton, now a vigorous 72, saw the problem in simple terms as soon as he joined the International Joint Commission, the Canada-U.S. body that handles boundary water problems.

He drummed the same theme tirelessly in speaking to senators, Commons committees and other groups to his view that American "theft" of Canadian hydro power resources — worth millions of dollars annually — was imminent.

He proposed diversion of the Columbia into the Fraser River, thus converting to an all-Canadian route the water that otherwise would have continued to flow down into the series of Pacific Northwest power dams in the U.S.

"It was the move of a good politician, taken at a time when almost no one agreed with him," an Ottawa observer reflects. Historic American intransigence against recompensing Canada for water stored in this country shifted sharply.

The bargaining still is going on over the development that could add 22,000,000 horsepower in capacity to the Columbia's potential but the big concession has been made.

Today, in his 73rd year, Andrew George Latta McNaughton could look back, if he paused in his busy rounds, on a career strewn with such milestones in the public service.

SOLDIER-SCIENTIST

Born in Moosomin, Sask., he joined the permanent army in 1910 and was chief of the Canadian general staff by 1929. He turned his training as an electricial engineer to co-invention of the cathode ray direction finder, used in aircraft and marine navigation. From 1935 to 1939 he served as president of the National Research Council.

His retirement late in 1943 as head of Canada's army overseas probably sprang from his firm stand that the Canadians be kept together, and not split up for the Sicilian and Italian campaigns. Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, then chief of the Imperial general staff, said in his recently-published memoirs that McNaughton had to go.

Gen. McNaughton then was appointed Liberal defence minister but failed in two attempts to gain election to the Commons and resigned the cabinet post in 1945 after less than a year in it.

Subsequently, he was president of Canada's atomic energy control board and then Canada's permanent delegate to the United Nations before going to the International Joint Commission in 1950.

AN ALERT FIGURE

He still cuts the same pole-straight alert figure — with some differences.

He peers through bifocals now when he stabs a finger at one of his innumerable maps, strewn with potential sources of hydro power rather than troop masses. He still rubs his cropped head with an unconscious circular motion of one hand but there is more white than dark now in the top thatch and in the closely-trimmed moustache.

He may take a rest after lunch, usually eaten at home when he's back in Ottawa from conferences. Colleagues say his wife, the former Mabel Weir of Montreal, has been a big support, accompanying him on any trips where she possibly can go.

He's in to work about 9 a.m. and out around 6 p.m. The pressure has been particularly heavy the last two years under the burden of settling the Columbia problem. But he maintained his busy pace, even on a 2,000-mile survey in the Columbia watershed last year when he covered 300 or 400 miles a day by bus.

TOO BUSY FOR PLAY

The ardent fly fishermen, he didn't have a chance to wet a line on the long bus trip. Nor has he had much time to indulge in his hobby as an accomplished tool craftsman. Gen. McNaughton's own collection of instruments helped start the National Research Council's optical department at the start of the Second World War.

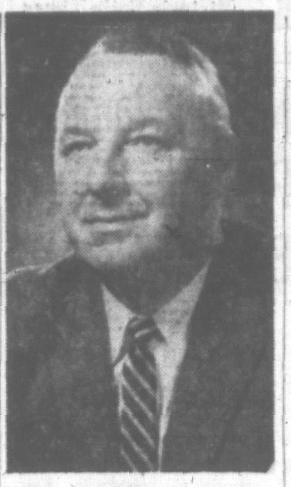
He may have one drink at a cocktail party, but he quit smoking during the war with a snap decision taken on medical advice. He still speaks pithily.

"That's no shucks," he will say of a potential dam site, dismissing another as "that little tit of a thing."

Does he plan a holiday now that the Columbia issue seems to be moving toward final settlement?

Perhaps, says the general, but he moves toward one of his maps to start pointing out new areas of work—a tidal-power hydro project in the Bay of Fundy, remaining St. Lawrence Seaway problems and others.

He pauses at northern British Columbia to tick off five Canadian rivers flowing down across the Alaska panhandle. There just might be another 30,000,000 horsepower available there, he muses.



NEW POSITION—John Rankine Strang, 46, a native of England, has been named to the newly-created position of director of shipbuilding in the department of transport. He is a naval architect with an intimate knowledge of all shipbuilding yards in Canada.

'Better Deal' For Berlin

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Christian A. Herter suggested Tuesday the reason for Western negotiations with Russia on the future of Berlin is to seek a "better arrangement" for that city.

He denied charges by Dean Acheson, state secretary in the former Democratic administration, that East-West negotiations on Berlin would be merely for the purpose of cloaking the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Germany.

New College at Oxford University, England, was founded in 1379 and its cloisters were consecrated in 1400.

HOME GARDEN By HILDA BEASTALL

Pot Plants on the Move

Gardeners with heated greenhouses will notice that many of the young pot plants are making enough growth now to encourage the most lukewarm of amateurs.

Hilda

This seems to be particularly true of plants which belong to the southern hemisphere, and to near-equatorial locations where daylight hours are shorter than ours for a longer period of time.

Philodendrons (mostly native to Central America) are one quite notable example.

I find that their growth during summer is practically at a standstill, but with the coming of fall new leaves commence to unfurl.

FERTILIZE

If the pot is crowded with roots, a feeding of weak fertilizer can be given to these plants now.

Other plants being raised in the greenhouse for some decoration may be the grevillea (Australian silk-oak), ornamental asparagus (A. plumosus and A. sprengeri), Cyperus alternifolius (umbrella-plant) and the billbergia.

All of these are responding well to the combination of heat and the longer period of darkness. In the case of seedling plants of grevillea and asparagus, potting on into a size larger pot can be done at this time.

Knock a plant out of its pot by inverting it over the left hand, which will support the soil ball on the outstretched palm. If roots have reached the outer soil, a size larger pot is indicated.

Use a screened compost and blue whale, or peat moss, mixture and repot firmly but not too tightly.

After repotting, fertilizer should be withheld until the plants have made further new growth, and then watering should also be stepped up, preferably being applied to the pot on the mornings of sunny days.

LONDON LETTER By WALLACE REYBURN

Petulant Dedication

LONDON—If you would like the doubtful privilege of reading the script of the recent musical by John Osborne—(alluded to here as "still angry but not so young") that created such a furore. The World of Paul Slickey has now been published in book form.

Reyburn

With childish petulance the dedication of the book runs: "No one has ever dedicated a string quartet to a donkey, although books have been dedicated to critics.

"I dedicate this play to the liars and self-deceivers; to those who daily deal out treachery; to those who handle their professions as instruments of debasement.

"A donkey with ears that could listen would no longer be a donkey; but the day may come when he is left behind because the other animals have learned to hear."

Real names dept: Life story of Hungarian-born British film maker Alexander Korda reveals that his real name was Sandor Kellner. Merle Oberon, whom he discovered and to whom he was married for a time, started off from Tasmania as Queenie O'Brien.

It was Korda who made the change. Likewise with a former bank clerk named Leslie Stainer, to whom Korda gave a break in the film Service For Ladies. He became Leslie Howard.

Recipe for traffic jam: A survey reveals that of cars coming into London during the morning rush hour, 80 per cent carry only the driver.

Jobless Benefits For Prisoners Asked by Warden

By TONY DICKASON

Federal penitentiary prisoners should be allowed to contribute towards unemployment insurance benefits, Warden E. C. B. Cummins of the B.C. Penitentiary at New Westminster said Tuesday.

This, he said, in an address to the Victoria-North Kiwanis Club, would give them added monetary security on release.

The money would come from sale of hobby work done in the maximum security prison.

He saw this idea as a type of "social security," which would help the prisoner's adjustment to ordinary life.

Looking ahead, the warden predicted there would be a series of "small" institutions established across Canada at the penal level.

This, he said, would eliminate long stretches of time "done" with criminals of varying drawbacks — homosexuals for example.

He forecast prisons allocated to infractors against society that dealt with specific infractions.

Most prisoners, said the warden, "use alcohol" as an excuse for being there.

Alcoholics Anonymous was endeavoring to meet this problem by regular prison visits, he said.

'Only 20% Legally Married'

He also termed "surprising" the fact that only 20 per cent of New Westminster inmates who claimed to be married were legally married.

"We do our best to keep the family together, but often the woman will tire of waiting. We do get divorces," he said of the over-all married prisoner problem.

Inmates of the penitentiary, he said, were "jealous" of their reputations and wanted "good representation" to the public.

Mr. Cummins, a former army lieutenant colonel, six years with the New Westminster Regiment and 27 years in penal work, would seem to be a good spokesman.

"Since the war," he said, "the prison program has been rehabilitation."

And he added "I don't remember the last time we used corporal punishment, it has been so long".

He termed it "an obligation" to return the prisoner to society as closely linked with society as possible. Penology, he went on, now functions towards this end.

By way of example he spoke concerning public speaking classes in the prison, of proven value in adjusting the inmate to life "outside".

"Prisoners," said the warden, "are individual work," as opposed to collective treatment.

He quoted from letters received from inmates, now released, who had been helped by the prison system.

'Hi There, My Good Friend'

One, from a habitual criminal, started "Hi, There, My Good Friend!"

This was a chap, sentenced to eight years, who was allowed to do "pre-release" work in a warehouse, reporting back to prison at night. He earned $200 by this means.

This sort of thing was advantageous, said Mr. Cummins, because the average prisoner released receives $20, a ticket to where he was convicted, and a suit of clothes—not much with which to face the world.

First time the "habitual" was taken downtown, he was so frightened of traffic he refused to leave the car.

This was an example, said Mr. Cummins, of the obvious difficulties of adjusting to society.

Of the "open" penitentiary at William Head, he said it was a "splendid vehicle" for temporary release programs, "as it is one of trust."

"Men have come to me and said how good it is to be trusted."

He added: "This community has a right to be proud of William Head."

People who leave the maximum security establishments are generally not prepared to meet life; thus the need for such establishments, he said. There are two others in Canada, at Valleyfield, Que., and Springfield, N.S.

Of the 150 men released from William Head during its comparatively short term of operation, "only one" has gone back to prison.

In the New Westminster penitentiary today are 675 prisoners, and only 530 cells.

Seamen Quit Tow Voyage; Flown Home

HALIFAX (CP) — Twenty British seamen who refused to stay aboard the vessel Westriver when she left here Sunday for an Atlantic crossing under tow left for home by air today.

An immigration department spokesman said the seamen accepted "voluntary repatriation" to England after negotiations with the shipping company.

Twenty-one crew members left the 10,000-ton bulk cargo carrier, charging she was unseaworthy and would not be able to complete the crossing.

The company will pay the men's way to England.

PREMIER SAUVE

GEORGES LAPALME
. . . it's different now

ABOUT-FACE CHARGED

Quebec Premier Jibed By Liberal Leader

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal House leader Georges Lapalme Tuesday accused Premier Paul Sauve and his Union Nationale party of not speaking up when Premier Duplessis was alive and of effecting an about-face on many issues in recent weeks.

Premier Paul Sauve, countered that the charge is untrue and that the government has not changed its policy as he and Mr. Lapalme opened the traditional Throne Speech debate in the legislative assembly.

Mr. Sauve made no major statement on government policy not already announced. He did not say a word about his negotiations with Finance Minister Fleming to break the Ottawa-Quebec deadlock over university grants.

Essentially, he said, his government will continue to claim Quebec's full rights under the Canadian Constitution and will not plunge the province into any hospital insurance scheme without knowing where it is going.

THREE-HOUR ATTACK

Mr. Lapalme, in a three-hour speech, needled the government over what he called its changed attitudes on matters relating to hospital insurance, education grants, the Trans-Canada Highway, reclassification of civil servants and grants to classical colleges for girls.

The opposition leader said he had fought Mr. Duplessis while he was at the height of his power. "I did not wait until he was dead to criticize his policies."

Mr. Sauve replied that as an army officer he took orders and did not consider himself in charge of Allied forces. And as a Union Nationale cabinet minister he had not pretended to be premier.

He emphasized that on the basic principles of constitutional and federal-provincial issues the Quebec government's attitude had not changed.

YMCA REJECTS 'TROUBLESOME' EX-ALCOHOLICS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg's Central YMCA has adopted a policy which closes its facilities to members of Alcoholics Anonymous. James McConnell, the YMCA's general secretary here, confirmed today that the ban had been in effect for several months.

Mr. McConnell was commenting on a report that a member of Alcoholics Anonymous—an international organization for the rehabilitation of alcoholics—had been refused a room in the Central YMCA Monday.

"We have had trouble with AA so we are not taking them in," Mr. McConnell said. He did not elaborate.

Million-Name Petition Backed Here

Bargaining Drive By Civil Servants

Victoria federal civil servants Tuesday approved a plan for a million-name nation-wide petition asking the House of Commons to recognize their right to collective bargaining.

The proposal came from Vancouver federal workers, and although it was endorsed by the Joint Action Committee set up by the Victoria federal civil servants, it still must be approved by their national headquarters.

"Headquarters looks on it with favor," said G. K. Sammon, chairman of the Victoria committee, but he could not say when the petition would be launched.

FIRST TIME

If the national organization goes ahead with the plan and presents the petition to the House of Commons, Mr. Sammon says it will be the first use of the "petition of right" in Canadian history.

He said by federal law any citizen may petition the government if he is deprived of any right guaranteed by the laws of the land.

"And the civil servants are denied the rights guaranteed their counterparts in private industry," he said, referring to bargaining privileges.

The petition is also expected to request publication of the recommendations made to the government by the federal civil service commission. The federal workers say the commission recommended wage increases and the federal cabinet rejected the proposal.

Sentence Commuted

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet has commuted to life imprisonment a death sentence against Joseph Takacs, 54-year-old Hungarian immigrant convicted in an Ontario retrial last September of the murder of his eight-year-old son.

ISLAND DIGEST

Job Picture Brighter In Cowichan

DUNCAN — There are fewer people out of work in the Cowichan district this year than last.

Monthly report of the National Employment Service shows that the number of unplaced job-seekers during the period ending Nov. 20 stood at 622 compared to 725 in the same month last year.

Logging and lumbering industries maintained full production with only slight cutbacks as operators attempted to build up inventories in anticipation of improved market conditions.

Return of workers from other sections of the province where weather conditions have caused shutdowns has helped relieve the shortage of loggers that existed last month.

OPTIMISTIC

Retail trade was sluggish as the district has not fully recovered from the 69-day IWA strike. Merchants are optimistic, however, that Christmas buying will be equal to last year.

According to the report, "tight money" has affected the construction of many residential dwellings. Coupled with the completion of many construction projects, this situation has resulted in a surplus of carpenters and construction workers.

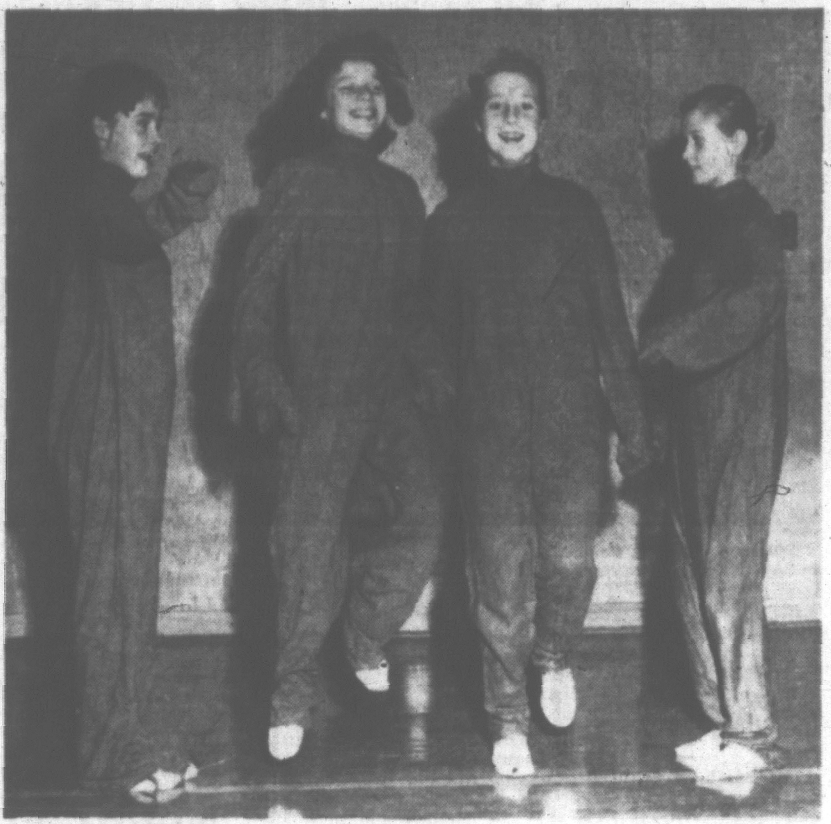
Careless Drivers Fined at Duncan

DUNCAN — Two drivers were fined after pleading guilty to careless driving charges before Magistrate A. C. Sutton in Duncan police court Tuesday.

James William Lloyd King, Victoria, was fined $25 or 30 days and paid $3.50 in court costs. He was charged following an accident at 7 p.m. on Nov. 2 when he skidded his vehicle 42 feet off Sherman Road, went 108 feet in the ditch and knocked over a power pole.

Darryle Cave, Chemainus, was fined $30 and paid $5 court costs. Cave had rolled his car, near Chemainus on the Old Island Highway, Nov. 21, damaging the vehicle a total of $300.

Magistrate Sutton suspended his driver's licence for 30 days on the third conviction of driving without due care.



"TEDDY BEARS" who will appear in pantomime Saturday at 3 p.m. in St. John's Hall, Balmoral Road, Victoria, are, from left, Ellen Van den Berg, Gerry Kolinski, Shirley Milne, Eleanor Ruffle, all of Belmont Junior-Senior High School. Royal Bride Chapter IODE is sponsor of program, to include Belmont school band, Wynne Shaw dancers, YMCA trampoline act, accordionist Betty Warren, and magician Owen Fowler. Tickets are on sale at Hudson's Bay. (Times photo)

Multi-Purpose Court Planned For Langford

LANGFORD — A basketball court which could be transformed readily into a lacrosse box or an ice or roller rink will be the next project of Langford Recreation Commission.

Mrs. K. Cameron, commission treasurer, said the commission has $743 on hand, of which $439 is earmarked for park improvements and the rest for promotion of community activities.

BUSY YEAR

In its first year of activity the commission, headed by Fred Merriman, has seeded the community playing field, organized keep-fit classes, and given financial support to other groups.

A house-to-house survey of district recreation needs has been taken and results are now being compiled.

Projects in the planning stage are completion of a soccer and baseball field, construction of a shuffle and checker board, completion of the children's playground, installation of a park midway and active encouragement of all forms of recreation.

A new slate of officers will be up for election at the next meeting, set for December 9, in Langford Firehall, at 8 p.m.

Westholme Holstein Leads Pack

DUNCAN — A 10-year-old Holstein cow owned by Messrs. Bonsall and Halk of Westholme headed the list of cows with records of more than 400 pounds of butterfat for October in the Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Tsussie Lady Colantha made the creditable production of 17,330 pounds milk and 717 pounds butterfat in 305 days.

The runner-up was a Guernsey from the herd of Trevor Bazzett, Maple Bay, with 10,130 pounds milk and 602 pounds fat.

SNOOKUMS

The top two-year-old was Snookums, a cross-bred Jersey-Holstein owned by Frank Parr, Cowichan Bay. She gave 11,176 pounds milk and 510 pounds fat.

All records were compiled by district inspector Ben Harrison.

DUNCAN—Herbert Roberts and David Tattam, Cowichan Holstein 4H Club, and David Bapty, Saanich Holstein 4H Club, have won the three show halters given by the Vancouver Holstein Club.

The prizes are given for 4H members in their first year of 4H club work with the high achievement scores in their respective age groups.

Qualicum Wins Fight To Keep E & N Station

QUALICUM BEACH — Efforts of local groups to have the E&N Railway station here kept open on a year-round basis have been successful.

Board of Transport Commissioners in Ottawa announced by letter that the application of the CPR to close the station except during the summer months had been dismissed.

The Qualicum Beach village commission was joined by local organizations, including the Qualicum Beach Chamber of Commerce, Retail Merchants' Association and the Union of Railway Telegraphers, in a strong protest last month.

The station was opened in 1913 and has operated since on a full-time basis except for a period during the depression of the 1930s.

PORT ALBERNI—City will invest $30,000 in its own local improvement debentures, it was decided by city council this week.

Bylaws totalling $68,000 for sidewalks, sewers, drains and street improvements have been introduced in council. Money for the investment came from tax sales.

BOY ADMITS STEALING SHOTGUN

A 14-year-old boy was remanded to Dec. 2 before Magistrate A. C. Sutton in juvenile court today after he admitted breaking into a home here and stealing a shotgun.

An RCMP constable told the judge the boy might need a doctor's help. He suggested the father take the boy to a psychiatrist.

"It might cost you some money now, but it will save you in sorrow later."

The father said the boy "has had innumerable clashes with officers of the law."

'Rainbow' At Fuller's Next Summer

CHEMAINUS—Anglers will be able to fish for rainbow trout in Fuller's Lake next summer, game biologist Dave Hurn said today.

Mr. Hurn said a recent test of the lake showed it completely free of the chemical toxaphene, used a year ago to kill off coarse fish prior to restocking.

The test was made with live fingerlings which showed "an excellent survival."

The game branch plans to restock the lake, located just off the Trans-Canada Highway at the entrance to the community, with 2,000 rainbow trout of from four to five inches in length, in plenty of time to permit fishing next summer.

STAYS CLOSED

However, the lake will remain closed to the public until that time.

"We will restock the lake semi-annually or annually if the fishing pressure is heavy," Mr. Hurn said.

Wheddle's Lake, just west of the community, which was chemically treated last year at the same time, has also been found to be free of toxaphene. Unlike Fuller's Lake, however, it will not require restocking.

RESTOCKED ITSELF

"We found on checking," Mr. Hurn said, "that this little lake has restocked itself naturally. Cutthroat trout from a nearby creek have introduced themselves into the lake and are increasing."

At the present time, Wheddle's Lake is also closed to the public but is likely to be opened shortly.

Galloway in Scotland is known for its hornless black cattle and a special breed of small horses.

DUNCAN PLAN GAINS MOMENTUM

Mall Talks Scheduled For Chamber, Council

(From Duncan Bureau)

Effort to establish a downtown shopping mall here gained impetus this week when Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce retail merchants' division decided to put the proposal before city council.

A meeting will be sought to bring together the council, the chamber, and consulting engineer Russell E. Potter of Victoria, who suggested the mall plan. All information available on shopping malls will be gathered for the meeting.

BLOCK LONG

Proposed by the engineer is a block-long mall on Station Street between Canada and Craig, paved the full width and including trees, flower gardens, a fountain, and children's play area.

The chamber will seek more information as to the advantages of the plan and its final cost.

Discussed at length was a proposed "Jaywalker's Jamboree," designed to attract shoppers to Duncan.

During the proposed jamboree period, certain streets in the downtown area would be closed off to vehicular traffic and shoppers would be free to "jaywalk" to their heart's content.

There would also be "carnival type" attractions and stores would offer special prizes. The proposal will be discussed again.

STORE HOURS

Large food stores announced they would keep regular store hours prior to Christmas with the exception of Dec. 23, when they will remain open until 9 p.m. The biggest department store in Duncan announced it would stay open to 9 p.m. Dec. 19, 22, and 23.

Record Budget Studied by Nanaimo

NANAIMO—A provisional 1960 budget for $2,130,800 for the city of Nanaimo has been presented to council.

The budget would be the highest in the city's history.

* * *

NANAIMO—Only 887 persons this week were registered as looking for work, compared to 1,155 at the same time last year, the National Employment Office reported.

One of the reasons given for the decrease was that sawmills and pulp mills are maintaining production in an off-season for other industries.

Land Developer Has His Problems

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

Riddle: When is a deal almost not a deal?

Answer: When the prospective deal is announced before it is actually closed.

Malone

A riddle of this kind had Victoria land developer Milton King looking for tall buildings to jump off recently.

Mr. King was the man behind a Royal Canadian Mounted Police plan to seek new division E headquarters in Victoria.

Primarily the RCMP wanted at least four acres with land, sea and air accessibility. Since the force also employs a number of civilians, adequate bus service was another requirement.

For months King turned up possible sites. But RCMP requirements, being as rigid as its discipline, ruled against them.

To complete Mr. King's frustration, a segment of thinking at Ottawa favored locating the division at Nanaimo instead of Victoria.

Ultimately, however, Mr. King found a site in Esquimalt which seemed good enough to overcome all objections.

Piece by piece he put it together. When all the pieces fell into a four-acre pie, Mr. King presented the plan to Ottawa. It met with favorable reception but Ottawa, being Ottawa, moved with its customary speed. That meant that weeks, perhaps months would go by before the deal was finally approved.

Mr. King waited patiently. Then one day Mayor Scurrah remarked casually that while in Ottawa to seek contracts for Victoria shipyards, he had heard the RCMP headquarters here was moving to Esquimalt.

MORE TROUBLE

This would—or could—have been enough to capsize the King plan. But things got worse before they got better. An irate politician clipped the newspaper story containing the mayor's announcement and whipped it off to Ottawa.

Ottawa, or that segment of it which had favored relocating the division at Nanaimo rather than in Victoria, was disturbed.

The official eastern brass wanted to know: (a) why the story had leaked out and (b) what role did Mr. King play, if any, in the leak.

To untangle the snarl Mr. King reached for his telephone. Several minutes and $65 later he had convinced Ottawa that he was not the villain involved in the leak.

Still shaking from the possibility of seeing months of toil slide down the drainpipe, Mr. King conducted a one-man tour of the new RCMP site.

It consists, briefly, of a former nursing home owned by James and Annie Eccles at 701 Sea Terrace, and adjacent lots. The home, built for the late Senator Barnard, is a magnificent cut stone affair with fumed oak panelling and other materials seldom seen today. Irreplaceable at $100,000 it will likely be torn down, a victim of the trend to structures more practical and less fancy.

Green lawns stretch from the home down to a protected cove, ideal for a patrol boat dock as well as a seaplane base.

Altogether the site seems completely desirable for RCMP purposes. But, as Mr. King said, there were times when it didn't look as if the deal was going to materialize.

In the land development business, as in the kitchen, too much chit-chat by too many cooks can ruin the stew.

B.C. Electric transportation officials, like other merchants, like Christmas for the dollars shoppers drop in the sock. Like other businesses, however, the BCE has its share of Christmas headaches.

One came to light Tuesday when retail merchants and the BCE were discussing the belt-line shoppers' special bus service in the downtown area.

It was suggested by one merchant that the southern loop embrace Humboldt rather than Courtney Street.

"Oh, no," wailed a BCER spokesman. "There's a liquor store on Humboldt which just about drives us nuts at Christmas. People double park and a bus can be held up for hours."

Perhaps there's a moral there. After all, if you're held up, you can't drive. And isn't someone always preaching: "If you drink, don't drive."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Loblaw's Big Jump Feature at Toronto

Stocks on the Toronto exchange moved higher today in comparatively heavy but dull trading.

Western oils, which hit a low Tuesday, climbed out of their slump and showed a gain of under a point.

Loblaw Inc. continued to lead industrials, gaining a whopping nine points at 145. Ford went up three points to 76 and Dominion Stores gained 1¼ at 50¾.

Selected issues were in demand at New York as the market moved unevenly in active trading.

AT TORONTO mines were quiet. All senior uraniums gained fractions on small turnover. Algom was up ⅜ at 10⅝ and Consolidated Denison gained ⅛ at 10¼. Gunnar won 15 cents at $9.65.

AT NEW YORK Aluminium gained 1½, Walker-Gooderham 1 International Nickel ⅞, Distillers Seagrams ⅛, and Granby Mining ¼.

On the American stock exchange, Canadian Marconi gained ⅛ while Shawinigan lost ½, and Scurry Rainbow Oil ⅛.

AT MONTREAL utilities and steels inclined downwards in light trading on the stock exchanges.

AT LONDON stock markets were uncertain today.

Gilt-edged securities were generally lower and dollar stocks were irregular.

Small losses were recorded in the industrials. Steel shares and motors were somewhat lower on balance.

Former Bank Chief Dies at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Byron S. Vanstone, 75, former chairman of the board of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, died Tuesday after a brief illness.

He retired as chairman in 1956 but continued as a member of the board.

Mr. Vanstone became a vice-president of the bank in 1948 and was named president in 1951.

BANK CHIEF SAYS:

Business Recovery Major Development

TORONTO, (CP)—Canadians are better off than they have ever been, J. S. Proctor, president, said today at the annual meeting of the Imperial Bank of Canada.

The vigor of the business recovery from the 1957-1958 decline, Mr. Proctor declared, is the most important development of the year.

Government spending had been one of the important sustaining factors in the downturn and now government policy, through fiscal measures, should also play its part in curbing inflation in the upturn. Mr. Proctor added:

"This means that in times of boom the growth of government expenditures on goods and services must be carefully controlled and that government should then balance its budget or run surplusses.

"A great difficulty is in making adjustments quickly enough to prevent anti-recessionary action from becoming an inflationary force as we move into recovery . . ."

TIGHT MONEY CAUSES

Current tighter money and higher interest rates, Mr. Proctor said, reflect high government spending, rapid technological change, high consumer spending and prosperity in external markets, all creating high demand for capital.

"Interest rates much higher than those of the last 20 years will probably be with us for some time.

"That interest rates now are high and credit tight is not because there has been no increase in the money supply and in bank credit. On the contrary, the money supply expanded rapidly in late 1957 and in 1958; and this expansion was accompanied by the acquisition of $1,400,000,000 of government securities by the chartered banks.

"Beginning in late 1958 and continuing throughout 1959 bank loans were expanded by almost $1,000,000,000, or nearly 20 per cent."

Commenting on the United States' current adverse balance-of-payments situation, Mr. Proctor said the U.S. may find it difficult to maintain present levels of foreign aid.

Other countries, Canada included, now might reasonably be expected to assume a greater proportion of this burden.

B.C. FARMERS 'SQUEEZED'

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia farmers are on the short end of the cost-price squeeze, L. A. Atkinson, general manager of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, said Tuesday night.

He told a Kiwanis Club meeting that the net income of B.C. farmers declined five per cent between 1951 and 1957 while the average wages of all B.C. workers except those in agriculture increased by 39 per cent.

Living Costs In U.S. Hit Record Peak

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Living costs climbed to an all-time peak in October, the government reported today.

The labor department said its consumer price index rose two-tenths of 1 per cent last month to 125.5 per cent of average 1947-49 prices. It was the sixth increase in the last seven months.

As a result, an estimated 1,250,000 workers in the auto, farm equipment, aircraft and electrical industries will get penny-an-hour pay boosts.

Prices of every major group of goods and services except food went up in October.

About three-fourths of the increase was attributed to the impact of new 1960 cars and a one-cent-a-gallon rise in the federal tax on gasoline.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, predicted further increases in steel-made items because of the scarcity of the basic metal due to the steel strike.

Clague explained that dealers do not give discounts on 1960 models as they have done for several months on 1959 cars. This causes the index to rise, he said.

Transportation prices went up 1.4 per cent from September to October.

Rents showed the biggest monthly change in two years to push up housing costs by three-tenths of 1 per cent.

Clothing prices rose to their highest point in 30 years because of the higher costs of women's dresses, coats, suits and shoes.

ANOTHER VOTE ON FLUORIDES?

A fifth referendum may be needed if voters in Greater Victoria's four municipalities approve fluoridation of the water supply next month.

Water commissioner Ronald Upward said Tuesday the water board probably will consider this week the position of water customers in unorganized areas where no votes have been scheduled.

"If Greater Victoria municipalities vote for fluoridation, I think we still will have to conduct a vote in the unorganized area," he said.

HOFFA NEARER OUSTER

'Watchdogs' Win Key Legal Point

JAMES HOFFA
. . . glared at judge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The court-appointed "watchdog" group charged with cleaning up the giant teamster union won an important legal victory Tuesday in its fight to oust union President James R. Hoffa.

As Hoffa glared his displeasure, Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts granted the watchdog group's request for broad powers to investigate Hoffa's handling of funds of Detroit Teamster Local 299, his home local.

Letts specifically authorized the board of monitors to subpoena witnesses and take sworn statements. This is intended as a prelude to a full-dress court trial of Hoffa on charges of violating the Letts court order that allowed him to assume the teamster presidency in January, 1958.

A two-man majority of the monitors has asked Letts to oust Hoffa if he is found guilty of the charges. He also could be tossed out of the teamsters.

Toronto Teamsters Vote Hoffa Trustee

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto General Truck Drivers' Union said Tuesday members have voted 526 to 19 to place the union under the trusteeship of James Hoffa, international president of the Teamsters' Union (CLC).

The Toronto union, Local 938 of the Teamsters, represents 5,000 drivers and warehouse men in Ontario.

Voting was held in various Ontario centres but officials had no explanation for the light turnout. The vote was said to be a decisive victory for Mr. Hoffa and I. J. (Duke) Thompson, Teamster representative named administrator of the local after a wild-cat strike in April.

President Ken McDougall of Oshawa had campaigned against the trusteeship move.

Mr. Hoffa made a surprise appearance at a meeting last weekend to assure members that the trusteeship would be temporary and that the international union would stand behind any decisions taken by members.

Closing of Seaway Definitely Nov. 30

HALIFAX (CP)—Transport Minister Hees said Tuesday night the St. Lawrence Seaway will close definitely Nov. 30 and all shipping has been warned the date will not be changed.

He said his department believes in equal prosperity for all and does not intend to take any action that will hurt another Canadian port.

There was no survey under way to determine ways of keeping the St. Lawrence ice-free the year round. He said the only process found so far to prevent ice involves the agitating of the water by heated piping, known as the bubble process. It is unsatisfactory and too expensive, Mr. Hees added.

The minister is to open a new transport department building today.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Tuesday:

Vincent Sylvester, West Saanich Reserve, $25 for driving without a licence.

Jack Hilliard, 3940 Windsor, $35 for careless driving.

William Arnold Foster, 2575 Blackwood, $20 for speeding over 30.

Gurditta Singh, 2816 Irma, $15 for turning from wrong traffic lane.

In Esquimalt police court Monday:

George Lothian, HMC Dockyard, $35 for careless driving.

ADAMS HEADS VIEW ROYAL LIBERALS

The re-organized View Royal Liberal Association elected William Adams as president at a recent meeting.

Don Ross was named vice-president, Mrs. Doris Adams secretary, Thomas Bryden treasurer and provincial leader Ray Perrault as honorary president.

The meeting, attended by 25 members, was addressed by Victoria MLA and Liberal House leader George Gregory. Oak Bay MLA P. A. Gibbs also attended.

Milk 'Scare' Over

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A shipment of Canadian milk for Italian orphans was given a clean bill of health Tuesday night after a scare that several cases of varnish might have got mixed with it.

GERMAN PRODUCTION HITS ALL-TIME HIGH

BONN, West Germany (Reuters)—Industrial production in West Germany during October reached an all-time record, the Economic Ministry said Wednesday.

Provisional figures showed the production index nearly 8 per cent up from October, 1958, with nearly all branches of industry involved.

Industrial production in the first 10 months of this year was 6 per cent higher than in the comparable period last year.

Cougars Try Luck After Totems Win

Seattle Breaks Vancouver Skein On Forum Ice

Seattle Totems have done their part, now it's up to Victoria Cougars.

Totems finally showed Vancouver fans that the Canucks can be beaten on home ice when they clipped the Canucks 2-1 at Vancouver Forum Tuesday night.

It was Vancouver's first loss in 11 Western Hockey League home games this season and ended Canucks' chances of breaking their own league record of winning 12 successive home games, which they set in the 1953-54 season.

TOTEMS MOVE UP

Totems climbed into second place, one point ahead of the Cougars with the win, but what is probably more important, they prevented the Canucks from stretching an already-imposing league lead.

Cougars get a chance to keep Vancouver within shooting range when they tackle Art Chapman's crew at Memorial Arena tonight in their first home game since returning from a six-game Prairie trip.

Victory for the Cats would send them back into second place, seven points behind the Canucks, who will move 10 ahead of Seattle if they whip the Cats.

In other WHL games played Tuesday, Edmonton Flyers edged Calgary Stampeders 5-4 and Spokane Comets skated to a 5-3 victory over the Warriors at Winnipeg.

CANUCKS TRY HARD

Seattle, powered by Guyle Fielder and Jim Powers, stood up to a determined drive by the Canucks in the third period. Eddie Dorohoy, who is fourth among the league's leaders, scored Vancouver's lone goal in the first period.

Edmonton and Calgary went into overtime for a decision which left both teams in a fourth-place tie.

Stampeders lost forward Merv Kuryluk in the second period when he came out of a brawl with Flyers' rearguard Pete Goegan bruised and bleeding. Both players were given majors.

Chuck Holmes' overtime goal gave Flyers the decision. Other goals were netted by Forbes Kennedy, Stu McNeill, Len Haley and captain Hugh Coflin.

Ron Leopold doubled and Jim Moro and Jackie McLeod scored singles for Stampeders.

CELLAR CANDIDATES

Winnipeg and Spokane also ended up in a tie in league standings. Both are sitting in sixth place but one may settle for the bottom spot when they meet again in Winnipeg Thursday night.

Two last-period goals by Ray Brunel got by Spokane goalie Emile (The Cat) Francis, who turned aside 42 shots in the contest.

Les Lilley, a veteran WHL performer, led the Spokane attack with a pair while Ching Johnson, Al Johnson and Ron Attwell scored the others.

Brunel's double and a single by Steve Witiuk accounted for Winnipeg's total.

Goalie Al Rollins, lacking the sparkle he had in previous games, turned away only 21 Spokane shots. Rollins and Vancouver's Hank Bassen are tied for the most shutouts—two apiece.

STAN BALIUK TO PLAY WITH BRUINS TONIGHT

Stan Baliuk, who played for Victoria Cougars for two seasons in the Western Hockey League, is slated to get a taste of National Hockey League action tonight with Boston Bruins.

Plagued by injuries and winless for six games, the skidding Bruins have called up Baliuk from their Providence farm club. He is expected to perform on a line with Jerry Toppazzini and Dick Meissner when Bruins tackle Rangers at New York tonight.

Baliuk currently rates third place in American Hockey League scoring with six goals and 19 assists.

Bruins also expect to move defenceman Doug Mohns up to a forward spot.

ANOTHER SLANT

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Manager Cus D'Amato is centreman in boxing's all-time greatest confusion, whether he's a villain as the New York State Athletic Commission branded him or a martyr as his friends insist.

At 51, this somewhat stocky man with the bristly white hair and military bearing of an old-time Prussian fencing master is the hub of an international hurly-burly that makes even the Joe Gould ruckus of the 1930's seem like a polite tearoom misunderstanding.

Gould, now dead, managed Jim Braddock during the legal hocus pocus that permitted the "Cinderella Man" to jump from the Madison Square Garden Corp. to Mike Jacobs and defend the heavyweight crown against Joe Louis instead of Germany's Max Schmeling.

* * *

That was the time when Schmeling threatened to appear in the ring at Madison Square Garden bowl for a "phantom fight" with Braddock, and then sue everybody concerned. But he never did.

* * *

The present maelstrom of confusion is international, irrational and increasing exasperating.

It would seem a simple situation at first glance. D'Amato manages Floyd Patterson, who lost the heavyweight title to Ingemar Johansson of Sweden at Yankee Stadium, June 26. They had a contract for a return bout somewhere in the United States within 90 days. And promoter Bill Rosensohn even announced it would be staged at the same stadium, Sept. 22.

Hit By Everything Except a Fight

Then the pillow hit the fan. Instead of a fight, we've been smothered with accusations, recriminations, investigations, trans-Atlantic declarations, revocations and even arrests.

The names of Melvin L. Krulewitch, James P. Fusscas, Frank Hogan, Louis J. Lefkowitz, Edwin Ahlqvist, Estes Kefauver, Vincent Velella, Tony Salerno and Edwin S. Schweig have been so much in the papers recently that they will probably be ranked among contenders in the next ring ratings.

D'Amato has the questionable distinction of being blamed by many as the cause of it all. The boxing commission, for example, revoked his licences as manager and second, but only suspended promoter Rosensohn for three weeks.

Boxing men who know D'Amato best feel sorry for him. They say sympathetically: "That poor slob!" They say he "got lost" once he left his gymnasium on 14th Street, where he was an excellent instructor and trainer and a man dedicated to the development of talent.

* * *

They say he was strictly honest and always campaigning to get a "better break" for fighters and managers—even when he was a "collector" for the managers' guild, which was investigated by the boxing commission and banned from the state.

* * *

They say he was a "schmoe," who let his hatred of the International Boxing Club and his fear of it cause him to pick entirely incapable promoters for Patterson's title fights, and caused him to foist "dependable" managers upon challengers and make apparently selfish contracts for TV, movie and radio rights to benefit Patterson.

"But Cus was never crazy for money," said one. "He was broke all his life, and $10,000 in the hole when Patterson won the title. And I guess he's probably still broke now—although Patterson should have plenty."

Whether that minority opinion is right or whether the majority impression of the commission and public is correct may be disclosed during the several investigations yet to be completed.

Will Ticats Try 'Tackle Eligible' In Cup Clash?

TORONTO (CP) — The ghost of the Big Four's deadest football team may manage an ironic chuckle if a certain play unfolds at Saturday's Grey Cup game.

It's known as the "tackle eligible" routine and was devised by Hamp Pool, dismissed as coach of the last-place Toronto Argonauts late in the season

Argos never used it much after injuries to two key men, Paul Fedor and Pete O'Garro. But it's since popped up in the repertoire of Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The speculation now is whether coach Jim Trimble will trot it out against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Grey Cup classic.

He was reported planning to do so in the first game of the Big Four playoffs against Ottawa Rough Riders but changed his mind after the Ticats' hand was tipped in a newspaper story. It was used in the second game with devastating effect.

Argos, in fact, viewed the strategy as so dangerous they were almost afraid to use it.

"We didn't know how to defend against it ourselves," Joe Thomas, Toronto's former line coach, said a while back. "We knew other teams would pick it up and use it against us."

Briefly, it involves some line-shifting to make an eligible receiver at one end suddenly ineligible. The opposite end pulls back to convert the tackle into an end and therefore an eligible man, making an extra receiver on the chosen side.

Must Cope With 'Peg Running Power

As of Tuesday, Trimble wasn't talking about his plans. He held a closed two-hour briefing with his team after rain at Hamilton washed out a scheduled practice.

JIM TRIMBLE
... not talking

It was reported the Ticats had somehow picked up a full scouting report on the Bombers and that it did not come from Ottawa. Trimble said Monday he would like to get the Rough Riders' file, believed to be extensive.

Trimble did concede that he was considering defensive changes to cope with Winnipeg's powerful running attack which averaged 5.1 yards a carry over 16 games.

The Bombers, meanwhile, held a quiet workout on the University of Toronto campus under the watchful eye of coach Bud Grant. They shifted to Varsity Stadium.

Grant's chief worry is that it's been two weeks since the Bombers played a game and even longer since they've been under severe pressure.

"We need work," said Grant.

There was further activity Tuesday at Exhibition Stadium as groundskeepers sought to get it in top shape for its first Grey Cup game.

The weather, unfortunately, intervened. The tarpaulin, in place since last week, was rolled back so the field could be painted when down came the rain.

"The field was in excellent condition," said stadium manager Wally Hayter. "But I'll admit it did get a little wet before we could get the tarpaulin down again."

The forecast was for cold and a bit of snow today so the tarp will be lifted again to let the turf dry out.

Just so things will look pretty for the big event, a substance which Hayter calls "green camouflage" will be used to cover any bare spots.

Ticket Holders Need Not Worry

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—Arena manager Morris Snider said Tuesday $3,615 will be returned within "a week or 10 days" to 211 persons who bought season tickets to watch the now-defunct Trapper hockey club.

The Senior "A" Northern Ontario club folded Tuesday with a deficit of $2,000.

Bonspiel Delayed

Officials of the Civil Service bonspiel have announced that the curling meet will not be held Saturday as previously announced.

No date has been set for the bonspiel as yet but opening draws, as posted, will remain the same.

FIGHT RESULTS

OAKLAND, Calif.—Art Ramponi, 135½, Oakland, outpointed Jimmy Carter, 138, New York, 10.

ERIE, Pa.—Johnny Bizzarro, 133, Erie, stopped Dick White, 131, Youngstown, Ohio, 1.

Ingo Must Stick With Credit Cards

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson may have to wait for his $152,000 after all. It could be a long time, too, maybe six or seven months or more.

And Cus D'Amato, whose licences as manager and second were revoked by the New York State Athletic Commission Monday, isn't out of the picture, either. The 50-year-old crew-cut manager of ex-champ Floyd Patterson said he's going to the courts in an effort to upset the commission's action.

Gen. Melvin Krulewitch, chairman of the three-man commission, released the sad news for Ingemar Tuesday. In a statement, he contradicted one made Monday by Julius Helfand, former chairman and now a plain member.

HELD IN ESCROW

The money has been held in escrow to guarantee Patterson a return fight, according to the terms of the contract for the first Johansson-Patterson bout last June 26 at Yankee Stadium.

Helfand said Ingo could collect it anytime now.

But Tuesday Gen. Krulewitch indicated it was Helfand's personal opinion only.

"The commission has issued no statement regarding the Ingemar Johansson monies and has made no decision as to its disposition," said a Krulewitch statement.

EX-CHAMPIONS PAY RESPECTS TO MAX BAER

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Max Baer, boxing's big clown, was buried Tuesday.

Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Henry Armstrong were among the 1,500 mourners for the former heavyweight champion who died Saturday of a heart attack in Hollywood. He was 50 years old.

Mourners came from all over the United States, but most were from Sacramento, which Baer had called home since he made his professional boxing debut here in 1929.

Warwick Boys Reach Poland

WARSAW, Poland (Reuters)—Canada's hockey-playing Warwick brothers—Grant, Bill and Dick—arrived at Gydnia, Tuesday, for a spell in Poland as hockey instructors.

The Warwicks, formerly with the world-champion Penticton V's in British Columbia, will also play for the Gornik club at Katowice, industrial capital of Upper Silesia.

Aces Put Brakes On Lengthy Skid

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces broke an eight-game winless streak Tuesday night defeating Rochester Americans 2-0 in an American Hockey League game. Attendance was 5,774.

The win left Quebec in the cellar with 15 points and left Rochester and Providence tied for second place with 24 points each.

Norm Corcoran and Bob Barlow were the Quebec marksmen.

BELGRADE (AP) — The Yugoslav Olympic committee decided Tuesday not to participate in the 1960 winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, Calif., because of inferior results and insufficient preparations of candidates.

SUSPENSION LIFTED

15-Day Rap Enough For First Offence

SEATTLE (AP)—The suspension of Calgary defenceman Doug Barkley for roughing an official will be lifted December 3, Western Hockey League headquarters announced Tuesday.

The announcement said investigation disclosed Barkley did not hit referee Al Paradice "with his fist, but did strike him with his forearm ... Barkley has apologized to referee Paradice and is well aware of the consequences should it ever happen again".

This was the first trouble of any kind between a player and an official, said the report, and a 15-day suspension was considered sufficient. Barkley, however, also was fined $200 and required to post a peace bond of $500, which will be returned to him at the season's end.

The incident came in the November 17 game between Calgary and Seattle.

BACK TO BOATS ...

Fighting Fisherman Hanging Up Gloves

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Yvon Durelle, the flamboyant French-Canadian who climbed from the fishing boats of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., to the threshold of a world boxing championship, officially announced his retirement Tuesday.

His decision was made following a conference here with Chris Shaban, Yvon's manager. Shaban said a letter had been sent to the Canadian Boxing Federation notifying it of Durelle's decision.

Durelle, 30, vacates two titles to return to his first love—fishing. He owns four boats in Baie Ste. Anne. He held the British Empire and Canadian light-heavyweight championships and was ranked fourth among world light-heavyweights.

A 14-year ring veteran, Durelle decided to quit the game after an unsuccessful bid for the Canadian heavyweight title last week in Toronto. He was knocked out by champion George Chuvalo in the 12th round.

Durelle's big moment of glory came last Dec. 10 when he knocked a startled Archie Moore to the canvas three times in the first round of their world light-heavyweight title bout. He had Moore down once more in the first round before crumbling under the stinging blows of the old champion. Yvon was knocked down four times himself. In their last meeting, Aug. 12, Moore knocked out Durelle in the third round.

Durelle had 140 professional fights, 105 of which are in the record books. He won 80, lost 24 and fought to one draw. He scored 43 knockouts or technical knockouts and was knocked out four times.

U. OF W. FOOTBALL MASCOT ... ... DOESN'T LOOK LIKE HUSKY

Denali's Lovable, But He's No Beauty

SEATTLE (AP) — In the mind's eye of University of Washington football fans their mascot—the husky—is a sharp-eared, furry-faced, curly-tailed thing of canine beauty.

And the dog named Denali, a gift from the University of Alaska, just doesn't fit. He's a droopy-eared, droopy-tailed, short-haired — albeit lovable — pooch.

Now that Washington is going to the Rose Bowl, student body officers are hunting a "proper" husky. Jeff Studdert, of Fairbanks, Alaska, says they are headed for disappointment.

It would take quite a search in the northland, he says, to turn up a dog to match the imagined ideal. One might be found in the Eskimo settlements around Kotzebue and Barrow, but ...

"There are hundreds of good sled dogs up here, but they are of many sizes, shapes and breeds," he said.

Denali was born in Studdert's kennels, descendant of a long line of sled dogs. He's a pure-bred mixture of malemute and Eskimo dog, and you can bank on that.

A white samoyede—a Siberian breed of sled dog—substituted for poor, unwanted Denali at recent football games, but Denali didn't seem to care. He just wagged his tail and stayed home in the doghouse.

Students at the University of Alaska sent Denali when he was just a cuddly pup, giving every promise of becoming a beautiful mascot.

He flunked out by growing up.

With each passing tournament, more and more Canadians are convinced Stan Leonard is perhaps the finest professional ever developed in the Dominion.

You may still run into an argument, especially with some of the old-timers, but the Vancouver professional's showing in last week's Canada Cup tournament certainly earned him some more fans.

STAN LEONARD

In winning the individual trophy from a field of top international stars, Leonard proved for the second time in five years that he ranks with the best in the world.

In conquering Snead and Middlecoff of the United States, Stan beat out a pair of respected old pros; in besting Gary Player of South Africa and Peter Thomson of Australia, he beat out two of the finest young stars in the world.

He conquered youth and experience and a strange course in again boosting Canada's golf rating to the heights of respectability.

* * *

There was one facet of last week's United Nations' show in Australia that rankled Canadian golfers as much as Leonard's showing pleased them. That was the fact that the U.S. team slipped ahead in the last round to nose out Canada for runner-up honors.

* * *

Nobody particularly cared when the Canada Cup went to Australia, but they did seem to mind seeing Canada beaten out for second place. The rivalry with our closest neighbors is particularly intense because of the fact the U.S. is regarded the leading golf nation in the world.

Canada's fall to third may be blamed on Al Balding, the cigar-smoking Ontario pro, who, at best, can be described as a hot-and-cold performer.

In terms of dollars and cents, Balding enjoyed one great year—1957—but has done little else to convince me that he is on a par with Leonard.

Leonard and Balding have been Canada's representatives in three of the last four years. In 1958, Balding teamed up with Edmonton's Henry Martell and Canada finished 17th—their worst performance since John Jay Hopkins inaugurated his international tournament.

Martell finished 13th in the individual standings with a four-round score of 294. Balding finished 17th with 314 at Mexico City.

Going back over the years, a comparison of Canada's showing in the tournament may be interesting. This is what they did, with Canada's order of finish shown in brackets:

* * *

1959—Leonard 275, Balding 299 (3rd).
1958—Martell 294, Balding 314 (17th).
1957—Leonard 283, Balding 293 (6th).
1956—Leonard 286, Balding 297 (3rd).
1954—Leonard 275, Jules Huot 295 (4th).

* * *

Unfortunately, records for 1955 were unavailable immediately. In our haste to write this column before Leonard's grandchildren started setting records, we chose to ignore that year. We apologize to Balding if it makes any serious dent in the comparisons.

In the five years shown, Leonard's average round was 69.9. Balding's average was 75.2, while Huot, whose only appearance in the Canada Cup series came when the tournament was played on a course with which he was very familiar, averaged 73.75. Martell's four rounds at Mexico City work out to 73.5.

Leonard won individual honors twice. In 1956, he led by two strokes going into the last round but fired a 79 to permit Ben Hogan to win the honors.

Leonard wound up sixth—his poorest showing in the four years. In 1957, at Japan, Stan scored three 71s and a 70 to tie for third place. He won in 1954.

The best Balding has been able to do in the four years is to show in 16th place in 1956.

But it's easy to see why Leonard's following increases with each and every tournament.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE

Sword Dancer Horse of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Sword Dancer, the spunky chestnut colt from Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade Stable, was the unanimous choice Tuesday as horse of the year in the 24th annual poll of the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form.

Not only did the son of Sunglow-Highland Fling get the top award, but the 36 editors, columnist and correspondents gave Sword Dancer a unanimous vote for the three-year-old championship, and also the handicap title by a big margin over Hillsdale and Round Table.

Sword Dancer dinished second to Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby, and second behind Royal Orbit in the Preakness, then won the Belmont Stakes in the three-year-old scramble. He took on and defeated older horses in the Metropolitan and Monmouth Park handicaps, as well as the Woodward Stakes and the Jockey Club Gold Cup. Sword Dancer won eight of 13 starts, and was the top money winner of 1959 with $537,004.

FIRST SINCE 1948

The Brookmeade colt, trained by Elliott Burch, is the first horse since the Calumet Farm's Citation in 1948 to gain unanimous recognition as horse of the year. Sword Dancer is also the first three-year-old to be designated handicap champion since Citation. The clincher was a victory over Hillsdale and Round Table in the Woodward at Aqueduct Sept. 26.

In other divisions the voting was:

Best two-year-old colt or gelding — the Bellehurst Stable's Warfare, unanimous.
Best two-year-old filly—Mrs. Frances A. Genter's My Dear Girl.
Best three-year-old filly—Perge L. Grissom's Royal Native.
Best handicap filly or mare — the Mooring Stable's Tempted.
Best sprinter—the Brookfield Farm's Intentionally.
Best grass horse—the Kerr Stable's Round Table.
Best steeplechaser—Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Ancestor.

ONLY CHAMPS TREATED TO FREE MEALS

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders only came close to getting into the Grey Cup final—thus no testimonial dinner from the city.

A suggestion by Alderman Murray Heit that the team be honored was not entertained by the board of control Tuesday.

Mayor George Nelms said "we have every appreciation of the team and its efforts to get into the finals. Unfortunately this did not happen and we will have to wait for another and more successful year before we can honor the team."

Wily Charlie May Finally Go All the Way in Spiel

VANCOUVER — A wily veteran and the 1959 B.C. cinderella champions were favorites today as play resumed in the annual $9,000 Totem bonspiel here.

The experienced Charlie Cook and the young Barry Naimark foursomes, together with lightly regarded Dana Quinell and Jack Arnet, entered the fourth day's action with perfect 6-0 records. All are from Vancouver.

Cook appeared the most likely to succeed. Tuesday he eliminated two previously unbeaten foursomes to follow up his great comeback victory over pre-bonspiel favorite Reg Stone of Trail, B.C.

While always a contender, Cook has never been able to go all the way in previous bonspiels and provincial playoffs.

Cook has the same rink that has given him the lead in Vancouver's select Big Ten league—Bruce Bennett, third; Jack Hall, second; and Wilf Blackmore, lead.

Naimark's claim to fame is his victory in the 1959 B.C. championships. After two stirring come-from-behind triumphs on opening day the foursome has overpowered its lesser opponents.

The 27-year-old curler has Fred Langen as third; Evan Wolfe as second and Deck Beddoes in the lead spot.

The bonspiel will end Friday night with finals in all events.

The trend of play almost assures that no rink will duplicate Stone's 1958 feat and score a clean sweep of the major competitions.

Taylor in Running for Totem Title

Stone, six-time B.C. champion, is the only skip to turn the trick. He ran the string this year to 13 before losing to Cook.

The Trail shotmaker, together with a score of other entries, remains in the battle for grand aggregate honors with a 5-1 record.

Others include former B.C. champions Frank Avery and Bung Cartmell, both of Vancouver, and Bert Robertson of Edmonton.

Victoria's Gar Taylor stayed in the running in the Totem event by trouncing Jack Glover of Ashcroft, 14-4, but was bounced out of the Vancouver event when he suffered his second setback of the spiel, losing a 7-6 thriller to Keith Deacon of New Westminster.

Two other Victoria rinks, skipped by Larry Marshall and Tony Gutoski advanced in the second primary Evergeen event.

Gutoski, the 1958 B.C. champion, nosed past previously unbeaten Buck Glover of Vancouver, 9-7, and Marshall waltzed to a 14-2 win over the Patrick quartet from Vancouver.

Dave Dunn of Nanaimo lost his first game of the spiel to Arnet and Victoria's Bill McLean dropped two decisions Tuesday, losing in the Pacific and Vancouver events.

Wolves Qualify For Semifinals

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (AP) — Wolverhampton Wanderers, English Soccer League champions, Tuesday night defeated Red Star of Belgrade 3-0 and qualified for the semi-finals of the European Cup of Champions competition.

The Wolves and Red Star drew 1-1 in the first leg in Belgrade. Wolverhampton wins the quarter-finals on an aggregate score of 4-1.

CHICAGO (AP)—The American League champion Chicago White Sox Tuesday invaded the draft ranks of pro football and signed Michigan State's Dean Look to a lush baseball bonus contract estimated at $50,000.

Outfielder Look, 22, only Monday was named all-Big Ten quarterback by The Associated Press and was a top draft choice of Denver in the new American Football League.

The White Sox signed Look for San Diego of the PCL.

Look, a 185-pound, right handed hitter, compiled averages of .298, .343 and .357 in the three seasons of Big Ten baseball competition.

AN EXTENSION PHONE!

Just about the nicest gift any husband ever thought of

And just about the nicest gift any wife or family ever received. It's different, exciting and its pleasure increases every day. And it's so easy to give an extension phone. You can pick up a gift-boxed phone at the Telephone Company, already to put under the tree. Or, for Christmas secrecy, have it delivered to your office. The extension phone will be installed, free of charge, shortly after Christmas.

How to give an Extension Phone for Christmas:

The only charge is for regular telephone service, each month — $1.25 (free installation). One of the attractive features of this gift of service is that you may give it for as long a period as you wish. Many people give it for 1 year. This would come to $15.00. You may pre-pay this or have the $1.25 added to your own telephone bill each month. An especially lovely gift is a coloured extension phone. To give this, there is an additional one-time charge of $12.00. This may also be paid by installment charges on your own telephone bill.

QUACK DUCK

RAYTOWN, Mo. (NEA) — It's getting so a duck doesn't have a chance any more.

An improved decoy, manufactured in Raytown, is perfect in color and appearance and has yet another feature that lures ducks before hunters' blinds. It swims.

With electrically created foot motion, it goes through the water with all the grace of a live bird, creating realistic ripples that can easily be spotted by high-flying ducks.

It operates from eight to 10 hours on a rechargeable wet cell battery and is guaranteed not to fly away.

SURPLUS OF TALL COLLEGE KIDS

Basketball Is One Pro Sport With Enough Talent to Expand

NEW YORK (NEA) — An owner in the proposed new professional football American League asked a veteran scout to compile a draft list of college players.

"To form an eight club league with the caliber of play remotely approaching that of the National," reads the report, "everyone of these boys would have to be signed."

There will, of course, be robust competition from the 12 clubs in the established circuit.

Raymond J. Walsh, general manager of the New York Giants, tells you the average life of a National Football League player has increased —from four years to a little more than five.

Frank Slocum of Commissioner Ford Frick's office has figured out that the average life of a major league baseball player is six and a quarter years.

PLAYER SHORTAGE

The biggest problem of the proposed new Continental League is where to get players. The affluent Milwaukee Braves winding up with Bobby Avila, waived out of the American League at second base gives you a rough idea of the competent player shortage.

So, how about the National Basketball Association taking in Chicago next season and planning to expand from eight teams to three five-club divisions?

"Basketball," said Maurice Podoloff of the NBA in his office high in the Empire State Building, "is the one professional sport with enought talent to expand."

SHORT CAREERS

What is the average playing life of a pro basketball player?

"Less than that of the football and baseball player," replied President Podoloff, "three years to be exact. The standout shooters average seven because the premium is still on getting the ball through the hoop, but overall the whirl is short and for a different reason than in football and baseball. The reason for the brevity of a pro basketball player's span is severe competition.

"Regardless of how good they are, one of them is replaced every four years by a tall kid who stood out in college. Fourteen youngsters broke in with our eight clubs this season and I need go no farther for an illustration than Wilt Chamberlain, who easily could be the greatest basketball player of all time."

OLD PROS COACH

Podoloff cited the St. Louis Hawks in stressing the rapid turnover in personnel. Of the squad which was shifted from Milwaukee only five years ago, Bob Pettit, the remarkable shotmaker, is the only holdover. A couple of older guys, Slater Martin and Clyde Lovellette, were obtained in trades, but the Hawks primarily are a young club.

"The Carl Brauns, Paul Arizins, Slater Martins, Dolph Schayes, Paul Seymours, Bob Cousys, Bill Sharmans, Dick McGuires and Larry Fousts remain in the thick of things for the same reason that a big hitter like Ted Williams or a veteran infielder sticks overtime in baseball," explained Podoloff. "They score and know how to play the other fellows."

What becomes of old basketball players?

"They coach," said Maurice Podoloff. "The last time I checked we had 45 former pros coaching colleges."

American Loop Gains But NL Gates Decline

(By Associated Press)

The American League drew 9,149,454 fans in the 1959 season, its best attendance mark in 10 years, league president Joe Cronin said today.

The figure represents an increase of 1,853,420—about 25 per cent—over the 1958 attendance of 7,296,043.

New York Yankees, who slipped to third place in the standings, led the league in attendance with 1,522,030 at home and also placed the league on the road, drawing 1,967,793.

BOSTON SKIDS

Of the eight teams, only Boston failed to show an increase in home attendance, slipping 92,945 to 984,102.

Cleveland enjoyed the biggest increase, drawing 1,497,976 compared with only 663,805 in 1958. Pennant-winning Chicago boosted its home gate 625,693 to 1,423,144. Detroit was the only other American League club drawing more than 1,000,000 in 1959, with 1,221,221.

The National League's attendance in 1959 declined 170,396 from the 1958 figure but the total of 9,994,200 still was the third highest in the loop's history.

Official figures reported from National League headquarters show the 1959 paid attendance was behind only the 10,164,596 the loop drew in 1958 and the 10,388,470 it drew in 1957.

The league's biggest attendance prior to the end of the war was only 5,446,532 in 1930.

FOUR OVER MILLION

Four of the eight clubs drew more than 1,000,000 fans in 1959 with Los Angeles' world champion Dodgers leading the list with 2,070,720. That was an increase of 225,164 over 1958. Milwaukee, San Francisco and Pittsburgh were others to go over the 1,000,000 mark although Milwaukee had a decline of 221,989.

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati showed attendance increases over 1958 but Cincinnati had the lowest total for the year with 801,298.

450 ATTEND VICTORIA RALLY

'Smear Tactics' Charged Against Fluoride Backers

A charge of "smear tactics" was made against proponents of fluoridation at an anti-fluoride public rally Tuesday night at the Crystal Garden.

More than 450 persons, mostly opposing the fluoridation of Greater Victoria's water supply, attended the meeting sponsored by the B.C. Pure Food Guild, the Fluoridation Investigation Society and the National Health Foundation.

Tom Pickell, chairman of the meeting, told a cheering crowd Victoria's fluoridation faction is making use of smear and shameful tactics to win over the public to their cause.

He lashed out at the fluoridation group after he had received a question from the floor asking why Dr. E. H. Bonner of Washington, an escapee from mental hospital, was not present to speak at the victoria meeting.

Dr. Bonner was one of the speakers scheduled to address the rally.

Mrs. Lydia Arsens, a leading opponent of fluoridation, asked the chairman for permission to reply to the question.

She said she had personally invited Dr. Bonner to speak at the meeting when she met him some weeks ago in Washington.

She said the man was suffering from the effects of years spent in a Communist concentration camp. In addition, she said, he had lost a child and some relatives in Europe.

She explained that Dr. Bonner was well versed on the question of fluoridation, but at times could not compose himself when speaking on a public platform.

He Has Tendency to Wander Off

He has a tendency to drift and to wander off and talk about his long years of suffering in the hands of the Communists she said.

She was shocked that someone had attempted to ridicule a man who had suffered so much, she said.

The meeting was called to hear Dr. F. B. Exner, a former member of the medical faculty of the University of Washington, and Dr. Arthur B. MacWhinnie, a dentist, Seattle, speak against fluoridation.

Dr. Exner said Victoria's health officer, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy who favored fluoridation, didn't know what she was talking about.

"I don't doubt that she believes the things she tells you: but the plain fact is that she doesn't know what she is talking about; and the further fact is that she doesn't dare debate the subject with me, or anyone else who knows the facts," he stated.

He warned the audience that the opposing group would tell the public the fluoridation is "cheap" and would cost each person in Victoria only a few cents a year.

"None of this is true," he said. "If anyone wants his child to have fluoride, and his doctor and dentist agrees, the child can have it tomorrow. It is easy to give, as easy as the cod liver oil and orange juice that most parents now give their children."

He said one of the real issues the public would have to decide when they go to the polls was whether each parent shall remain responsible for the health-care of his child, or whether the city shall care for all children on a mass production basis.

It was recognized, he said, that a city is responsible for the prevention of contagious and environmental diseases.

"But tooth decay is neither contagious nor water-borne," he said.

'Compulsory Medication of Masses'

"I cannot accept the proposition that the city loves your children more than you do; or that the health-care of your child should be decided by the city council, or even by the vote of your neighbors," he added.

He said he favored giving each child fluoride individually.

"But if you put it in water, the dose to the individual cannot be controlled," he said. "In each case, the dose consumed will depend on how much water the person happens to consume.

"The effects on the teeth and on the body do not depend on how much is in the water. They depend on how much gets into the body; and the effects of haphazard dosage cannot help but be haphazard and unpredictable."

Dr. MacWhinnie said the claim that fluoridation was "perfectly" safe was "entirely false."

"Fluoridation is compulsory medication of the masses whether they need it or not, whether they want it or not," he stated. "It ignores the sick, those with impaired kidney and liver function; those who might become sensitized to fluorine."

In answer to a question, Dr. Exner said people were getting sufficient fluorides from other sources without having to put it in water.

The presence of fluorides in industrial smoke and fumes, he said, is increasing.

Another questioner asked Dr. Exner what were the motives for introducing fluoridation into the water.

"There are many motives," he said. "One is the sale of equipment and fluoride.

"Then there are the public health officers who want power and jobs," he added.

He would not admit that fluoridation of water would benefit some people.

"We don't know," he said.

He earlier explained that the long-term effects of fluoridation were not known yet.

ADVERTISING RAPPED BY JUDGE

Brewery 'Wooed' Children

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Supreme Court of Ontario Tuesday described as shocking some ideas developed in a brief on the Carling Conservation Club.

Extracts from the brief, prepared by McKim Advertising Limited, were read at the trial of Canadian Breweries Limited, which has pleaded not guilty to a charge of having formed or operated a combine.

President Ian R. Dowie of Canadian Breweries also said one of the statements in the brief was terrible. The Carling Breweries Limited is a subsidiary of Canadian Breweries.

Parts of the brief that raised the objections dealt with appeals by the club to minors.

The brief said the club was formed in 1945 as a vehicle for public service in the field of advertising and sales promotion.

"It appeals to the broadest segment of the public body; children, teen-agers, young adults and older people," it added.

FIRST CONTACT

Another section said "the conservation, outdoors and wildlife ideas appealed greatly to those minors who today form a large percentage of the beer-consuming public. It provided the first contact between these potential customers and a brewing company."

Mr. Dowie said the statement about public service was fair but the one about appealing to children was terrible. He said the company was careful in the conservation club program to avoid appeals to children.

The brief was prepared by the advertising company in 1957. Carling's rejected an agency proposal that the club be expanded. Club activities in Ontario have been reduced in the last few years, said Mr. Dowie. Its annual budget now is about $20,000 compared with a peak of nearly $100,000.

Liberal Leader Makes Bid To Dissatisfied CCFers

Special to the Times

WILLIAMS LAKE—If present rate of recruitment continues the Liberal party is sure to be at least the official opposition after the next provincial election said Ray Perrault, B.C. Liberal leader at a public meeting here Tuesday night.

"Recent leadership decisions have left CCF members disheartened and bewildered. We invite the small 'L' Liberals among them to join the party for good responsible reform without Socialism."

HUMANITY NEGLECTED

Perrault stated that present government policies place too much emphasis upon material progress while human needs are neglected. He warned of the creation of what he termed "a black top" society on in which progress is measured almost entirely on the basis of roads, bridges and highways built. He said this criterion is false and misleading.

Many of our costly social problems, he said, could be alleviated by vigorous government action and the financial investment required would be relatively small. B.C. leads all Canada in the rate of dope addiction, divorce, convictions for indictable offences, alcoholism, suicides and several other social problems that are costly and governments must help provide solutions to these, he said.

FAMILY COURT NEED

Perrault said:

"For example we need conciliation courts to help keep families together before they disintergrate and cause other costly problems to develop."

He advocated increased social welfare payments to meet the standards set as a minimum by social welfare authorities and he called for a province-wide medical plan for all of the people but "without state medicine."

"Mr. Martin's vague references to an extension of chronic hospital care," he said, "has not satisfied those who want to know what is being done with the $18,000,000 provided by Ottawa under terms of the Hospital Insurance Act.

"Why is this sum not being used to extend our hospital program to chronic care? Is the money being snatched to pay bills that are in arrears or to enhance the premier's fictitious debt reduction objective?"

Perrault said he approved of a good roads and highways program without "making this a cheap political football."

Girl Hammer-Bandit Gets Cash, Clothing

TORONTO (CP) — A teen-aged girl with a hammer as a weapon robbed a west-end store of $25 and a new set of clothes Tuesday.

Mrs. Gloria Charchalys, a part-time clerk, said the girl ordered her to open the cash register. Mrs. Charchalys said she thought the girl was joking until she was hit on the arm with the hammer.

The girl then ordered her into a dressing room and picked out a pair of black jeans, a sweater, a car coat and a pair of shoes.

She changed into the new clothes, left her old ones behind and ran out.

Jim Peters Fund Needs Help To Aid Needy Over Christmas

A Vancouver organization needs help in sending Christmas hampers to needy families and forgotten children in Victoria, Duncan and Nanaimo as well as the mainland.

It is the Jim Peters Fund, named after the captain of the English team at the 1954 British Empire Games who amazed the nation with his determined effort to finish a marathon race despite exhaustion that sent him reeling to the ground several times.

Patron of the fund is Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross. Many of the hampers are delivered by hockey great Fred "Cyclone" Taylor and Capt. Charles Miron.

"This Christmas we expect to send some 300 hampers to large families without a breadwinner, parcels to 50 children without homes who are in Brannan Lake School for Boys and to 60 young offenders in Oakalla and the penitentiary who have no family or friends," said fund chairman Alex Johnson.

"This work by all our members is completely voluntary and only possible through your donations each year. Not a nickel goes for wages or honorariums to our members. They feel privileged to give their services freely."

Here's what the organization has done in the past and what it can continue to do, he said, with contributions sent to 1076 West 41st Avenue, Vancouver:

Capt. Charlie Miron inspected a family last Christmas recommended by Warden Christie and their misery brought tears to the eyes of this case-hardened, six-foot fire-eater. He found them in the basement of a basement; the young mother ill and a two-year-old child sick in bed. They had no food, fuel or light.

"This we handled immediately and also obtained a city welfare cheque for them.

"Another year Harry Robson of the Juvenile Court phoned on Christmas Eve on behalf of a family with five children under 12 and no light, heat or food. On Christmas morning we delivered a large hamper and after the holidays got welfare cheques for them.

"Another time Warden Christie phoned me about a prisoner, unable to pay a small fine, pleading for help to his family.

"We found a mother with a four-week-old premature baby sick and having no food of any kind. I personally held this baby in my arms and was shocked to find it wrapped in a newspaper.

"We notified the Victorian Order of Nurses and immediately a layette was supplied and we provided food, clothes and rent for them and later city welfare cheques were sent to them."

That address, again, is: The Jim Peters Fund, 1076 West 41st Avenue, Vancouver.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS
IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Remember, Carter's not only relieve irregularity, but actually improve the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

SOME WILL LOSE, OTHERS GAIN

Alberta CS Wages Juggled

EDMONTON (CP)—A third of Alberta's 10,000 civil servants may be given salary adjustments as the result of a job classification report which will go to the provincial government at the end of the year, J. H. Holloway, public service commissioner, said today.

He said the report will cover about 70 per cent of the full-time civil service jobs. The remainder will be classified early in 1960.

Salaries for some jobs probably will be increased, while others may be reduced.

Nothing definite has been decided, but it is believed this will not mean a drop in pay for civil servants now in positions which have been "downgraded."

It is expected persons in these jobs will continue to receive the same salaries. Once they leave those jobs, however, their successors would take over at the reduced rate.

This question is still under discussion between the government and the Civil Service Association of Alberta.

B.C. Farmers Ask Protection

Brief Urges Ottawa to Stop Dumping Of U.S. Fruit, New Zealand Meat

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia Tuesday demanded federal government action to protect its fruit and vegetable industries against low-priced imports from the United States.

B.C. also called for protection against imports of New Zealand lamb and mutton to be sold at prices far below locally produced meats.

Agriculture Minister Newton P. Steacy of B.C., at a meeting with federal Agriculture Minister Harkness, presented a brief urging immediate implementation of special duties.

CUSTOMS AT

The brief also asked that the Customs Act be amended.

"While the horticultural industry in British Columbia feels that some tariff rates . . . are inadequate, they feel that the real solution lies in securing protection against distress sales which have been quite common during the past six or seven years."

The brief said the Customs Act has the force needed to protect crops of prunes, apricots and processed tomatoes and should be proclaimed immediately.

SERIOUS RESULTS

"Serious and disastrous results have occurred . . where perishable agricultural products are concerned," it said.

"Nearly all our British Columbia tomato canneries in the interior of the province have been closed due to U.S. imports." Tomato production had ceased to a large degree.

The B.C. minister said in his brief that he realized there would be fear of reprisal from the U.S., but he had discussed this with horticultural organizations in the province and they saw no reason for such fear.

The B.C. organizations had discussed the situation with horticultural associations on the U.S. west coast and had been assured there would be no opposition to such a Canadian move.

Aside from fruits and vegetables, the brief said B.C. also was faced by the importation of New Zealand lamb and mutton sold at prices lower than B.C. prices. "This is causing great concern and already many of our sheep men are considering going out of business."

The brief said this could be corrected if the federal government invoked Section 40A of the Customs Act, which provides that if, in the opinion of the minister, prices in the export country drop to a level that does not reflect their normal price, the value for duty should be the amount declared by the minister to be the average value at which the goods were imported during the preceding three years.

British Columbia produce sales were affected particularly by the fact that the peak of the United States harvest season occurred before that in Canada. Canadian markets were flooded with low-priced imported surplus before Canadian products were ready for sale. As a result, Canadian producers were forced to compete with "distress prices".

LOWER PROTECTION

The brief said tariff protection over the last 24 years has been reduced "by fully 60 per cent", and that some 50 per cent of imports of fresh fruits and vegetables entered Canada duty free.

PHOTOGRAPHER 'ROUGHED UP' BY POLICEMAN

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Hebert, photographer for the daily newspaper La Presse, was held for a short time Monday night in a police station because a policeman didn't want him to photograph an automobile accident involving a police car and a trolley bus.

Hebert said he was roughed up a bit by a constable. He said the constable lifted him by the shoulders and, with a little help from a knee, shoved him into the back seat of another police car.

At the station superior officers apologized, saying the constable apparently was overzealous, and allowed Hebert to go to the municipal garage to take a picture of the damaged car.

'Go Straight' Judge Tells Young Mother

A 22-year-old woman was given her last warning to "go straight" when sentence for theft of an overcoat and eyeglasses was suspended Tuesday in city police court.

Diana Lambert, Chandler Hotel, pleaded guilty to the offence Thursday and was remanded for probation report and sentence.

Police said she took the coat and glasses, property of Peter Robertson, of a total value of more than $50, from a house party in the 500 block Hillside at about 5 a.m. last Wednesday.

They were found stuffed underneath a first floor bathtub in the Chandler Hotel. A/Det. Donald Buie said.

TOO LATE

In putting the woman on six months probation with $250 bond for good behavior, Magistrate William Ostler imposed the condition that she go to live with her mother and child in New Westminster and keep away from her former bad companions.

"If you don't pull yourself out of this wretched environment now, it will be too late," he said.

Reporters Fired

NEW YORK (CP)—The World-Telegram and Sun said today it had discharged two reporters, one of whom admits he had lied when he said an important city official tried to bribe him to stop investigating New York city's slum clearance program.

Ebenezer Elliott, English poet who died in 1849, was also a successful iron merchant.

Philip Will Sponsor Commonwealth Meet

TORONTO (CP)—Some 300 representatives of industry and trades unions from all countries of the Commonwealth will spend a three-week discussion and study period in Canada in 1962.

The meeting—to be called the Duke of Edinburgh's Second Commonwealth Study Conference—was decided upon at a meeting of Prince Philip and a group of Canadian industrial and labor leaders, held June 25 on the yacht Britannia during this year's Royal Visit.

Conference headquarters in Toronto state that the three-year preparations for the meeting now are well under way.

Its general subject will be "The human consequences of the changing industrial environment in the Commonwealth and Empire."

The form of the meeting has not yet been decided, but it may start with an opening study period in either eastern or western Canada, followed by a trip across Canada and closing study periods at the final point of the tour.

STARTED IN 1956

The first Duke of Edinburgh Commonwealth study conference was held at Oxford, England, in 1956 with the Duke initiating it through discussions with industrial and trades union leaders. It also dealt with the human problems of modern industrial developments.

Prince Philip, president of the first conference, will also be president of the 1962 gathering and has stated that he hopes to take part in some of the preparatory meetings.

BUT KALAMAZOO HANGS ON

Toledo Malls Made Streets Again

KALAMAZOO'S MALL: A band concert in the park instead of a traffic jam.

TOLEDO'S SHOPPERS' SEE-WAY: A $15,000 bid to tranquilize a noisy nerve centre.

People Enjoyed Pleasance But Shopping Not Changed

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo's experimental malls, in general, produced a favorable attitude on the part of the public but made no significant change in shopping habits, a survey shows.

The four downtown malls were made into regular streets again last weekend after a 3½-month test.

Peter W. Rogers, president of Rogers National Research, said Tuesday his study showed that parking and traffic still are basic problems. (The plan did not provide extra off-street parking as would a proposed Victoria plan.)

According to his survey, 64 per cent of the public felt the malls made shopping more pleasant, 65 per cent felt they were good for Toledo in general and 64 per cent felt they boosted the city's morale and civic pride.

But although Toledo has reconverted, Kalamazoo, Mich., has made its two-block-long mall, opened Aug. 19, a permanent fixture, and has plans for more; Fort Worth, Tex., boasts one, and smaller Middletown, in southern Ohio, also lets the buildings along its busiest street look out on flowers and shrubs instead of meters and asphalt.

Kalamazoo, which has provided a complete children's playground at one end of its mall, plans to complete the conversion of its entire 52-block downtown core into pedestrian malls before its originally scheduled date in 1980. Downtown merchants report sales increases of 20 per cent and up.

The idea for the Toledo's mall came into being late last June when the county planning commission met to hear a plan for the redevelopment of the entire downtown area.

Sparked by commission president Ned Skelton, the group decided to try a small section of mall at once. They created a special committee, enlisted the support of professional and civic organizations, got an appropriation granted by the city council and, less than a month later, the mall was completed. The actual construction took only two days.

ENTHUSIASTIC

Reactions from storekeepers and business men along the flowery freeway generally were enthusiastic. A poll indicated that 70 per cent of the merchants reported increased sales, some up to 40 per cent. One candy store operator reported an increase of 200 per cent.

Typical non-professional reactions are summed up in the comment of one housewife:

"It gives the downtown area a suburban atmosphere. People are relaxed and casual. They forget they are in the busy city."

But a cab driver complains:

"It would be OK if they could just find a place besides the streets to put it in."

Other comments range from "it just gives the town bums another place to loaf" to "it made the parking situation worse."

PARKING PROBLEM

With the latter complaint Toledo Chamber of Commerce president Vern Buchenberger agrees.

"Parking is the biggest problem. We have plans for a number of city-owned garages. The 'see-way' is only a part of the over-all downtown redevelopment program.

"In the meantime, we're using existing lots and count on employing cleared land until the garages are built," Buchenberger says.

Despite these accompanying problems, the Toledo mall attracted 60 delegations from other cities, as far away as Ottawa Canada, and inquiries from 100 others.

Canadian Appointed by Britain To Advise on African Policies

LONDON (UPI)—Professor Donald G. Creighton of the University of Toronto was among a group of "men of independent mind" appointed Tuesday by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to advise the government on policy in central Africa.

The 26-man commission, headed by Lord Monckton, 68, a former Conservative cabinet minister, will make a preliminary survey of the situation in the federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland in preparation for a conference here next year on the constitution of the federation.

Macmillan told the House of Commons that the commission would be "advisory" and would begin work early in February.

The vice-chairman, Macmillan announced, will be Sir Donald MacGillivray, former high commissioner in Malaya.

Its membership includes Creighton, a history professor, and Frank Menzies, former crown solicitor of the state of Victoria, Australia.

LABOR DECLINE

Macmillan asked the opposition Labor party to nominate three of its former cabinet members to the commission but the party so far has declined the invitation.

"I regard the commission as free in practice to hear all points of view from whatever quarter and on whatever subject," Macmillan said.

FULL OPPORTUNITY

He said it has been decided not to include representatives of African political parties but that these would be given full opportunity to make their views known to the commission.

"What is intended," Macmillan said, "is to bring to this task men of independent mind not committed to extreme views. What really matters is that African opinion of all shades will be fully heard and objectively recorded. I regard the commission as free in practice to hear all points of view from whatever quarter."

Police Asked To Seek Aged Woman Here

A 92-year-old woman or her relatives are sought on Vancouver Island by a New Yorker, who has been in touch with police departments a quarter of the way around the world.

Mrs. Frank D. (Bess H.) Norwich, 1370 Dodge Road, Getsville, N.Y., wrote to city police including a copy of a letter from Liverpool, Eng., police, where Mrs. Norwich made contact last June.

The New York woman said she seeks Alice Molyneaux Webb, who moved from the United Kingdom to Vancouver Island when she married an American. As of July she was still living, according to people interviewed by Liverpool police.

But these people were not able to provide any address which would help locate Mrs. Webb, and hence the general appeal to the public for information.

Mrs. Norwich originally asked for Liverpool investigators for information of relatives of Annie Dunderdale and Jim Molyneaux, who had children named Dorothy (Dolly), about 68 now; Arthur, 60; Nellie, 56, and Edward, 54.

Information may be sent to police or direct to Mrs. Norwich in New York.

The first steam-operated fire engine appeared in 1853 at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Chinese Ordered Out Gets Chance to Stay

OTTAWA (CP)—A Chinese teacher in an Ontario school who has been in danger of being deported now is being given a chance to remain in Canada.

Humphrey Shi Hok Law, 27, a native of Hong Kong, was informed last week he would have to leave the country. Fellow teachers at the high school at Merritton, Ont., rallied behind him.

Tuesday, Immigration Minister Fairclough issued the text of a telegram to Mr. Law which said:

"After a personal review of your case I have decided to defer your deportation and have immigration officials take action to allow your permanent admission to Canada provided you meet normal health requirements."

Mr. Law said Monday in Merritton, near St. Catharines, that he had received word Saturday from the immigration department that his application for permanent residence was refused.

Fellow teachers at Merritton High School were preparing a petition asking that Mrs. Fairclough reconsider the application. The petition has not yet reached the minister.

Mr. Law arrived in Canada in 1953 on a student's visa and graduated from Ottawa's Carleton University in 1955 with a bachelor of commerce degree. He has taught commerce at Merritton the last two years. His visa had been renewed every year until this year, when he applied for permanent residence.

Scott Throws In the Towel

W. A. Scott threw in the towel Tuesday in his battle with the election provisions of the Municipal Act.

He announced he will not file nomination papers for the aldermanic race next month in a test of the law.

Mr. Scott was disqualified from running for civic office for five years as a result of an assault conviction. The disqualification still has a year to run.

He said a required declaration by candidates that they are not disqualified makes "it absolutely impossible for me to run."

Old Craigflower School Property To Be Improved

The old Craigflower school and property, one of the major historic sites of the Greater Victoria area, will undergo some improvements this winter.

The schoolhouse committee Monday decided to install facilities for swimmers and picnic tables on the property and to improve the beach. Four rooms will also be redecorated.

Saanich will pay for improving the beach and grounds out of its winter works program fund.

W. J. V. Church, chairman, reported that a heating plant was installed in the school last month.

The committee operates the school as a museum.

KOREAN WAR NATIONS ASK FREE ELECTION

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Fourteen nations that fought the Communists in Korea issued a new appeal Tuesday for free elections to reunite that country. The Russians immediately denounced it as one-sided and dictatorial.

The appeal was in a resolution, supported by the U.S., Britain and Canada, submitted to the General Assembly's political committee. It parallels resolutions adopted since 1954 by the UN over Soviet objections.

The draft would have the assembly call on the North Korean Communist regime to accept UN principles for peacefully reuniting Korea, especially free elections under international supervision.

Tight Money Tories' Fault Says Pearson

CAMPBELLTON, N.B. (CP) — Federal government policies are responsible for tight money and record high interest rates, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said Tuesday night in his final address of a Nova Scotia and New Brunswick tour.

A government "pledged to reduce spending" had made record expenditures of about $1,000,000,000 more than in the last year of Liberal administration.

"Then, because government spending has been far greater than its income, we have these huge deficits which have had to be met by large government borrowings and which have placed an enormous strain on the funds available."

In its first 15 months in office, Mr. Pearson said, the Conservative government borrowed $1,100,000,000. If "tight money" did not develop at that time, it was because money supply was increased by this amount.

Wage Hike Rejected

LONDON (Reuters) — The biggest union wage demand this year, affecting more than 3,000,000 British industrial workers, was rejected Tuesday by the National Employers Federation.

Cranberries 'Freed'

OLYMPIA (AP)—Washington State officials Tuesday released for sale all canned and processed cranberries, saying tests show they are not contaminated with weed killer.

GOV'T REJECTS PLEA

Press Protests S.A. Censoring

ZURICH, Switzerland (Reuters)—The International Press Institute here has protested to the South African government over alleged restrictions of press freedom in that country, it was learned today.

The institute said in a statement it had received a "most unsatisfactory reply" to representations made to Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd against government measures taken recently against two journalists.

In one case, Ronald Michael Segal, editor of the liberal quarterly magazine Africa South, was deprived of his passport and prohibited under the Suppression of Communism Act from attending any gathering in South Africa for the next five years.

In the other, Henry Barzilay, British free-lance television news correspondent for an American network, the National Broadcasting Company, was expelled from the country.

The institute sent a protest on Oct. 24 over the government's action, asking that both be given the opportunity of a trial "so that they could defend themselves."

But in a reply received this week the prime minister's secretary said the government decided on such matters "on the basis of adequate information at its disposal" and "cannot allow outside influences to intervene in what is clearly a matter of domestic concern."

The International Press Institute, which has its headquarters here, has a membership of some 500 newspaper editors and reporters in 40 Western countries.

5,000-MILE ATLAS 'SCORE'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An Atlas rocket, similar to one expected to start a moon satellite shot soon, dropped a dummy warhead Tuesday within half a mile of its 5,000-mile-distance ocean target.

The 85-foot Atlas headed down range at 15,000 miles an hour. An informed source said the payload fell just half a mile short of its goal off Ascension Island in the South Atlantic.

UNEF IN RED; NEW PROPOSAL FOR FINANCING

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Canada and six other countries Tuesday opened a drive to rescue the United Nations Emergency Force from the red through a new system of payments.

Seven of the partner-countries in UNEF—which stands between Israel and Egypt in the ever-tense Middle East—joined in co-sponsoring a draft resolution aimed at slashing assessment for UNEF on smaller and medium countries.

Norway introduced the resolution in the 14th General Assembly's 82-member budgetary committee after the United States and Britain pledged a total of nearly $3,500,000 in voluntary contributions for UNEF, which is on extremely shaky ground.

The resolution—by stressing the virtue of voluntary contributions from the wealthier countries—seeks in this way to reduce the financial burden on poorer countries which say that UNEF should not be assessed against them in the same way as the total UN budget.

UNEF, whose 1960 budget is estimated at $20,000,000, accounts for one-third of the UN budget of $60,000,000.

The University of British Columbia and the University of California graduate will supervise research on two ranches comprising 5,000 acres near Merced, Cal.

'If Life Saved, Closure Right'

Highway's Minister Gaglardi has defended officials who closed Vancouver's Lions Gate Bridge Monday while a man was brought down from a perch on the span's south tower.

Mr. Gaglardi said the action was justified if it helped save a man's life.

Commenting on a charge by Alderman Earle Adams of Vancouver that the action was a disgrace to the city, Mr. Gaglardi replied: "I wonder if Adams would say that if the man was his brother or son?"

Mr. Gaglardi said if Vancouver City Council asks the provincial government to build screens on the bridge to stop similar incidents in the future, the request will be studied.

Bridge Probe Demanded By Council

VANCOUVER (CP)—An investigation into reasons for closure of Lions Gate Bridge during a 3½-hour attempted suicide drama Monday has been ordered by city council.

The inquiry was ordered after two aldermen criticized the closure, which caused the biggest traffic jam in the city's history.

The diversion became necessary after the Lions Gate Bridge was closed as police, firemen and priests carried out successful attempts to dissuade a 48-year-old logger from throwing himself 360 feet into the waters below.

At that time, police said, the bridge was closed because they feared traffic vibration might shake the man from his perch.

Ald. Frank Baker said he didn't think the would-be suicide's life would have been "endangered one iota" by leaving the bridge open.

Ship Sinks, 15 Lost

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP)—Fifteen lives were believed lost today in the sinking of the 485-ton costal vessel Holglen off New Zealand's south island. Two bodies have been recovered. No survivors have been found.

Three in Esquimalt Seek Council Seats

Three men are in the field so far for the three council seats that expire this year in Esquimalt.

They are: Coun. Walter Holder and Coun. G. K. Sammon, who both announced decisions Tuesday night to stand for re-election; and 38-year-old newcomer Peter Francis, a past-president of the Esquimalt Legion.

Coun. Arthur Fields, whose term also expires next month, said he still has not made up his mind.

Coun. Holder, who has served nine years in office, is acting reeve and chairman of the public works committee. Coun. Sammon, a six-year veteran, is chairman of the fire and light committee.

'LETDOWN' FROM TENSION

Headaches 'Solved'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Do you suffer a severe headache when you suddenly ease up after a stretch of tough work? There's a name for it—"let-down headache." Its most likely victims are clergymen, teachers and office workers.

This newly-recognized ailment was described Tuesday by Dr. Lester Blumenthal of George Washington University.

He said ministers and priests may come up with such headaches on Monday mornings "when they let down after the week's tension of preparing for and delivering perhaps two sermons on Sunday, hearing confessions on Saturday, and so on."

School teachers are vulnerable on Saturday mornings "when they wake up and suddenly realize they don't have to face 40 young hyenas as they have all week."

Blumenthal said government workers also are frequent sufferers.

He told about the phenomenon at a panel on headaches during the annual scientific assembly of the District of Columbia Medical Society and amplified his remarks at a press conference.

VESSELS STRETCH

Blumenthal said let-down headaches result from excessive stretching of the blood vessels. For reasons still unknown, many people are physiologically constituted so that their vessels are likely to stretch excessively after emotion or physiological stress.

In the case of the let-down victims, Blumenthal said, they build up tension during the week. This causes certain body chemicals, including adrenalin, to keep the blood vessels and other tissues of the head in proper tone.

Then comes the let-down. With tensions removed, the blood vessels stretch, blood rushes through them faster and headache results.

Blumenthal says that in many cases they can be prevented by:

1. Pacing yourself during the week so you don't build up so much tension.
2. Sleeping with the head of your bed elevated.
3. Avoiding constipation.
4. Getting up early or setting your alarm clock so you'll wake up in the night for a while. Too much sleep at a stretch may tend to stretch your blood vessels.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1959 23

Two Admit Burglary From City Warehouse

'Code' Doesn't Tell How To Kill Dogs

Small Fine Not 'Judicially Wrong'

The Criminal Code of Canada does not lay down any method for killing a dog or any sentence for cruelty to animals.

"The fine could be anything from one cent to $500," said Judge J. B. Clearihue in a judgment released at Victoria County Court today.

The judge therefore dismissed a crown appeal that a $10 fine for cruelly killing a dog is "not enough."

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy had argued that Magistrate [illegible]. I. Thomas should have imposed a heavier fine on trailer camp proprietor Ernest Kay when he pleaded guilty in Colwood RCMP court Sept. 11 to killing a terrier by striking it over the head with a butcher's block brush.

The judge noted that Mr. Kay said he was a butcher by trade.

NO DETERRENT

He said the crown prosecutor had urged that a $10 fine was not sufficient to act as a deterrent against cruelty to animals, but he had "not suggested to me what is the proper fine which would be a deterrent to others."

Judge Clearihue said under the present Criminal Code he could not find that the magistrate was "judicially wrong" in imposing a $10 fine.

Reconstructing the evidence, the judge said the dog was a small terrier about eight months old. It had been owned by a Mr. Nystrom, who was staying at the Belmont Trailer Camp on the Sooke Road last summer.

When Mr. Nystrom left, the dog was abandoned and there was no one to feed it, although it appeared that some of the residents gave it food.

The dog had been a nuisance around the camp, had snapped at people and had been tied up a good deal. Several of the residents had complained to the SPCA about the dog but (so witnesses said) the SPCA had done nothing about it.

"Mr. Kay decided to get rid of the dog and took it into his house where he killed it by striking it on the head with a butcher's block brush," the judge continued.

DOG YELPED

"He says he struck the dog twice on the head. . . . Evidence was given that the dog yelped three or four times but Mr Kay swears that the yelps, or at least most of them, were due to his carrying the dog by the scuff of the neck."

Martin L. Olsen, a veterinarian, had found that the blow which fractured the dog's skull would have rendered it unconscious.

"The dog evidently suffered some pain but not very much before being killed," Judge Clearihue said. "I must accept the evidence of Mr. Kay that there were only two blows."

"Mr. Kay, of course, should have called the SPCA to destroy the dog, but he says the SPCA had already been called by others and they could not get the SPCA to act; so he acted himself."

Judge Clearihue observed there is no law which requires a person to call in the SPCA to destroy a dog "but he must not cause unnecessary suffering."

NO APPEAL

Wing Commander Philip Wilkinson of the SPCA, who brought the original charge against Kay in police court, said he did not think the SPCA would appeal the case any further.

"We could take it to the Court of Appeal or even to the Supreme Court of Canada, "but no such appeal is contemplated at present."

Detectives Praised By Chief

Two of three young men charged with the $4,000 burglary of Vancouver Barge Transportation Ltd. Friday night pleaded guilty today in city police court.

The trio, including a 16-year-old boy and a naval rating, was arrested at about 3 p.m. Tuesday by detectives who had worked on the case almost around the clock since Saturday morning.

Waldon William Pelton, 20, of HMCS Naden, and Charles C. Casey, 16, of 1228 Crown Crescent, who was transferred to open court from juvenile court, entered pleas of guilty before Magistrate William Ostler.

NO PLEA

Barry H. Sharpe, 23, of 614 Marifield, did not elect his mode of trial and entered no plea. He was remanded to Monday for election and plea and the others were put over to the same day for circumstances.

Magistrate Ostler meanwhile ordered probation reports on Casey and Pelton.

A second joint charge against the three, for theft of a car the same night, also was put over to Monday after Casey and Pelton pleaded guilty.

Police said the waterfront warehouse and office at 1112 Wharf was robbed of about 20 cases of cigarets valued at $2,800; $500 worth of electrical appliances and $705 cash.

RECOVERED

About $2,700 worth of cigarets and $451.50 cash was recovered when police made the arrests and raided a James Bay apartment Tuesday.

A police patrol wagon was used to take the stolen property in about 20 large cardboard cartons to safekeeping in Chief John Blackstock's office.

He praised detectives Angus Munro, Deans Blackstock, Alex Briggs, William Andrews and Richard Berry for the investigation.

SEAT MISSING

Police believe a car property of Betty Smith, Victoria, was stolen from the waterfront area and used in the burglary. This car was recovered in the same general area, where it evidently had been abandoned. Its back seat was missing.

It was thought the thieves loaded the rear part of the car at Vancouver Barge, took the goods to the James Bay apartment, then went for another load some time after 9 p.m. Friday.

Employees reporting for work Saturday discovered the break-in and found the office safe had been pushed from its second-storey office over a stair landing to the warehouse floor, helping to smash it open.

'Extreme Poverty' Upcoast

Three Victorians well acquainted with conditions on the west coast of Vancouver Island today backed up claims that many families urgently need relief.

They disagreed with federal officials and a missionary who said there is no real need among the Indians.

Prof. Charles S. Burchill, president of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, said his organization received information that there is "extreme poverty among west coast Indians and a need for clothing."

$14 MONTHLY

He said the federal Indian department paid $14 a month in food for relief.

"I ask you can any white man subsist on $14 a month," he said. "I'm quite sure some are hungry, but I don't know if this is due to mis-management or not. But it can't be otherwise."

He was commenting on a statement made by W. S. Arneil, Indian commissioner for B.C., denying a Vancouver fisherman's report that the Indians are near starvation.

The 33-year-old fisherman, Alec Anderson, said Indian families are so destitute they have been reduced to eating clams and dried bread as a steady diet.

Mr. Arneil, however, did admit the Indians had a poor fishing season and relief is being provided.

INVESTIGATE

He said his department will investigate the fisherman's report.

Mrs. Helen Hunt, niece of Chief Mungo Martin, who acts as the famous totem carver's interpreter, said that while she didn't want to embarrass federal officials, she couldn't agee there was no welfare problem on the west coast.

She said the chief received a letter from an old friend who wrote that conditions were bad, and there was no employment for his people.

It was not unusual, she said, for Indians to be hard up during the winter months.

DON'T BOTHER

"It occurs often—whenever the fishing season is poor, she said. "It is so common that Christian people no longer bother about it.

"I've seen a woman with children whose husband was ill searching the beaches for food," she said. "I have often cried for people who were unable to give their children anything for Christmas because they were absolutely destitute.

"The only assistance they were offered from the whites were clothing," she added. "But clothing doesn't help the stomach."

TOO PROUD

She said Indians never made a direct appeal for assistance because they are too proud.

"They are so proud that they don't even like anyone to mention that they are poor," she said.

Lt.-Col. G. Howland, treasurer of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, said they had received a request from the wife of Rev. Reginald Bennett at the Ahousat Indian mission for clothing.

"There must be trouble if there is an urgent need for clothing," he said.

Mr. Bennett, a United Church of Canada minister, said Tuesday, he didn't know of any real need.

'Gloves Off' Election Bout Slated Tonight

Edgelow, Smith In Main Event

Probing and counter-punching gives way to a regular slugfest tonight in the civic election campaign with Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow climbing into the ring against J. Donald Smith.

Ald. Edgelow said today he fully expects to be heard at the mayoralty candidate's rally at 8 p.m. in the Crystal Garden "to put a few things straight."

Meanwhile, Ald. Arthur Dowell today renewed his challenge to Mr. Smith to attend a regular council meeting Thursday to back up suggestions of "suspicious" land deals.

He wrote to reject conditions demanded by Mr. Smith for a special meeting at night.

NO NEED

"Regarding the conditions expressed by you in accepting my challenge, I would state that I see no need to have a 'public spectacle', which it would be. Your presence at city council to substantiate your allegations would be fully covered by the press.

"I again, as chairman of the lands committee . . . whose reputation is at stake by your innuendos, reiterate my challenge to you to appear before Thursday's council meeting."

Ald. Edgelow said he will accept Mr. Smith's invitation to attend the Victoria Civic Voters' Association rally tonight as chairman of public works committee which has been under attack by Mr. Smith.

HEAR HIM OUT

"I am going to accept his invitation and go to hear what he has to say," Ald. Edgelow said.

"If there is anything I can clarify, I will request permission to speak after Mr. Smith has said his piece."

Famous Girls' Drill Team 'Mother' Dies

Mrs. Mary E. Foster, 82, "mother" of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team founded by her husband, the late Capt. Norman Foster, died in St. Joseph's Hospital today after a brief illness.

Although Capt. Foster trained the team in its manoeuvres, it was Mrs. Foster who had designed the uniform, then made all the uniforms for the girls and kept them in repair.

Born in England, she first arrived in Canada with her husband in 1911, and made her home in Victoria in 1914. She was a life member of the IODE.

After the death of Capt. Foster Jan. 12 this year she moved from the family home on Meares Street to an apartment at 1121 Fort Street.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me the name of the coastal vessel, her owners and when she was wrecked, that lies on a reef in Seaforth Channel, north of Dufferin Island? R. T. T. J.

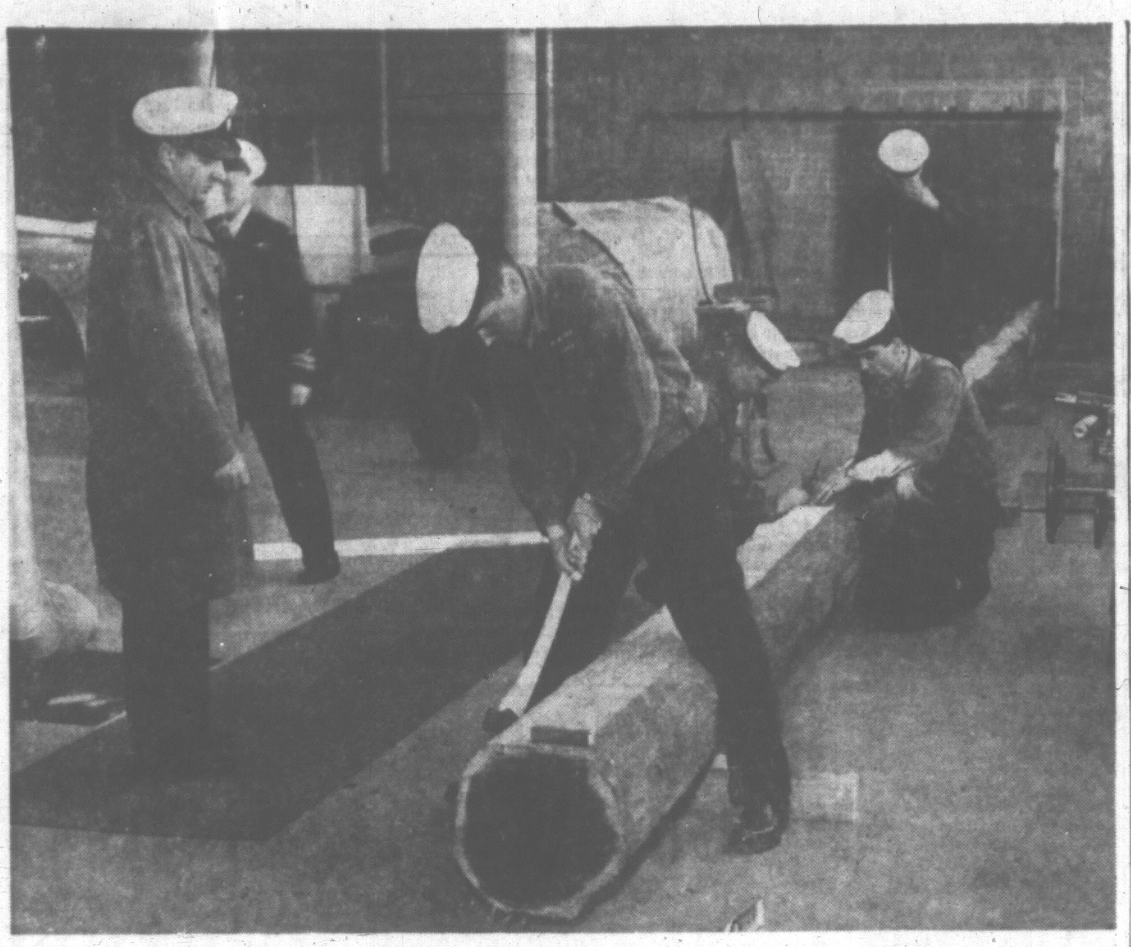
A. This is the U.S. vessel North Sea which sank in the latter days of the Second World War. Built in New Jersey by Bethlehem Steel in 1918, the 299-foot ship can still be seen where she foundered. Owner was Gilbert W. Skinner and port of registry was Juneau, Alaska.

Q. When Jimmy Durante signs off his show, he says "Goodnight Mrs. Callabash, wherever you are." To whom is he referring? T.P.

A. There have been many stories written about this sign-off signature, but none have indicated Mrs. Callabash was "real". It's a trademark, and actually combines the pathos humor which is Durante.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.



OUT OF THE DEEP INTO THE SKY

New life for 67-foot mahogany mast which lay at bottom of sea off west coast of Vancouver Island is in making in boat-building shop of Naval Technical School, Esquimalt. Mast was salvaged by navy divers from unidentified wreck, is being shaped by apprentice-trainees for use as flagstaff at school—if wood proves sound to core after long immersion. (Times Photo.)

MONTE ROBERTS

It's always so nice to hear from old friends, and one of the loyal constituents has proven this by a verbatim report of a telephone call she received Saturday afternoon:

Rrrrinnnggg . . .

Hello?

Hello, is that Mary?

Yes.

This is Maude.

Why, Maude, how ARE you? I haven't heard from you in ages.

Yes, it has been a long time, too long. I've been meaning to call you.

I've been meaning to call you, too, Maude, but . . .

Yes, Mary, I know how it is. I was saying to my husband just the other day, I MUST call Mary, there are no friends like old friends, I said to my husband.

Now, isn't that a co-incidence, Maude? Just the other day I was saying to MY husband I MUST call Maude, after all, old friends shouldn't be neglected, I said.

How are things going, Mary, keeping busy? Lots of social life?

Oh, we go out occasionally, but . . .

How about tonight, Mary? I know this is dreadfully short notice, but are you busy tonight?

Well, Maude, we were thinking of . . .

Before you answer, Mary, let me explain. You see, one of the biggest clients of my husband's firm unexpectedly flew into town and he is such a big client we simply HAVE to do something to entertain him . . .

I understand, Maude.

Of course, we don't mind, he's a nice man, and so is his wife, and besides, my husband can use his expense account, this is such a REALLY big client.

Mmmm. Sounds nice.

So what we thought we'd do, we'd have cocktails at the club, and then dinner at that new restaurant, and then the supper dance at the hotel . . .

Why, how lovely.

I know this is SUCH short notice, Mary, but . . .

Well, Maude, I think perhaps we could change our plans.

Oh, good! I knew I could depend on you. Then you won't mind if we bring the children over at say, six? We'll pick them up again at about one, and I'm sure they won't cause you any trouble . . . Mary? Darn it, we've been cut off.

Police-Firemen Double-Up Work Report Secret

The report of the B.C. fire marshal's department on the benefit or harm in combining firemen and policemen duties will remain a secret, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

He had called for a study of the problem after New Westminster council recently moved to add traffic duties to the work of municipal firemen. The AG noted at the time that Esquimalt combined its police and fire service in 1956 and he said this would also come under study.

The report now has been received by the attorney-general but he told The Times, "the report from the fire marshal was private information for my department. The current situation does not warrant any expression of opinion by my department."

'SAFEKEEPING'

Old PPCLI Colors Rest At The Altar

In a ceremony both colorful and solemn the old colors of the 1st Battalion, PPCLI, were placed in permanent safekeeping at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, this morning.

The colors had been in the battalions possession since 1934, when they were presented by the Earl of Bessborough, then governor-general of Canada.

They were replaced this summer when Queen Elizabeth presented new colors at Beacon Hill Park.

Regimental colors, by ancient tradition and by a regulation which came into effect in 1898, are deposited in churches for safekeeping when not in use, or as a permanent record when they have been retired from active use.

The color guard today was escorted by an honor guard with fixed bayonets from Work Point, marching along Head Street to Esquimalt Road, then to the church.

The honor guard was proceeded by the scarlet-jacketed, white-helmeted battalion band.

THREE TIMES

The ceremony at the church began when Capt. Robert Frost, adjutant, pounded three times on the closed doors with the hilt of his sword.

The door was opened by Rev. J. S. Roberts, rector of St. Paul's, and Capt. Frost said:

"Reverend sir, I have been commanded by Lt.-Col. J. C. Allan, commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to inform the authorities of this church that he has repaired here today with the old colors of the battalion and desires admission to prefer a request that they be deposited herein."

'PRESENT ARMS'

The rector replied that "every facility will be afforded him in executing his most laudable purpose."

The honor guard then carried out the command "to the old colors, present arms," and the color party carried the colors into the church.

Following divine service, the colors were turned over to the warden by Col. Allan.

The rector received the colors from the warden, and draped them on the altar, where they were saluted by Col. Allan and the officers of the color party.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Sunny skies and fairly brisk temperatures will be Victoria's lot until noon Thursday, when partial clouding will take place, the Gonzales weatherman says.

Low tonight is expected to be 40, high Thursday 50. Noon temperature today was 44.

Charm of Irish Scenery Caught on China Pieces

By PENNY SAVER

Maybe you haven't kissed the Blarney Stone. Still, if you have even a hint of Irish blood in you you'll rhapsodize over Irish pottery now selling downtown. Its muted blues, browns and greens will bring alive the bogs and lakes of the land of St. Patrick!

Irish colleen in typical Irish setting is framed in shamrocks on a teapot stand that sells for $1.95. Perfect gift for a friend and bound to bring a note of cheer into her kitchen on a dull morning!

Shamrocks again edge ash trays in various shapes that are centred with Irish harps, scenes, and jaunting cars. These sell for 89 cents each.

Other pieces include salt and pepper shakers in same distinctive colors. Set costs $1.50 a pair.

Happy choice for a man's Christmas gift would be leisure set that comes gift-boxed at $6.95. Set includes beer stein, covered cigaret box and man-sized ash tray. All are decorated with hunting scenes and edged in shamrocks.

Turtles can be useful little creatures, especially ones I saw this week! These are of china and shell and body separate to form two miniature ash trays.

If you prefer fish, there are pairs of ash tray fishes that come already boxed for Christmas giving.

Both turtles and fishes sell for $1.55 and are imported from England.

Again from England are the large assortment of copper and brass wall mottoes and plaques I saw this week. Mottoes include old English classics, including time-honored "Bless This House." Wall plaques would add a warm touch to any wall. These start at $1.

If your young daughter has already put in a request for a doll buggy for Christmas you'll be delighted to hear that it doesn't have to cost too much!

You can get one for as little as $3.75. One I saw had maroon and grey plastic sunshade top and carrier. Frame was of grey painted steel and wheels were rubber tired.

For names of stores where these items can be found phone Penny at EV 2-3131.

Egyptian Gals Unescorted At Army Dances Now

CAIRO (AP)—For the first time Egyptian girls are going to public dances without escorts.

The United Nations is responsible—specifically, the UN Emergency Force which is charged with keeping the peace along the Egyptian-Israeli border.

Officials at UNEF's leave centre in Cairo were planning entertainment for those periods when the troops from seven nations get time off.

This was no easy problam in this conservative Moslem city.

Tony Bishara, Egyptian liaison officer at the leave centre, thought members of foreign communities in Cairo would be willing to come to such dances.

He visited stores offering invitations to Greek, Italian and Armenian salesgirls.

Egyptian girls saw the invitations and asked what they were about. Bishara told them about the UNEF dances.

Could Egyptian girls go too? Sure, Bishara answered.

"They came in droves; you never saw such a turnout," says Bishara. "They were shy, often stuck together, but they came.

"Now we have dances twice a week."

Bishara, standing six feet, three inches and a judo expert, is one of the chaperones.

"The boys know that many of the girls have a very conservative background and they don't try to be fresh," he said.

Spruce accessories often make the difference between a frump and a chic woman. Your gloves should be immaculate, your bag neat and polished or brushed, your shoes shined and your jewelry gleaming.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

A ROSE FOR MY LADY!

Gay-colored silk roses made by members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Women's Guild Groups, will be for sale at annual bazaar and tea, Saturday in Kirk Hall, 680 Courtney Street, from 2 to 5 p.m. Displaying some of the roses are, from the left, Mrs. J. Cameron, Mrs. A. Crofts, Mrs. F. W. Briers, guild groups president, and Mrs. W. Draper, bazaar convener. There will be stalls of home cooking, dippy dip, aprons, superfluities, decorations and toys, dolls clothes, knitted wear, fancy work, candy, miscellaneous, home produce, books. Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson will open the affair.

Grandmother Came by Air For Clarke-Cave Wedding

Wedding of Sylvia Anne Cave, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W Cave, Brentwood Bay, to Stephen Fraser Clark, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Clark, Prospect Lake, was held on anniversary of bride's grandmother's wedding anniversary. Grandmother, Mrs. M. A. Niven, flew from Saskatoon to attend the ceremony.

Brentwood United Church was decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums for the wedding. Rev. C. H. Whitmore officiated.

Bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March, played by organist, Mrs. H. E. Marshall. After the candlelight, double-ring ceremony, Allan Dunn sang "Walk Hand in Hand."

Waltz-length white velvet bridal gown was cut on princess lines with lily point sleeves. French lace elbow-length veil was made in the form of a Spanish mantilla. Both gown and veil were made by the bride. She carried a bouquet of feathered white chrysanthemums and yellow roses. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls.

Attendants, Miss Mary Clark, the groom's sister, and Miss Margaret Nelson, wore identical waltz-length gowns of green velvet with matching headdresses. They carried cascade bouquets of golden baby chrysanthemums.

Sebert Clark, father of the groom, was best man. Bride's brother, Thomas Cave, and Derek Gay were ushers.

E. H. Franklin, Vancouver, proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in South Saanich Women's Institute where 150 guests gathered.

Mrs. A. Morgan and orchestra provided music for dancing. Later in the evening Mr. Dunn sang "The Anniversary Song."

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Niven and Mrs. E. Craven, Saskatoon; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Franklin, Misses Mary and Dianne Franklin and Merrill Holmes, all of Vancouver; Mrs. R. Hudspeth, New Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Gorton Taylor and daughter, Elizabeth, of Haney, B.C.

For a honeymoon trip to San Francisco bride chose a hand-sewn Wedgwood blue wool boucle dressmaker suit with navy accessories. Her corsage was of deep red roses.

On their return, couple will make their home in Vancouver.

Discontent Can Mar Pretty Face

Discontent can rob even the prettiest face of its attractions. It carves drooping lines from nose to mouth and leaves them there. It turns a mouth petulant and puts wrinkles in the forehead.

The discontented face is turned inward, forbidding and unpleasant to see. It seems to warn people off and usually succeeds. Somehow, once its owner starts talking, it's mostly about personal problems. The girl with a discontented face is looking for a listening ear into which she can pour her woes.

Unfortunately for her, most people are not much inclined to provide the ear. Either they have problems of their own or they don't want a pleasant mood ruined.

The truth is that even a plain face can become charming by means of a pleasant expression, a lift at the corners of the mouth, the suggestion of a smile. If you don't believe this, try it out on your mirror. See which face attracts you most.

It was one of those little booths into which you step to have your own picture taken automatically. Displayed outside were strips of pictures of former customers. What was interesting about them was that the picture of a mature woman was displayed next to that of a girl in her 20s.

One would expect that the advantage of beauty would lie with the girl. It wasn't so. The mature woman was stunning. Her face was smooth and unlined, her expression radiant, her hair a beautiful, smooth silvery-grey.

Next to her, the girl peered out uncertainly over one shoulder. Her pose was awkward, her skin was blotched and she wore her hair long. It was unshaped and shaggy, hiding completely the contours of her head and making her face seem a small thing peering out from a bush.

Most of all, her expression showed anxiety, uncertainty and a certain kittenish coquetry. But in time and with care, she might become as lovely as the woman pictured next to her.

MAKE A CHANGE

If you are losing a nightly battle with insomnia, check up on your coffee-drinking habits. If you're drinking a half-dozen cups a day, it's time to cut down.

You needn't give up that first delicious cup or two in the morning. But you certainly should stop after that. Discover an adequate substitute and make it a habit.

Children's Pantomime

Rain or shine, the teddy bears are having a picnic at St. John's parish hall, Balmoral Road. It is to be held this Saturday at 3 p.m. This pantomime, "The Teddy Bears Picnic," is to be presented by the Belmont High School drama group. Royal Bride Chapter, IODE, will sponsor the show. Added features will be a magician, dancers from Wynne Shaw's Dancing School, a trampoline act with clowns from YMCA, an accordionist and the Belmont High School band. Tickets can be bought from Royal Bride Chapter members or at the ticket bar, Hudson's Bay Company.

Poodles Oust Her Husband

AMERSHAM, England (CP) — Mrs. Eireanne Marlow marched into a public inquiry in this Buckinghamshire town and plunked a stuffed miniature poodle down on a table.

"Who could object to a dog that size?" she demanded to know

The housing ministry was adamant. It ruled that Mrs. Marlow could not run a board kennel at her home.

To show how much poodles meant to her, Mrs. Marlow told the inspector: "I place my animals first and foremost in my life and if they are unhappy at night they come to my bedroom — much against the wishes of Mr. Marlow, who now has his own room."

Final decision was deferred.

Women

Step From UN to Power Commission Easily Taken by Canadian Woman

By ELIZABETH FORBES

"I've really got five bosses", Phoebe Ross Kidd says. She's secretary to Dr. Hugh Keenlyside, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission but finds that she also does work for all five commissioners.

From the color and excitement of a position with United Nations in New York to the B.C. Power Commission in Victoria seems a step that would need much consideration.

Yet Phoebe Ross Kidd took it without even 'a backward glance.

She had a big enducement—a son, a daughter-in-law and two grandchildren (boy and a girl) in Calgary.

"Victoria is much closer to them," she says. Then her eyes sparkle and she adds: "My Calgary reservations for Christmas holidays were made two months ago, in fact, as soon as I got here."

Mrs. Kidd came to the Pacific Coast at the beginning of September, a few months after Dr. Hugh Keenlyside became chairman of the B.C. Power Commission.

HOME WITH VIEW

She had worked with Dr. Keenlyside in United Nations.

"When he asked me to continue in the Power Commission as his secretary, I was thrilled. Mainly because of my family but also because I had a feeling I'd like to live out here for awhile."

It didn't take her long to locate "an apartment with a view," on the top floor of the Newport Arms in Oak Bay.

"I can see Mt. Baker," she explains, "after nine years surrounded by nothing but concrete (in New York.) "I didn't remember there were such views!"

Mrs. Kidd ("call me Ross, I don't like that name Phoebe") was born in Hawkesbury in the Ottawa Valley. She is a graduate of University of Toronto in modern languages—"something that was of great assistance in my work at United Nations."

IN NEW YORK

Before going to New York she was for 11 years in the service of the Canadian government—nine of those years (and during the war) with the national research council.

In 1949, when Dr. Keenlyside (then federal deputy minister of mines and resources) was named head of a Canadian delegation to the United Nations scientific conference on the conservation and utilization of resources, Mrs. Kidd was chosen as one of the staff that accompanied the delegation. Her title was administrative assistant.

Here's where her knowledge of languages came in.

"There were 21 people at delegation headquarters in New York, she explains, "and in that small group were 11 different nationals."

It wasn't long until she was named administrative officer.

A few months later when the delegation had almost finished its work whispers began floating around the UN that the technical assistance program was about to be made into a separate administration.

"We heard this but didn't believe it," Mrs. Kidd says.

Truth of the rumor came home with lightening swiftness when, in 1950, Dr. Keenlyside was named director-general of the new department.

And Mrs. Kidd was asked to stay on with him.

"My appointment was for a year," she says, "but I was there for nine years."

When she left to come to the Pacific Coast she was senior Canadian woman on the staff at the United Nations.

During her nine years with the technical assistance program, Ross Kidd assisted with organization of the department and structure of the over-all program; met the people who came with requests for assistance from the various countries; kept a watching brief on the requests as they progressed from one department to other in order that Dr. Keenleyside could be fully conversant with every aspect of any individual request, whenever he might need the information.

Mrs. Kidd was one of a small staff that accompanied Dr. Keenleyside on a trip around the world in connection with the technical assistance program.

"We visited 16 countries in seven weeks. It was exciting but very tiring!"

Five summers during the nine years she was in Geneva during meeting of the General Council of the United Nations. One summer she spent doing research work at The Hague.

"Work of this sort gives you friends from many parts of the world," Mrs. Kidd reminisces. "There was a staff of 150 in the technical assistance administration at New York and in that group 34 countries were represented.

"At the beginning perhaps we were conscious of a difference in nationalities," she says, "but certainly not in the people. They were all so very fine. It wasn't long until we forgot our different countries and worked together as one unit."

Phoebe Ross Kidd was quiet for a moment.

Then she said:

"If people of different nationalities, religions, and academic standings, can work together in this way—in harmony—then surely some day governments will do so, too."

Mrs. Meyer New President Anglican Woman's Circle

Mrs. R. T. Meyer was elected president of the Vesuvius Bay Circle, Anglican Woman's Auxiliary at the group's recent annual meeting on Salt Spring Island.

She succeeds Miss C. T. Motherwell, who was head of the group for 11 years.

Other officers are Miss Margaret Motherwell, vice-president; Miss Muriel Harrington, treasurer; Mrs. T. Carlyle, Dorcas secretary; Miss M. Motherwell, thank offering secretary; Mrs. A. E. Duke, extra cent secretary.

In her annual report, Miss Motherwell mentioned projects of the group during past year. These included a donation tea, needlework and home cooking stall at annual Anglican fete; articles collected for a Dorcas sale; pies and contributions for Thanksgiving supper and donation of $50 to redecorating new rectory at Ganges.

Plans were made for a pantry stall to be included in the December Anglican bazaar. Mrs. Carlyle and Mrs. Meyer were named co-conveners.

Arrangements were also made for a pot luck supper to be held Dec. 11.

Heather in Chapel Decorations For Woznow-Morrison Wedding

Protestant chapel in HMCS Naden was decorated with white and mauve chrysanthemums and heather for recent wedding of Miss Beverley Roberta Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew S. Morrison, 101 Burnside Road West, and Harry Woznow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Woznow, Weyburn, Sask. Chaplain (P) T. L. Jackson officiated.

Organist was Miss G. Thompson. Mrs. Bert Ross sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Bride was given in marriage by her father. Her imported gown of French lace and fine net was highlighted by a sabrina neckline and a low waistline. Full skirt was styled with fold on fold of fine net.

Hand-rolled chapel veil was held in place by a headpiece of sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white freesia, white feathered carnations and red Delight roses.

Matron of honor Mrs. K. Farrell, sister of the bride, wore an aqua chiffon gown and carried a crescent bouquet of yellow, gold and bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Roberta Ross, cousin of the bride, chose pale pink nylon chiffon. Her crescent bouquet was yellow carnations.

Best man was Alan Ahl and ushers were David Wise, Don Hill and George Tzvetcoff.

White and mauve chrysanthemums and heather decorated Olde England Inn for a reception following the ceremony. Head table was covered with a lace cloth. Silver candelabra and candles flanked the three-tier wedding cake. A pink satin bell and lily of the valley decorated the cake which was set in a weave design cake basket, trimmed with pink roses.

Albert Robertson proposed the bridal toast. Out-of-town guests were Peter Woznow, Weyburn, Sask.; Alan Ahl, Mrs. Bert Ross and Miss Ross, from Vancouver and Mrs. C. Crone, Adrian and June Crone, from Medicine Hat, Alta.

For a honeymoon trip to California by motor, bride chose a cocoa brown tailored suit with dusty pink hat and accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses and heather.

Nun Works on Mosaic Wall

TORONTO (CP)—A nun who studied architecture because it was on the curriculum, not because of any special desire for it, now is making a mosaic wall for a Roman Catholic church she also designed.

Sister Antonia, of the Sisters of Our Lady order in Toronto, designed St. Michael's Church in Windsor, Ont., and now is working on mosaics for the inside and outside walls of the church entrance.

Pastor of the church she designed is Rev. Colomon Moullion, Sister Antonia's brother. She and her sister, a nun of the same order, studied art in Vienna and Budapest.

The nuns were in Vienna when the Communists entered Hungary, and they could not return to their native land.

"My brother was already in Canada," said Sister Antonia, "so we came here eight years ago and stayed with the Sister of the Holy Name until we learned to speak English."

The church itself was completed in 1954. Made of yellow brick, it is 120 feet long, and seats 500. Sister Antonia considers her best work is an interior seven-foot-high mosaic representing St. Michael.

The ceiling has 100 squares with ecclesiastical symbols.

Another Shock For Men!

LONDON (AP) — Men who suffered through the sack look in women's clothes can get ready for a fresh shock: Knickerbocker suits.

They're the brain child of a new British fashion designer, Mary Quant, slim, 27-year-old brunette.

Her knickerbocker outfit is made up in chestnut tweed, with the jacket sporting a white fur collar, and the midcalf knickers worn with pale lavender silk stockings.

In the crazy hat department, Miss Quant offers a hunting hat with brown chiffon covering the hair and a crown so tall it resembles a factory smokestack.

Quaint may be the word for some of Miss Quant's creations. But don't smile. Wholesalers trying to keep up with orders say she seems to know what women want to wear about three months before they know themselves.

"Women's clothes should be fun," says Mary. "They should also be extreme—simple, but very extreme."

If your family did not leave you a cache of jewels, go antique hunting. This has become a national hobby and it's fun. Treat yourself to an antique brooch, a Victorian bracelet or a pair of dangly earrings. You'll build your own small jewel collection this way. And many old pieces are no more expensive than costume jewelry.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Even Many Beauties Don't Have Nice Necks

A beautiful, smooth neck, unmarred by protruding collar bones, is a lovely but rare sight. Many famous beauties have very bony necks.

Josephine

This is one beauty defect which is impossible to overcome entirely. You cannot change your bones. However, posture and body weight and muscle development play some part in the picture.

Try this. Sit in front of a mirror. Hunch your shoulders forward. Notice how much more prominent your collar bones are. Now pull your shoulders back. Notice how much less prominent these same bones are. Not many women hunch their shoulders forward in such an exaggerated manner, but many of them do allow their backs to round and their shoulders to slump forward.

So, the first step in minimizing prominent collar bones is to improve your posture. Next, of course, the question of weight is important. If you are very much underweight, your collar bones, spine, hip bones (in fact all of your bones) will be more noticeable. So if you are underweight, gain those pounds!

You also can help fill out the neck with exercise. Do the following ones.

1. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Arch your back and roll the head back, lifting the shoulders from the floor. Lower head. Continue slowly. If you wish, you can place a very small pillow under your head.

2. Sit on a stool or stand, spine straight. Lower the head toward the right shoulder. Lift head. Continue, alternating right and left.

3. Lie across your bed on your back with your head and shoulders hanging off the bed. Lift your head and touch the right side of your chest with your chin or come as close as you can. Lower head backward. Lift your head and touch the left side of your chest with your chin. Lower head. Continue, alternating right and left.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 10, "Is Your Chinline a Pain in the Neck," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman, in care of this paper.

WOMEN GOING TO ANTARCTIC

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) —The bleak white loneliness of scientists in the Antarctic may be broken during the 1960-61 summer.

The first team of women scientists is expected to join the all-male population of McMurdo Base, main American establishment in the south polar continent.

This was disclosed recently by Charles Bentley, University of Wisconsin seismologist, who said "It's time to find out how women would fit into Antarctic life."

He is one of 150 experts attending a 12-country Antarctic symposium on the International Geophysical Year which opened here Tuesday.

St. George's Guild Bazaar, Fun Fair

Gay Christmas wrapped boxes, glass balls and evergreens used in decorations, added a festive note to the bazaar and fun fair sponsored by Guild of St. George the Martyr Church and the men of the parish, last Saturday in the parish hall.

A sum of more than $1,300 was realized.

Bazaar conveners were Mrs. C. H. Rennie and Mrs. E. W. Moore. Afternoon tea was served by the Evening Branch of the guild. Amusements and games in the evening were in charge of Lt. Cmdr. H. Vondette; hot dogs and coffee were served in the evening by C. Highsted.

Stalls were convened as follows: Gifts, Miss M. Turner; superfluities, Mrs. A. V. Chase; aprons, Mrs. L. Kelly; Christmas decorations, Mrs. R. B. Howland; candy, Mrs. Fraser McLean; home cooking, Mrs. D. Hummel; tots and 'teens, Mrs. A. Ford.

DEAR ABBY . . .

. Splitting Hairs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have already started my Christmas shopping and the same old problem has come up again. We have only one child but that's no fault of ours. We'd have welcomed a dozen if the good Lord had sent them to us.

I married into one of those families that makes a fuss over Christmas. My husband has four sisters and three brothers. They had a total of 33 children. (I have only one sister and she has one child so she's not mixed up in this.)

Our problem is this: We spent about $10 on each child's Christmas gift. This adds to $330. In return, each FAMILY gives our child a gift which costs about $10. This means we are getting $70 worth of presents for our $330.

This is not fair. Can you, or any of your readers, figure out some way for us to come out even?

SHORT END

DEAR SHORT: In order to "come out even" you'll have to cut down the cost of your gift to $2.12 per child. Christmas-giving shouldn't be an eye for an I.O.U. affair.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The girl who signed herself "HATES PIANO" could have been me when I was a kid. Only I am a man. My parents actually struggled to give me piano lessons when I was eight years old. I despised it and threw tantrums and acted like I was doing them a favor to practice an hour a day. I finally got them to let me quit when I was 12. I am 42 years old now and I will never forgive my parents for not giving me a good swift kick in the pants and making me go on.

"MISSED THE BOAT"

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a great one for hunting. Last year he got a deer and I have had my freezer full of deer meat all winter. My husband is very fond of deer meat but I haven't fixed him any because I am not sure I know how to prepare it. It is all cut up into roasts and steaks. I feel so foolish asking my friends. Can you tell me?

HUNTER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Season and cook deer roasts exactly the same way you'd prepare "utility" cuts of beef. Roast venison is best when cooked slowly. Deer steaks are prepared the same as beef steaks.

* * *

What's your problem? For a personal reply write to ABBY, care of this paper. Enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Eyes tell more about a person's habits than we admit. Lack of sleep and poor eating show up in dark circles, bags and bloodshot eyes. None of these is very flattering. One good night's sleep will not erase the signs of three or four hours sleep for several nights.

LOUISE DAVIS

ON ETIQUETTE

Indecisive People Are Annoying.

I seem to irritate a dear friend when I can't immediately say yes or no to an invitation. There always seems to be so many reasons for not knowing exactly what I can do on a certain day. I may want very much to accept, but with a large family to consider, I think they come first. Shouldn't a party-giver be willing to wait for my answer? One party was cancelled recently because I was unable to accept or decline at the time I was invited. Am I an exception, or is my friend unreasonable?

Louise

Louise Davis answers:

Some people, alas, get into the habit of indecision and don't realize that it is provoking. Perhaps you are in that category. Perhaps you have over-emphasized your need to your family and therefore are subconsciously willing to be a slave or a martyr. Perhaps you think that you would rather be with your family at all times to the exclusion of your friends. You say you have a large family, which indicates that there must be adults or near-adults who can take over the responsibilities, in which case you might train yourself to stop hedging. Special situations naturally call for exceptions, but surely they don't happen so often. If you are in the habit of doing this to others, chances are that you might be crossed off their lists. People don't like to be kept dangling. It's frustrating and in most cases unnecessary. I think you had better take stock of yourself and be more direct when friends invite you.

Here's a suggestion for the housewife who finds Christmas Day dinner upon her with everything planned but the dessert. It's a delicious "make-ahead" cookie cake.

Butterscotch Icebox Cookie Cake

A luscious "make ahead" Christmas dessert waiting in the refrigerator is really a present to the harried homemaker at this season. So here's a Christmas present recipe for your file:

BUTTERSCOTCH NUT ICEBOX COOKIE CAKE

One package butterscotch pudding and pie filling mix, one envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatin, 1¾ cups cold water, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, ¼ cup chopped walnuts, 36 to 40 coconut bar cookies, ½ cup whipping cream.

Combine pudding mix, gelatin and cold water in a saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat. Cool 5 minutes, stirring once or twice. Then add ice cream by spoonfuls, stirring after each addition until melted. Stir in nuts. Chill 10 to 15 minutes, or until mixture is slightly thickened. Arrange about 12 cookies in the bottom of a lightly greased 9x5-inch loaf pan. Spoon one-third of the pudding over the cookies.

Continue layering cookies and pudding, making 3 layers of each. Chill until firm (at least 1 hour). To unmold, draw a knife or spatula around sides of pan; turn cake onto serving plate. Whip cream, sweetening to taste. Spread over top of cake. Garnish with angelica and red cinnamon candies to resemble holly, if desired.

Aroma of Yule Cooking Enticing to Our Menfolk!

When all's said and done, as they often say, we have a feeling that the perfumes of Christmas that come from the kitchen, could trap a man faster than even the most expensive French perfume. For that lovely bouquet of sugar and spice and fruits and flavoring—all bound together with butter and flour and gently baking in your oven—is not only endearing to a male, but intimately bound up with the nostalgia of Christmas when he was very young.

So leave the boudoir array of perfumes, gals, and hie yourself to the kitchen for some Christmas baking . . . if you want to entrance a certain male in your house. For whether it's fruitcake, plum pudding, holiday breads or cookies you busy yourself baking . . . the odors are guaranteed to make him swoon for your charms, culinary and otherwise. Here is an excellent Christmas bread that will be a producer of that magic Christmas perfume.

CHRISTMAS TREE BREAD

A dandy item for breakfast on Christmas morning, for holiday brunch entertaining and for snacks anytime. Perfect gift idea too for your next door neighbor or the young couple down the hall in your apartment building. Yeast, egg, sugar and biscuit mix makes the double "tree" that's put together with a butter rich filling of nuts and cherries. Easy directions for shaping, filling and frosting are part of the recipe.

Half cup warm water, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 package dry yeast, 1 egg, 2½ cups packaged biscuit mix, ¼ cup butter, softened, ½ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons chopped glace cherries, ½ cup chopped walnuts, ½ cup icing sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, hot water.

Measure luke-warm water into large mixing bowl. Stir in sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, stir well. Stir in egg and biscuit mix and beat well. Turn onto floured board and knead until smooth (at least 25 times). Roll and shape into two triangles about 10" long, saving a ball of dough for trunk. Combine butter, brown sugar, cherries and walnuts and spread on one triangle. Cover with remaining dough and place trunk at base of tree. Slash sides of top layer with scissors every inch to form branches. Let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk (about 45 minutes). Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 15-20 minutes. Combine icing sugar, vanilla and enough hot water to make of pouring consistency. Drizzle on baked tree while still warm, and decorate with pieces of fruit and nuts. (Makes one 12-inch tree.)

Buffet Style New Touch

When you serve a supper buffet-style it's always nice to have something eye-catching and a little bit different to attract the attention of your hungry guests. We think you will agree that gelatine-glazed ham, not too fussy to prepare and very easy to serve, will please all concerned.

You will need sliced ham, either ready-cooked or baked at home. The gelatine glaze is very similar to that prepared by professional chefs. They use it to dress up ham, poultry and other meats for the beautiful buffet displays which they prepare as proof of their talent and culinary ability.

BUFFET PETAL HAM

For a small buffet to serve only a few people, invert a small platter (or shallow oval bowl) on a larger platter. Starting at one end of the small platter, place the larger slices of ham down the centre up over the small platter to the other end, allowing slices to overlap. On sides, insert smaller slices of ham between upper slice to give petal effect, making sure to cover small platter.

For a large buffet where more meat is needed, reserve the best slices for outer layer and place remaining slices in piles on large platter, arranging them to resemble the shape of a ham, narrow and low at one end, wider and high at the other. Then arrange the best slices on top as directed for "small buffet" ham. Cover with wax paper and chill in refrigerator for about one hour.

TRANSPARENT GLAZE

One package (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Soak gelatine and cold water in a small saucepan for five minutes. Add boiling water, lemon juice and salt and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Set pan in cold water, stirring occasionally, until mixture becomes syrupy. Carefully pour over chilled ham to form a thin glaze on entire surface. Remove any excess glaze from platter. Garnish and serve (or keep in refrigerator until time to set up buffet table).

(Double the recipe for large ham.)

8 CARD OF THANKS

Our sudden loss in the death of our beloved mother, Margaret Lee, has left an emptiness in our hearts that can never be wholly filled, but the many kind words and acts of sympathy from our relatives and friends have helped immeasurably. We are deeply grateful to the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital, Dr. S. G. Ruskins, Rev. Dangerfield, the pallbearers and the McCall funeral home.—George Lee and family.

We wish to express our thanks to relatives and friends for the beautiful flowers and cards sent to us in the loss of a wonderful mother; also to Dr. James, pallbearers and McCall Bros.—Mrs. Alfred (Marjorie) Brimacombe, Herman and Leslie Holdsworth.

9 IN MEMORIAM

YATES — In loving memory of a dearly loved mother, Bertha, who passed away Nov. 25, 1956.

Deep in our hearts you will always stay
Loved and remembered every day.

—Remembered always by her daughter Mildred and son-in-law Alex.

The bidding of today's hand is typical of what is likely to take place in expert competition when every- [illegible] things as hard for his opponents as possible.

When the smoke had cleared away West opened his singleton heart. John Hubbell of Kansas City, one of the West's greatest players won with his queen and after mature deliberation chose to return his singleton jack of trumps.

John had decided from the bidding that his partner was not going to develop any overruff and he had better start getting trumps out of dummy.

He certainly was right. With any other play South would make his doubled contract. With the trum return he was down one.

He gave it the best try by promptly leading his singleton spade but West was ready now. He went up with the ace and led his last trump.

Now the best South could make was 10 tricks. His own seven clubs and ace of diamonds and dummy's king of spades and third trump.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.

The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle, makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.

"FOREST" siding represents an ECONOMY to home-builders. Costing less than most other types of siding the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

Hour-Long Musical Variety Program Salutes Recording Stars at 7

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

THE PEPPERPOT—Gene Kelly's Saturday night hour with Donald O'Connor and Carol Lawrence appeared to be of such excellence after the first two numbers that I thought for sure Fred Astaire was going to have very real Emmy competition this year.

Then—only the gods and Kelly know why—it degenerated into second-rate music hall. The Man of Distinction has settled for red eye. O'Connor was standing on his head when he wasn't running up the walls. Kelly was making eyes at the cameras and Mistress Lawrence was trying to look as composed as a small girl asked to recite "Queen of the May" while standing in the middle of a dodge-'em car track.

Kelly doesn't have to resort to carnival. He is one of the most talented screen dancers in the world. In O'Connor he has a versatile and proven accomplice and Miss Lawrence is exactly right for shows of the type this should and could have been.

* * *

ACCORDING TO LATEST GOSSIP fight fans are about to lose both their Wednesday and Friday night scraps. Networks are said to be running scared after the recent quiz scandals and are not too impressed by the moral calibre of some of the fight managers and other behind-scene gentlemen of fistiana. Fight ratings are far from impressive either.

If George Gobel's Sunday night show remains as good as last Sunday's he should have no fear of failure. The reason was fey, child-of-the-streetish Imogene Coca. Their "country" duet in which George had to make up his mind between his pet pig and Imogene, was a panic, especially their dance together. Oh let's have more of Imogene, one-time "wife" to Caesar (Sid, that is). She is altogether and unqualifiedly wonderful.

Dick Clark's Sunday night World of Talent half-hour is reported in difficulties. Too bad as I enjoy it muchly. However I do believe that the original format that called for talent to be drawn from unknowns was infinitely more exciting. In brief: Why monkey with success?

POSITIVE CURE FOR BALDNESS

Take a look at those smooth tires of yours, those bald spots are signs of danger to yourself and others. But if you bring them along to us before it's too late, we can give your tires the GUARANTEED GOODYEAR TIRE FACTORY-APPROVED RETREAD. But don't wait till they are worn to the canvas or structurally damaged. If in doubt bring them to us. We will not waste your time or money.

IT'S TRUE

The cost of a retread is ½ the cost of a new tire. We are proud to say we have the finest factory approved retreading equipment in Western Canada.

New Fund Drive For Improvement To Playfair Park

Victoria Arboretum Society will launch a drive next spring to raise funds for improvements to Playfair Park which is being developed into a rhododendron garden.

Catherine Skinner, president, at a society meeting Monday, said 6,000 rhododendron bushes would be planted in the park in the next four years.

"It's going to be a real show place," she said.

The park is situated in the Tattersal area, east of Quadra.

Reeve George Chatterton has informed the society that Saanich will be installing water in the park next year and will prepare new beds for the planting material.

NATIONAL ENERGY BOARD ACT
NOTICE OF JOINT HEARING

TAKE NOTICE that pursuant to the National Energy Board Act and Regulations the Board has ordered a joint hearing to be held in the Court Room of the Board of Transport Commissioners, Union Station Building, Ottawa, on the 5th day of January, 1960, at the hour of 9.30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time to hear the following applications which have been filed with the Board:

1. An application by TRANS CANADA PIPE LINES LIMITED for certain licences to export gas and for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to construct and operate additional pipe line and works connected therewith namely:

I. A Certificate of public convenience and necessity under Part III of the Act

(a) appropriately amending the Applicant's present permit issued under the provisions of the Pipe Lines Act, or to any Certificate issued in lieu thereof by the Board under the provisions of the National Energy Board Act pursuant to Part VIII thereof, authorizing the Applicant to construct and operate a Thirty (30) inch diameter pipe line extending from a point near Winnipeg, Manitoba on the Applicant's existing pipe line to a point on the International Boundary near Emerson, Manitoba, together with works connected therewith, and

(b) authorizing the Applicant to construct and operate necessary loop lines, compressors, meter stations, and other works connected therewith to be installed on the Applicant's existing pipe line;

II. A Licence under Part VI of the Act to export to Midwestern Gas Transmission Company at Emerson, Manitoba, two hundred and four million (204,000,000) cubic feet of gas per day; seventy-four billion (74,000,000,000) cubic feet of gas annually and a total quantity of one trillion four hundred and ten billion (1,410,000,000,000) cubic feet during the period ending on the 14th day of May, 1981;

III. A Licence under Part VI of the Act to export to Tennessee Gas Transmission Company at Niagara Falls, Ontario, such quantities of gas as the Applicant may have available in its system after meeting all of its Canadian markets and its export at Emerson but in no event exceeding two hundred and four million (204,000,000) cubic feet on any day during the period ending on the 14th day of May, 1981.

2. An application by ALBERTA AND SOUTHERN GAS CO. LTD. for a Licence under Part VI of the Act for the exportation of gas from Canada at a rate not exceeding 458,750,000 cu. ft. in any one day nor 153,270,000,000 cu. ft. in any consecutive twelve months period nor 3,826,000,000,000 cu. ft. during the term of the Licence applied for, which shall be for a period of 25 years calculated from the commencement of the effective export of gas from Canada under the said licence.

3. An application by ALBERTA NATURAL GAS COMPANY for a Certificate of public convenience and necessity under Part III of the Act to construct and operate a 36" outside diameter pipe line for the transportation of gas, the said pipe line to follow a route commencing at its junction with the pipe line of The Alberta Gas Trunk Line Company Limited at a location in Section 17, Township 8, Range 5, west of the 5th Meridian in the Province of Alberta to be approved by the Oil and Gas Conservation Board of Alberta thence generally in a southwesterly direction along the Crowsnest Pass, passing near Fernie, Elko and Moyie, in the Province of British Columbia, and terminating at the point of junction with a pipe line to be constructed, owned and operated by Pacific Gas Transmission Company on the International boundary between the Province of British Columbia and the State of Idaho in the vicinity of Kingsgate, British Columbia, a total distance of approximately 108 miles.

4. An application by CANADIAN-MONTANA PIPE LINE COMPANY for:

I. A Certificate of public convenience and necessity under Part III of the Act to construct and operate a 16" outside diameter pipe line approximately 3 miles in length from a point on the Canadian-United States border in Township 1, Range 24, West of the 4th Meridian in the Province of Alberta, to a point in Township 1, Range 24, West of the 4th Meridian in the Province of Alberta, at which point it will be connected to a pipe line to be built by The Alberta Gas Trunk Line Company Limited.

II. A Licence under Part VI of the Act for the exportation of gas from Canada in a total amount of 273,750,000,000 cubic feet, at a maximum daily rate of 36,000,000 cubic feet and not to exceed 10,950,000,000 cubic feet in any consecutive 12-month period, for a period of 25 years from the date of the first delivery under such Licence.

5. An application by WESTCOAST TRANSMISSION COMPANY LIMITED for a Licence under Part VI of the Act to export natural gas from Canada at a point on the International boundary between Canada and the United States in the vicinity of Kingsgate, British Columbia, in the total volume of 1,100,000,000,000 cu. ft. during the term of the Licence at the rate of not more than 54,000,000,000 cu. ft. of gas in any one year nor more than 165,000,000 cu. ft of gas in any one day and the applicant requests that the Licence applied for shall be for a term of not less than 20 years from January 1 following the date of the first export of gas by the applicant from Canada in the facilities herein referred to or February 29, 1984 whichever is the sooner.

Breach Widens In News Strike

PORTLAND — The rift between unions and the publishers widened still further Tuesday as the Portland newspaper strike entered its third week.

The Oregonian and the Oregon Journal, publishing a joint edition with supervisory employees and non-union workers, announced they were offering permanent jobs to new workers.

Federal mediator Elmer Williams said this led the striking stereotypers' union to demand assurance that all union workers will be rehired when the dispute is settled. Williams said the publishers rejected the demand.

The mediator said the publishers also insisted any settlement must contain an ironclad no-walkout clause. He said the meeting he called between publishers and the union broke up without any progress.

The company is now producing five editions daily of a combined Journal-Oregonian paper, for a total circulation of more than 425,000 copies.

The stereotypers had a wage scale of $3.61 an hour. One of the prime causes of the dispute was jurisdiction over a new process for casting plates, which would enable one man to do the work of four. Stereotypers have insisted that four men be retained to work the machine, which has not yet been installed by the company.

WELL-KNIT PERFORMERS—"Sock" performance is promised by garb of Budapest dancers, who wear elaborately knit stockings when performing their Hungarian folk routines.

Hotel Loses $9,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Two bandits held up the chief cashier of the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel Tuesday and escaped with $9,000.

Pioneer Son, Veteran City Doctor Dead

Dr. Arthur D. Bechtel, one of Victoria's oldest physicians, died in the Royal Jubilee Hospital today aged 77.

Born in Victoria, he had practised in Victoria since his graduation from McGill University until he retired three years ago. He lived with his wife, who survives him, at 1621 Prospect Place.

Funeral services will be held at Hayward's Chapel, Friday at 10.30 a.m., with Canon George Biddle officiating. Interment will be at Royal Oak Cemetery.

Although he was a hard-working physician, Dr. Bechtel had many spare-time interests. He was a Freemason, a former president of Victoria Golf Club and a member of the Union Club and Victoria Golf Club.

His father, Andrew Bechtel, was a prominent figure in Victoria's early history, best remembered for the sealing ships he operated.

Besides the widow, Dr. Bechtel leaves one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Stanbury of Victoria; one granddaughter, Mrs. Gene Mason of Yakima, Wash., and one grandson, Charles Stanbury in Victoria.

Canada to 'Save' 100 TB Refugees

ROME (Reuters)—Canadian mercy teams today began selecting 100 refugees suffering from tuberculosis in Italian and Austrian camps who will be brought with their families to new lives in Canada.

An estimated 400 to 500 refugees — the sick ones and their families—will be flown to Canada at Canadian government expense as part of a special World Refugee Year resettlement scheme.

Arrangments are being made by the federal government with provincial authorities for treatment in hospitals and for maintenance of dependents if necessary.

HERE FOR CHRISTMAS

It is expected that many of the 100 families will be in Canada before Chrismas.

This is the first program for non-sponsored tubercular refugees undertaken by any overseas country, the Rome office of the United Nations high commissioner for refugees said.

To include as many families as possible, the Canadian authorities have ruled that only families with one TB patient will be eligible for the project.

Canadian teams, helped by the Inter-Governmental Committee for European Migration, are selecting 50 tubercular refugees from a camp 45 miles south of here, and another 50 in Austria.

"BARRIERS DOWN"

Dr. A. R. Lindi, UN high commissioner for refugees, said that "Canada has in effect said 'barriers down' to these TB refugees."

"One cannot think of any gesture that could embody more effectively the humanitarian spirit of the World Refugee Year."

Lindi noted that Canada has admitted some 300,000 displaced persons and refugees in the last 12 years.

Incorporation Backer Says Voters Misled

A. W. Bradfield, chairman of the View Royal incorporation committee, today accused the community's fire chief of a "deliberate attempt to mislead the voters."

He attacked an earlier statement by A. E. Beasley, chief of the View Royal volunteer fire department, that village incorporation would end free snow removal of side streets by the provincial highways department.

Mr. Beasley said this could result in hampering fire protection services.

Mr. Bradfield countered that snow removal could be done at an annual cost of only $300 and this had been included in original estimates of the cost of incorporation.

"To suggest that snow removal will be a problem is a deliberate attempt to mislead the voters," he said.

"We are shocked to hear that fire protection costs are likely to rise because a study . . . throughout the province indicated that the View Royal Fire District costs are already high.

"These costs will be borne by the taxpayer regardless of whether the area is incorporated."

View Royal home owners vote on the incorporation issue Thursday at the community hall.

FROM BOMARC TO HELLER

Dictionary Needed By Today's Soldier

OTTAWA (CP) — Introduction of new weapons into the Canadian armed forces, especially guided missiles, is lengthening the list of names which may be confusing even to some servicemen.

Here is a glossary of the new terms.

Bomarc — ground-to-air guided missile for defence against manned bombers. The letters represent Boeing Airplane Company of Seattle, Wash., the manufacturer, and the University of Michigan aeronautical research centre, which helped develop the weapon.

Lacrosse—surface-to-surface missile used by the army much like artillery. The name is taken from the game and refers to the weapon's capability of being thrown forward from a rear area.

Sidewinder—The navy's air-to-air guided missile used by jet planes to shoot down other planes. It is named after the American rattlesnake.

DEW — the Distant Early Warning radar line in the Canadian Arctic.

MCL—the Mid-Canada warning line across the 55th parallel of latitude.

Pinetree—the radar chain in southern Canada used to control the operations of jet interceptors.

SAGE — semi-automatic ground environment, an electronic system to collect and channel information from radar stations to the command and combat centres.

Bobcat—the army's new personnel or weapons carrier.

NEW SNOWMOBILE

RAT—the army's new snowmobile. It is also a guided missile used by the U.S. Navy and which the Canadian Navy wants to acquire.

Heller—the army's new anti-tank weapon used by infantry.

FNCI—the army's new rifle. "FN" stands for Belgium's Fabrique Nationale which developed the weapon and "CI" for Canadian, Mark I, signifying that the Canadian Army made modifications before adopting the rifle.

CL-28 or Argus — the RCAF's new transport plane, still under development.

Caribou — the army's new transport plane, still under development.

CI-66—the RCAF's new medium tranpsort, still under development.

125-Passenger Train Trapped Inside Tunnel

MONTREAL (CP)—A CNR commuter train with 125 passengers was trapped in the tunnel under Mount Royal for an hour Tuesday night.

A CNR spokesman said power in the tunnel was cut off when the engineer of the electrically-powered train heard "a strange noise" on top of the cars.

The cause of the noise was not immediately known.

The spokesman said the passengers did not panic when the lights failed. Auxiliary lights went into operation minutes later.

The train, bound for nearby St. Eustache, was pushed out of the tunnel by a diesel engine.

A post-chaise of former centuries was an enclosed, four-wheeled carriage drawn by either two or four horses.

Flyweight King Ready to Retire

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — World flyweight champion Pascual Perez would like to have a shot at the bantam title before retiring after a couple more fights.

The 33-year-old Argentine boxer said Thursday he plans to leave the ring soon.

"If I win my next defence of the flyweight crown, I would like to challenge Joe Becerra of Mexico for the bantam title," Perez said. "That would be a nice way to wind up my career."

Ripper Suspect Held

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard today arrested a 27-year-old soldier believed to be the "Scarfaced Mick" suspected of a series of Jack-the-Ripper type assaults on women, and possibly one or more murders.

Willows School Last To Hear About Award

Students and staff of Willows Elementary School were the last to find out their school was winner of a general proficiency award for good fire prevention and drill Tuesday afternoon.

The announcement that they had won in competition with eight other Oak Bay public and private schools was made at a school assembly attended by fire department and school board representatives, similar to a morning ceremony at Central Junior High School, named winner in Victoria city competition.

Presentation of a perpetual trophy was made to principal Tom Curtis by fireman Fred Leek, representing Oak Bay members of Local 730, International Association of Fire Fighters, donor of the award.

Runner-up in the Oak Bay contest was Oak Bay Junior High School, which will be presented with a certificate of proficiency later.

Baby Beater Sent to Jail For 1 Month

Career soldier Melvin Garry Bagg, 26, of Work Point, was sentenced in city police court to one month in jail for the beating of a two-year-old baby boy Oct. 24.

He was found guilty of assault causing bodily harm after a trial Monday where court was told Bagg used an army uniform belt to strike the lower back and buttocks of Dean French, 1909 Birch, where Bagg was a frequent visitor to the child's mother. The blows raised welts and drew blood.

Mrs. French was in hospital at the time and had left her son and other children in the care of baby sitter Catherine McDonald, 220 Richmond.

She said Bagg came to the apartment to change his clothes before going to visit Mrs. French in the hospital. When he returned a short time later she heard him talking to the baby, then heard the baby scream, she told the court.

SAW HIM

Looking in a bedroom doorway, "I saw him hitting the baby with his belt," Miss Mc*Donald* said.

In his defence Bagg said he had used his hand to administer the "spanking" and Mrs. French said Bagg was authorized by her to discipline her children.

Magistrate William Ostler noted from a probation report Bagg had a good army record and no previous convictions and he accepted the defence contention that Bagg meant no harm to the child.

"But it is clear that you were upset and took it out on this child."

He said he noted a similar situation had drawn a previous warning from Mrs. French, and he was satisfied Bagg lied when he said he struck the child with his hand.

"You committed a brutal assault on this helpless infant, using an army belt . . . and you might have caused permanent injury."

Ottawa Chose 'Easy Way' Says Nanaimo

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo Joint Action Committee of the Public Servants' Organization of Canada has prepared a brief to be sent the federal government protesting refusal to grant civil servant wage increases.

It charges the government has chosen an "easy way" to solve its financial problems "at the expense of one segment of the economy denied the benefits of collective bargaining".

The brief says also that "the whole system of employer-employee negotiation in the government service is outmoded".

SOLUTION FRIDAY

ask Andy
HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Timothy George, aged 12, of Tonopah, Ariz., for his question:

What Relatives Has the Horse?

His family name is Equidae, from the Latin word for horse. Considering what an important animal he is, the horse has very few cousins indeed. All of them look enough like him to be recognized and most varieties can intermarry and have horsy children. The family includes horses, the asses, the donkeys and the zebras. A mule is the offspring of an ass and a horse and as a rule it cannot have children of its own.

To be a member of the Equidae family, an animal must have four single hoofs, a mane and a tail of long, coarse hair. He must also have strong grinding teeth with high crowns which wear down as he grows older. He is also a sizeable animal and one of the swiftest on four feet. Add this all up and you have one of the most handsome animals in the world.

The horse family, we believe, got its start in the New World some 60 million years ago. The horsy ancestor was a little fellow, only 11 inches tall at shoulder level. Instead of hoofs he had toes, four toes on each front foot and three on each hind foot. Even then the little fellow could travel, for we find his bones in Europe. Scientists think he trotted over a land bridge which then existed between the Old World and the New.

Through countless generations he grew bigger and developed a hoof from a single toe on each foot. He also grew stronger teeth and trotted forth to settle down in Asia and Africa. For some unknown reason, the horse either left the New World altogether or failed to survive here.

Wherever he settled, he adapted to his surroundings. In some areas he developed into a big powerful horse, in others he became a wild pony or an ass, more like his remote ancestors.

As a rule, these horsy cousins were brown or dun-colored animals. But certain horses in Africa had to cope with a background of vivid light and shade. They had to blend into this brilliant scenery or fall prey to the hungry lions. These horses became the striped zebras.

Donkeys descended from wild asses and have been tamed for 6,000 years or more. They helped to build the pyramids some 5,000 years ago. The horse may have been first tamed by the Babylonians some 2,500 years ago and all our modern breeds are developed from various horses tamed before the dawn of modern times.

We hear of wild horses living in canyons and other remote places, but these animals are not truly wild.

TV SPREAD NEWEST ILL TO AFFLICT CANADIANS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadians are developing a new disorder — television spread.

So says Harcourt Roy, executive director of the National Fitness Council.

He told the Humane Science Society Tuesday night that Canadians are "going to pot" mentally, physically and emotionally and that their bodies are becoming pear-shaped through stuffing their stomachs and not using their legs.

"Right now it isn't fashionable to keep in shape," he said. "People won't run around the block just for the joy of physical exercise because they fear the neighbors will talk.

"Possibly the answer for these people is modified yogi. This way they can exercise without letting the cat out of the bag."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Who is our greatest woman singer—Mary Martin . . . Ethel Merman . . . Judy Garland . . . Sophie Tucker . . . Kate Smith?

Stopped you, didn't I? Roger Edens, who's a trifle biased, hedges a little, but says: "Merman's created more hit songs . . . Great as Mary Martin is, she hasn't been around that long . . . Judy's got some great songs, but she didn't create them all . . . Ethel's had the real cream of the composers: Berlin, Cole Porter, Dorothy Fields, Arthur Schwatz and now Julie Styne . . ."

Edens nodded that yes, he could be biased.

"I was playing piano in the pit the night Merman came to Broadway in 'Girl Crazy,'" he said. "In 1930, which is 29 years ago. Al Siegel, her accompanist, collapsed and I went up on stage to play for her . . . She was a handsome, sexy-looking girl in a lush way."

And the hour on TV Tuesday night "Ethel Merman on Broadway," showed that the great song "belter" still has all her stuff.

* * *

"Judy," he said, "should forget about her weight. When she sings the whole house falls on its face. Her mother brought her to me at MGM when she was 13. Prettiest thing you ever saw! Let her go on and be as big as Sophie Tucker or Kate Smith, but just sing!"

Edens added: "Merman is a little on the elephant side, you know?"

"What " I asked, stunned.

"She doesn't forget things, is what I meant," he said quickly. "You hear stories about her hurting other performers. That's a consummate lie! She won't be taken advantage of, she'll fight anybody she thinks is wrong, she'll tell anybody at all, 'Don't give me any of that ——!'

* * *

Anything devious or under the table makes her blow up.

MARY MARTIN
. . . newcomer?

'Gypsy' is the peak of her career. Her voice is better than it's been in 15 or 20 years. It's found a wonderful level."

"She's been saying for some years that she was about to retire," I said.

Eden answered: "She wants to play this in London. There may be a movie. By the time she's finished all her commitments, maybe she won't want to do any more shows." He smiled. "Then again, maybe she will."

EARL'S PEARLS: Description of "Ben Hur," with its chariot race, "An Italian western." Orson Welles, directing a death scene in Europe recently, told the star: "Put more life into your dying!"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: If Lincoln were a young man today he'd have no trouble getting an education—he was tall enough to qualify for a basketball scholarship.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A conference is a meeting at which people talk about the things they should be out doing instead of attending meetings.

PHILIP PLAYS PRINCELY PART IN TOUR MOVIE

LONDON (UPI)—The Duke of Edinburgh plays himself in a 45-minute color movie of a 36,000-mile journey he made to Asia and the South Sea Islands earlier this year.

The film, titled "Commonwealth Journey," was filmed for the central office of information. It is being distributed throughout the Commonwealth.

The Duke introduces the film and narrates a portion of it. At one point he explains why two or three minutes of the film are in black and white.

"The color camerman was sick."

THIRD MARRIAGE was entered into Tuesday by actress Dolores Del Rio, 51. Groom was producer Lewis A. Riley in a ceremony at Newark, N.J. It was his second marriage.

Prizewinning Russian Film To Show Here

A prize-winning Russian film, that country's first major production in Cinescope, will be given a three-day sponsored run at the Fox Theatre next week.

The film is named "Don Quixote," after the world famous novel by Cervantes.

Victoria College Film Club and the Federation of Pacific Film Societies are sponsoring the experiment. If well received, they plan to bring other top rank foreign films here.

RUNNER-UP

Don Quixote, filmed in color, was runner-up for the grand prize at the 1958 Vancouver Film Festival. It has Russian dialogue with English subtitles.

The feature film, along with two shorts, will be shown at 6.45 p.m. and 9 p.m. daily, Nov. 30 to Dec. 2. Regular prices will be charged.

(BB) "THIS MOST GALLANT AFFAIR" (Odeon): It is difficult to be entirely dispassionate about a film covering the raid on Dieppe, even after 17 years. Too many friends were lost. Memories still linger. One, therefore, possibly expects too much.

Certainly the 45-minute Canadian project should have been documentary, a faithful story compiled via newsreel clips, captured enemy film and film from our own archives. For Dieppe was a thorn without roses as borne out by the staggering losses in dead, wounded and captured.

The only rose on Dieppe's grave was Experience. It taught us that surprise was not enough; that one could only cope with a well-entrenched, brave and ruthless foe by having superior fire power. Because of the lesson so dearly learned at Dieppe, other landings, especially the great invasion of Normandy, were victorious, with casualties kept in rotio to successes attained.

If the Canadian film had been a full-length feature perhaps some fiction interwoven with the facts might have been permissible. But 45 minutes is too short for this sort of thing. The story of a Canadian girl returning to Dieppe to see her brother's grave was quite unnecessary. A single panoramic shot of the rows upon rows of simple crosses marking the graves of the 800 who died in the abortive action would have been mute testimony enough.

* * *

IT IS GOOD to know that the Canadian cemetery is cherished by the French and neatly tended, that a monument has been raised to mark the spot where two of our lads were shot from the tree in which they were hiding. Such things will make some who lost their sons, their fathers, brothers and lovers feel happier that what was given has not altogether been forgotten.

But many veterans of the Second World War will feel that a Canadian company on such an all-Canadian subject could have done better by treating it for what it was, a military exercise carried out gallantly, if not successfully. It was a subject calling for much more film of the actual fighting, of preparations, of upper command strategy, diagrams and, above all, a feeling in the film of drive towards an explanatory objective.

As it was "This Most Gallant Affair" turned out to be a sentimental journey into hodgepodge that taught little and had very little to say on Canada's first major action in the Second World War.

Second part of the bill is "Whirlpool". They both end their run tonight.

$364,000 PRICE PAID FOR GAUGUIN PAINTING

LONDON (UPI) — An American art dealer paid $750,000 today for two paintings, paying a world record price for a Gauguin.

Rosenberg and Stiebel of New York laid $364,000 on the line for Gauguin's "I Await the Letter," sold by auction at Sotherby's Gallery. The previous record price for a Gauguin was $280,000 paid in Paris in 1957.

The same firm paid $406,000 for Paul Cezanne's "Paysan en Blouse Bleu." Only last year the artist's "Boy In a Red Waistcoat" fetched a record $616,000 in the same salesroom.

WELLINGTON GOT HELP

Napoleon's Gland Cause of Waterloo

LONDON (AP)—A doctor declared Sunday Napoleon lost an empire because his pituitary gland went on the blink.

Harley Street surgeon James Kemble pointed out Napoleon began to get fat at 40—at the summit of his career—and from then on the decline set in.

Kemble made his diagnosis in a medical history and private life of the Corsican dictator called Napoleon Immortal, published today.

"His pituitary gland failed him prematurely," Kemble wrote. "And the failure of that tiny gland changed the events of his future years.

"The lean young soldier, subject to nervous rashes and fits of rage, had become obese. His hair had thinned and his skin was smoother.

WANTED TO SLEEP

"His mental activity was lower. He wanted to sleep more. He did not make decisions with the same imperiousness."

These symptoms, said Kemble, meant Frohlich's disease. Black's medical dictionary defines it as: "Bodily changes typified by the fat boy in the Pickwick papers. Physical sluggishness and retarded sexual development. The result of disturbed pituitary function."

Kemble did not include Napoleon's weight chart in his book. But he said his researches among French records of the time vividly depict the emperor's increasing bulk.

"He was estimated as a young man to weigh between 55 and 60 kilograms—121-132 pounds," said Kemble. "Yet in middle age after 40—he shot up to 75-80 kilograms (165-176 pounds). That was quite an increase."

INFLAMED BLADDER

Kemble moved on to 1812 and Napoleon's "mysterious malady" at the height of the Russian campaign. After probing all the records Kemble hazarded a diagnosis of acute cystitis—inflammation of the bladder. The inactivity and indecision for which Napoleon was criticized during the campaign were forced on him by the sudden onset of this painful disease, he said.

Kemble pictures Napoleon before his downfall at Waterloo as fat and flabby, slow in mind and movement, exhausted by yet another complaint.

"What has been called by French writers the enigma of Waterloo is really no enigma at all," he added. "It was hemorrhoids, or piles."

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Heavy Damage as Gale Lashes Mainland Areas

(Compiled from CP)

VANCOUVER — Gale-force winds lashed parts of British Columbia Tuesday in the wake of weekend rainstorms.

Power blackouts were common here as 60-mile-an-hour winds uprooted trees, snapped power poles and toppled signs and television antennas.

At Hope, 100 miles east in the upper Fraser Valley, rain-swollen mountain streams cut the Trans-Canada Highway and stopped traffic on the Canadian Pacific Railway main line.

Near Penticton, in the Okanagan Valley, another 100 miles east, winds gusting to 90 miles an hour whipped through a planing mill, hurling heavy boards into the air like matchsticks and demolishing cabins.

Large areas in Vancouver's suburbs were without power for more than an hour after the strong northwesterly blew up early in the afternoon. Tugs and small boats ran for shelter just ahead of heavy waves.

Several pleasure craft were ripped from their moorings at Kitsilano Beach in English Bay.

A large window crashed to the sidewalk from the fourth storey of the National Trust Company building on downtown Burrard Street, but no one was injured.

The Trans-Canada Highway washout left 60 school children stranded at Hope. Buses taking them to their Fraser Canyon homes at Spuzzum and Yale had to turn back and Hope residents took the children in for the night.

BURNED MAN DIES

VANCOUVER — Chester L. Hunt, superintendent of the B.C. Electric hydro plant, at Bridge River died in hospital here Tuesday from serious burns suffered when a power regulator switch exploded. C. S. Johnston, a sub-foreman, is in poor condition in hospital here with burns.

HOLDUP FOILED

VANCOUVER — A diminutive, elderly woman Tuesday was credited with foiling the first bank holdup here in 14 months.

A 22-year-old man was arrested in a downtown branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada after the woman customer, who said she did not want to be identified to avoid publicity, tipped the manager that the man was holding up a teller.

She was in the bank when the man came in and got in line behind her at a teller's cage. As she moved away, the man stepped forward and pushed a brown paper bag toward teller Mrs. Helen Clark.

"Fill the bag, there's a gun on you," was printed on the bag. He carried a newspaper under his arm as if it were concealing a gun.

Mrs. Clark took $583 in bills out of her cash drawer and pushed them and the bag toward the man. She then dropped to the floor and crawled out of the cage.

Meanwhile, the woman customer had tipped manager H. I. Jeffrey, who grabbed the man from behind and held him until police arrived.

Charged later with robbery by assault with intent to steal was Wayne King Bach, 22.

HERO REMEMBERED

NEW WESTMINSTER—City council has named a park after a teen-aged boy who drowned in the Fraser River Nov. 8 while attempting to save a nine-year-old girl from drowning. The new park was named the "Terry Hughes Park" in memory of the 18-year-old youth.

ADDICT JAILED

VANCOUVER — A young man who said he became addicted to narcotics while serving a term in the B.C. Penitentiary was sent back to the prison for 3½ years Tuesday.

David Robertson, 22, pleaded guilty to selling a capsule of heroin to RCMP undercover constable Kent McDonnell.

Defence counsel H. A. D. Oliver said Robertson was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for breaking and entering in 1953, when he was 15 years old. The Court of Appeal reduced the sentence to two years.

"I am instructed that while he was in the B.C. Penitentiary he had his first fix, and that he came out of there a confirmed addict," Mr. Oliver said.

PIONEER DIES

VANCOUVER — Funeral services will be held today for Ernest Law who died here Monday at the age of 101.

Mr. Law, who was as old as the province of British Columbia, could remember when Vancouver was a community of 500 people.

ALDERMAN EJECTED

NEW WESTMINSTER — Alderman J. Lewis Sangster, ejected from a city council meeting here Monday on orders from Mayor Beth Wood, said he has referred the issue to his lawyer.

"She had no excuse for having me ejected and I have turned the whole matter over to my lawyer," said the 68-year-old veteran of 20 years as alderman and mayor.

Police lifted him out of city council chambers on his chair when he continued arguing a motion which named city comptroller Wilf Greene as New Westminster's representative on an inter-municipal bargaining committee.

He said he received a steady flow of sympathy calls Tuesday.

BUSY HOST A GOOD BET

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Busy Host won the third race at Bay Meadows Tuesday and paid $270.80, $65.00 and $26.20 in the $2 mutuels.

Donald Pierce rode the two-year-old in a six-furlong race, to win by a neck over the favorite, Battle Down.

8TH ARMY VETERAN CATERED TO HOLLYWOOD STARS

He Made English Teashop Into Italian Restaurant

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

But for the war, Carlo Parlato would now be operating a hotel in Milan which his grandfather founded more than 50 years ago.

Instead he is chef-proprietor of a small secluded Italian restaurant in Victoria.

When Italy surrendered to the Allies in 1943, brisk energetic Mr. Parlato ("I hated Fascism") joined Viscount Montgomery's Eighth Army, with men of many nations, and fought in North Africa.

The hotel he had operated up to 1943 was occupied and is now leased to a catering firm until 1964. Meanwhile, Mr. Parlato, his Canadian wife and their two small children have settled in Victoria.

Actors' Parties

"After my discharge from the army, I go to America — try my luck in Hollywood," said Mr. Parlato in his crisp abbreviated English. "I am a good cook and know catering, so I arrange parties for movie actors."

From the photos Mr. Parlato showed me it looks as if the stars and starlets enjoyed the food and drink he served them, and he has other testimonials in the way of letters and autographed menus.

But for some reason (he did not explain why) Mr. Parlato did not choose to stay in Hollywood. He worked in other cities across the United States and from New York moved up to Montreal.

"That is fine city for catering work," he said, "but cold — too cold for me. Canadians tell me British Columbia has the best climate in Canada, so I travel out to Vancouver and on to Victoria.

Trees on Streets

"Victoria I like from the first and particularly the country around it. The city I do not think is as beautiful as it could be. There should be trees on the streets—boulevards we call them—and more fountains like you have in front of the Parliament Buildings."

However, Mr. Parlato and his wife decided to live here and six months ago they purchased a teashop on Fort Street and turned it into an Italian restaurant known as the Roma.

Here Mr. Parlato prepares the tasty foods he learned to cook at his father's hotel in Milan, and serves them in a tasteful environment created with soft shaded lights, choice (uncomplicated) paintings, dainty chinaware and polished mahogany furniture.

Through a concealed speaker he plays records of the best Italian music—but not opera because it interferes with conversation.

More Novelties

"Some Victoria people come here regularly," he says, "and during the summer we have many tourists. But I feel Victoria needs more novelties. There is not enough for the tourist to do. The scenery is lovely but you cannot live on scenery."

Mr. Parlato agrees, however, that the city should not give up its quiet relaxed atmosphere. Its novelties and entertainments should conform to local character and tradition.

He points out that the older seaside towns of England offer plenty of entertainment, but do not try to copy London with flashing lights and amusement arcades.

"I think it is wrong to have flashing lights in Victoria," said Mr. Parlato. "They do not belong here. We should not try to be just another American city. Tourists will not come here for what they can get at home."

He says Italy attracted more than 15,000,000 tourists in 1958 and the figur for 1959 is likely to be higher. The country has developed much of its tourist trade at the expense of France. Thousands who used to go to France every year are now going to Italy.

Fashion Centre

Mr. Parlato said Rome is getting to be as big a fashion centre as Paris, and his own city of Milan has developed tremendously. It is now the wealthiest manufacturing and commercial city in Italy besides being an important art centre and the home of the famous La Scala Opera Company, whose records are widely sold in North America.

Because of its industrial importance, Mila was the target of heavy air raids during the war, first by the British and after 1942 by both British and American forces.

Yet, says Mr. Parlato, it is much more prosperous now than it was before.

"That is also true of most Italian cities," he added.

UNION JACK REPLACED

Symbol of U.K. Rule Vanishing in Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters) — Prince Philip Tuesday night presented new flags to a Ghana regiment and watched one of the last symbols of former British rule fade into history.

The prince presented the national flag of red, yellow and green. Then one of the last two Union Jacks in official use in Ghana was marched off the field. The last Union Jack also will soon be replaced.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Saanich police court Tuesday:

Romaine James, Sidney, $100 for driving while under suspension.

Joseph M. Hood, 810 Lily, $35 for careless driving.

Cecil D. Marryatt, 1334 Wood, $20 for following another vehicle too closely.

Arman Boholzer, 319 Vancouver, $25 each for speeding over 50 and failing to obey a siren.

Glen Orland Bennett, 5162 Cordova Bay, $35 for speeding over 40.

Thomas Marion Chorney, 1018 Oliphant, $20; Monte Rae Preston, 1215 Tillicum, $25; Eric Carl Pedersen, Central Saanich Road, $25, for speeding over 30.

U.S., Russia May Build Super A-Smasher Together

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia agreed Tuesday to exchange information in the field of peaceful uses of atomic energy, including possible construction of a super atom-smasher.

John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Professor V. S. Emelyanov, head of the U.S.S.R. administration for utilization of atomic energy, signed a memorandum providing for the exchange of non-secret information.

In addition, the two nations will make all reports and findings available to the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The memorandum deals mainly with general aims but does specify that initial explorations will include study of the design and construction of "an accelerator of a large and novel type". This is a reference to a super atom-smasher which would become the principal research tool of its kind for the whole world.

McCone said last Sunday that "only one would be needed" if such a project could be carried through.

Other subjects slated for prompt study include "undertakings in controlled thermonuclear reactions", which would include electric power production; approaches to compilation, and the development of international nuclear standards.

STIFFER FINES FACE MINORS WITH LIQUOR

Warning of higher penalty for minors in possession of liquor was made in Saanich police court Tuesday by Magistrate William Ostler.

He fined Barry Arthur Pass, 20, of 2891 Murray, the usual $15 when Pass pleaded guilty to having beer in a car on Shelbourne Street, then remarked:

"There are all together too many of you young men coming in on this particular charge. You know the law; it has been the same for years and years.

"If it continues, there is going to be an increase in the penalty."

14 Killed in Bus

HUANUCO, Peru (UPI)—A bus plunged into the Huallaga River near here Tuesday, killing 12 women and two children and injuring five women among its passengers.

Seven Radio Traffic Signals Installed

Installation of radio controls for traffic signals at seven intersections has been completed, Victoria Fire Chief James Bayliss said Tuesday.

The controls are in operation along Cook, at Pandora and Yates, and along Bay at Cook, Quadra, Blanshard, Douglas and Government Streets.

So far only fire trucks and cars have been equipped with the radio transmitters that "trigger" the controls ahead of an emergency run.

A narrow radio beam sent out by the transmitters turns all traffic lights red at a controlled intersection, giving the fire apparatus right-of-way.

A special white light also goes on to inform the fire truck driver that the controls are working. This is a safety precaution to avoid collisions that might be caused by malfunction of the controls at a critical moment.

"It is hoped that additional intersections and emergency vehicles will be equipped with this system sometime in the future," Chief Bayliss said.

Mayor Will Retire

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Gerald Hyde announced Tuesday he will not seek re-election in the city's elections next month. The mayor was one of a number of Belleville officials criticized in a report by a royal commission which investigated the city's finances.

IN TIME FOR DEBATE IN LEGISLATURE?

Full Wengren Plans Out by Late March

W. C. MAINWARING
. . . ready to go.

Engineers' reports on the energy potential of the Peace River, detailed studies of production and transmission costs, and proposed markets for the 4,000,000 horsepower available, will be unveiled during the last weeks of the next session of the B.C. legislature.

This was indicated Tuesday by W. C. Mainwaring, president of Peace River Power Development Co., in a noon address to Victoria Kiwanis Club.

He said: "The engineering is finished, the planning is finished . . . but it will all remain confidential until reported on by the water comptroller."

He said under agreement between the cabinet and the power company, the comptroller, A. F. Paget, has 90 days after the deadline for submission, Dec. 31, to rule on issuance of a water licence.

It's Feasible

"The plan is in the hands of the printers now, and will be filed in time. The plan is completely feasible and a definite commitment will be given on the development," said Mr. Mainwaring.

He said the studies have taken a full three years at a cost of $5,200,000 and "there is still a great deal of work to do."

But once the scheme is filed, "we are prepared to proceed immediately, when we have the approval of the provincial government."

(Under existing regulations governing water licences, individual applications need not be approved by the legislature if approved by the water comptroller. However, the comptroller's report, 90 days after submission, will come during the last weeks of the session which starts Jan. 28.

House Debate

It is bound to be accompanied with another drive by opposition members to have the project, because of its immensity and importance to the future of B.C., placed before the legislature.)

Mr. Mainwaring championed his company's project and belittled those who believe the Columbia, planned as a public power project, should be undertaken ahead of the Peace.

The earliest power could come from the Columbia to the lower mainland would be 10 or 11 years from now. On the other hand Peace River power will reach the industrial areas of the province by 1968.

The 400,000 horsepower developed by that time will have cost $375,000,000 and when the full 4,000,000 horsepower is ready for industry, the investment will have reached $625,000, he said.

He was "ridiculed," he said, for stating this energy could be delivered at a cost comparable to present B.C. Electric production costs, but he was still certain of this.

Fine Route

He knew many were concerned with possible high cost of transmission. But the north-south valley route was "one of the finest transmission routes in North America." And in the last three or four years there have been tremendous strides in voltage transmission.

He said his company would use the highest voltage transmission in the world—a 500,000-volt line. There is a 400,000-volt line in Russia and the B.C. Electric now has a 345,000-volt line.

"I predict that within 10 years there will be 600,000 and 750,000-volt transmission lines . . . we could transmit all the energy over two circuits, but we are planning three, one for safety reasons. In the first 125 miles, there is some mountainous terrain, and there as a safety factor we will duplicate the transmission facilities."

Mr. Mainwaring said the planned development calls for a first dam, Portage Mountain Dam, west of Hudson's Hope, 600 feet high and 700 feet across the crest.

"The plant will eventually contain 12 of the largest turbines ever installed in North America."

The first stage development calls for four.

This main dam will create a 250-mile long lake where the Finlay and Parsnip Rivers join to become the Peace. Fourteen miles downstream will be another 140-foot dam. There are two other dam sites between there and the Alberta border, which will boost the potential to 5,000,000 horsepower.

"Then there are the Halfway and the Pine Rivers (Peace tributaries) and there is considerable more power on both."

With these sites developed, he said it would be theoretically possible to develop another 5,000,000 horsepower on the Peace in Alberta, before it reaches Great Slave Lake.

"It is one of the really large power rivers of the world."

He pointed out that at present, the total power production in B.C. totals less than 3,500,000 horsepower.

Big Hookup

Studies are underway, said Mr. Mainwaring, for connecting the resources of the Columbia, the Fraser and the Peace Rivers, electrically and hydraulicly."

"What can be done is beyond belief. The power resources of B.C. can be doubled or trebled."

He is sure there is still an undeveloped 50,000,000 horsepower. And there is no threat from the use of nuclear energy to create power.

"It is three times the capital cost to start with, and then you have to keep buying fuel. In the next 20 years there is nothing to indicate nuclear power would be competitive with B.C. hydro."

The speaker took issue with a recent power series in the Times by Ottawa correspondent Tom Gould.

"Confusion is created by articles such as this. The statements are so far from the facts."

He was opposed to the suggestion that power could be shipped into B.C. from the Columbia even before there is a generator installed on the Canadian end of the river. The article referred to a return of U.S. downstream benefits when a storage dam is built in Canada.

A Long Road

The article said a start could be made as soon as the U.S. and Canadian governments agree on basic principles for sharing the power. Within three to five years, Columbia power could be shipped to Vancouver area on transmission lines already in existence.

"No matter what is agreed upon, nobody can touch a rock on the Columbia without first completing full studies, turning them over to the water comptroller, obtaining preliminary clearance, going to the Public Utilities Commission to have them study to see if it is in the public interest, back to the water comptroller and he may issue a licence. And then they still have to go to the National Energy Board for approval."

This would take years. And as far as the contention goes, that transmission line now in use could be employed to send power into B.C., they are all overloaded.

"They would have to build completely new transmission lines in the states."

'Rubbish'

Articles such as these are "rubbish" and it is no wonder the public is confused, said Mr. Mainwaring.

The newspapers should put people on the [illegible] something about the business, he said.

Many people writing technical articles on power development are unable to understand them. The newspapers should make sure they have the real facts and "let the people make their own decisions," Mr. Mainwaring added.

He concluded with the remark: "Outside of a little power they will get back from the United States, which wouldn't handle B.C.'s needs for two years, there is no cheap power on the Columbia."

Tourists Say Roads Bad---Scenery Best

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's scenery is its greatest asset in attracting and pleasing American tourists, a report compiled by the Canadian government travel bureau suggests.

Tourists' No. 1 complaint: Road conditions.

The report, based on a broad survey carried out in late September and October, was tabled Tuesday at the federal-provincial tourist conference by bureau director Alan Field.

The travel bureau sent out questionnaires to 137,230 Americans—a "broad sample" of those who had asked earlier in the year for holiday information on Canada.

By the end of October, 20,655 of the questionnaires had been returned—a 15-per-cent response. Of those responding 14,737 said they actually visited Canada this year. They formed the basis for the bureau's data.

COURTESY RATES HIGH

One of the questions asked was: "What did you like most about your Canadian vacation?" Scenery was the reply in 34.6 per cent of responses. Next came "courtesy" with 15.7 per cent, fishing at eight per cent, and road conditions at three per cent.

Another question was: "What did you like least about your Canadian vacation?" Road conditions were the factor most cited—9.2 per cent of total responses. Next were rates of exchange, 7.1 per cent; food, 3.1 per cent, and accommodation, three per cent.

The report showed that 95.1 per cent of those responding found their Canadian vacations very enjoyable or enjoyable. A combined total of 3.3 per cent found them a little disappointing or very disappointing.

The disappointments were usually attributed to specific situations, such as bad weather, poor fishing during the period of stay, a poor reception.

Wider Cars Meet B.C.'s Highway Rule

Ontario highways regulations may require Ford Motor Company to lop one-and-a-half inches from bumpers on its new cars to conform with an 80-inch maximum width rule —but there is no problem in B.C.

[illegible] official here said today the maximum width in B.C. is eight feet or 96 inches. Vehicles of greater width still, may obtain special permits and use B.C. roads by paying a fee.

Ontario Attorney-General Roberts was to meet today with Ford officials. The new Fords were found to be one-and-a-half inches wider than a regulation for passenger cars allows.

The meeting could result in the bumpers being narrowed, it was reported.

Drought-Hit China Area In Comeback

PEKING (Reuters)—Peasants in the Hupeh province of central China have battled their way to recovery from the worst drought in 70 years, it was reported Monday.

But heavy crop losses have resulted in a campaign to relieve the food shortage by economy measures and increased vegetable production, paper People's Daily says.

The drought, which began in some parts of Hupeh at the end of June, spread over more than 14,000 square miles of the province's 16,600 square miles of farmland. The main crops there include rice, wheat and cotton.

Peasants produced a bumper harvest on the remaining drought-hit land, the paper adds.

ALBERTA SOCREDS WANT MORE AID FROM OTTAWA

Easing of Tight Money Tops Demands

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta's Social Credit party went after the federal government Tuesday for an easing of tight money, crop deficiency payments for western farmers, increased student aid, adjustments in freight rates and more money for trans-Canada highways.

The demands on the Progressive Conservative government in Ottawa were made in the form of resolutions passed at the 25th annual convention of the Alberta Social Credit League.

Chief among them was one calling on the provincial governments to request the federal government to exercise power over credit policies and the chartered banks to ease tight money.

The convention said an artificial tight money policy is being imposed on Canadians to the detriment of the economy.

The resolution referred to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's contention that current credit restrictions are caused by actions of the chartered bank and not the government, and suggested the government has jurisdiction over the banks and other credit sources.

The government was asked to make students exempt from paying unemployment insurance fees, to make the cost of tuition and textbooks tax exemptions and to make National Housing Act loans available for student residences, especially married quarters.

In connection with freight rates, the league asked that a uniform freight rate schedule be worked out, based on miles.

The federal government was asked to contribute more to construction of trans-Canada highways because such projects often are beyond the financial means of the provinces.

York boats, used by fur traders in the Canadian West in bygone days, were hand-hewn craft up to 42 feet in length.

ALBERTA REJECTS BID TO PROMOTE 'BILL 43'

CALGARY (CP) — Labor Minister Reierson hinted Tuesday the Alberta government will take no legislative action to make labor unions legal entities.

Mr. Reierson commented on a resolution asking that unions be made subject to suit.

The labor minister said such legislation would be an attempt to solve problems which don't exist in Alberta.

Communist Concepts Flood Society---Low

CALGARY (CP)—Solon Low, national leader of the Social Credit Party, said Tuesday the western world is letting its young people grow up in a society surrounded by Communist concepts.

Mr. Low, who lost his seat in Parliament in the last election and is now a Taber, Alta., school teacher, said that the West is fighting for freedom with one hand and with the other giving over to Communists potential allies on a silver platter.

Children are taught there is no such thing as innate right or wrong or that spiritual convictions are old fashioned, he said. These are things which Communists believe and when children are taught them they become potential Communists.

UNION, RAILWAY CHIEFS START CONTRACT TALKS

MONTREAL (CP)—Union and company negotiators met here today to launch crucial contract talks involving millions of dollars for Canada's major railways and affecting 120,000 railway workers.

Representatives of 15 unions representing rail workers who do not run trains sat down with CNR and CPR negotiators in a downtown hotel to thrash out union demands for a 25-cent-an-hour pay boost.

Mammoth Rocket Poised For New U.S. Moon Shot

Biggest Effort May Go Thursday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The moon is about to move across the sky like a target in a celestial shooting gallery, and the United States is ready to take a shot at it. The attempt could come Thursday.

A towering Atlas-Able rocket stands on its pad here, waiting the signal to blast into space. Standing nearly 10 storeys high, the rocket holds a 375-pound satellite which scientists hope will go into orbit around the moon.

The 98-foot "Double-A" is the most powerful of all U.S. rockets to date. The four-stage behemoth will be a 375-pound payload that scientists hope to guide into orbit around the moon with a guidance system never tried by an American space rocket.

The spherical payload, riding in the topmost part of the Able upper stages, was designed to take pictures of the moon's "farside" surface with a facsimile scanner and transmit them back to earth upon "command" radio signals from scientists.

Also aboard will be a device to maintain temperature control inside the instrument compartment and an ultra-small electronic brain, designed to relay information to earth in the form of radio signal impulses, as well as instruments to study the lunar gravitational field and space radiation.

The most favorable time for the attempt is a four-day period starting Thursday. The chance of success is greater in this period because the paths of the earth and the moon, as they orbit about the sun, are most closely aligned.

Failure to get the rocket off by Sunday would mean a postponement until late December.

LONG TRIP

If successful, the four-stage Atlas-Able would take 2½ days to reach the vicinity of the moon, about 225,000 miles away. Then retro (reverse) rockets are to be ignited by ground signal to slow the payload so it will be attracted by the lunar gravitational field.

The United States hopes to be first in placing a satellite in orbit about the moon. Scientists here believe this would be a greater achievement than either of Russia's last two lunik shots. One of these hit the moon, the other hurled a satellite into a wide orbit around the moon and the earth.

The United States payload contains a camera to photograph the lunar surface, including the dark side which Lunik III captured on film for the first time. It also contains instruments to study and relay information on the moon's environment.

An Atlas ICBM scored its 11th straight test success Tuesday in preparation for the moonshot. The firing apparently was slated for a target somewhat short of standard intercontinental range of 6,300 statute miles.

FACES TRIAL

Immunity of parliament was stripped today from French Senator Francois Mitterand in a move that means he can be tried for allegedly faking an assassination attempt against him Oct. 16. His report of an attempt on his life created a political sensation.

$2 MILLION A MILE ROAD COST

Tenders for 1.23 miles of Trans-Canada Highway construction in the China Bar section of the Fraser Canyon indicate a new high in construction costs—where it was once described as costing $1,000,000 a mile, the price now is apparently doubled.

The lowest of five tenders opened by the highways branch Tuesday was $2,242,723—submitted by Emil Anderson and Highway Construction, jointly. Both are Vancouver firms. The highest tender was for more than $3,200,000.

The section of highway involves tunneling and a major rock cut. Engineers describe the project as one of the toughest in the Fraser Canyon section.

PLEASE HURRY BACK, DAD

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seven-year-old Jackie Foster turned toward his father today, hugged him and said:

"Hurry back, Dad."

Jackie couldn't see tears in the eyes of his father, 28-year-old Eugene Foster. Jackie is blind.

His cancerous right eye was removed at Wills Eye Hospital Tuesday. He already was blind in the left eye after cancer struck it at the age of 13 months.

His father was "going away" — for at least six months to a year. Suffering from tuberculosis, he left directly from the hospital for treatment in Browns Mills, N.J.

Jackie, with his mother at his side, told how he underwent the operation for removal of his other eye.

"Nope, it didn't hurt a bit and I didn't even get sick," he said from his bed in the hospital.

KRISHNA MENON GETS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon Tuesday received overwhelming support at a parliamentary caucus of the ruling Congress Party.

A party spokesman said all legislators who spoke at the closed-door session supported Menon who has been under fire for his handling of India's defence problems.

The defence minister was reported to have told the meeting that "all steps" are being taken to protect India's disputed frontier with Communist-controlled Tibet.

In forcible language, Menon declared that Communist China is posing a threat to India's security along the Tibetan frontier.

Reds Ease Stand At A-Ban Talks

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia today unexpectedly proposed a study of new procedure to eliminate the veto in a control commission for policing a nuclear weapons test ban.

Hitherto, Russia has insisted on veto rights in the proposed seven-power commission.

United States and British delegates at the three-power talks on a test ban said they would have to study today's Soviet statement closely before they could reply at another meeting Friday.

Today's session lasted 55 minutes. Afterwards, Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told reporters: "We are trying to find forms of voting in the control commission other than unanimity veto rights among the three original nuclear powers."

Tsarapkin said he had urged the Western side to propose an alternative procedure to the veto system.

Russia originally listed seven points over which the veto rights should apply. Since the talks began 13 months ago, the list has been whittled down to one item—budgetary and financial matters.

The three-power session took place today shortly before U.S., British and Russian scientists began their talks on detecting underground nuclear explosions.

Tsarapkin agreed Tuesday to the work program for the technical talks on new American data. This data purports to show that underground tests are harder to detect than first was believed.

Tsarapkin accepted an American compromise proposal made a week ago on the way the scientists should tackle the new data.

Western conference sources described the Soviet agreement on the terms of reference for the experts as "a very considerable and welcome advance on the Russian side."

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru warned Communist China today that "if war is thrust upon us we will fight with all our strength."

The aroused premier, raising his voice to emphasize India's determination, spoke in Parliament at opening of a debate on India's border dispute with Peking.

As Nehru was speaking hundreds of Socialists who have protested his mild approach to the crisis gathered outside Parliament and shouted anti-government slogans. Police prevented their storming into the building.

Inside Parliament pandemonium broke out when Nehru accused the opposition Socialist parties of using the Peking troubles to further their own political ends. The uproar died when he quickly apologized.

"It is a strange turn of events that India, which has stood for peace so long, is now faced with the possibility even of war," Nehru said.

He emphasized that India wanted peace; he termed war a "dangerous and a bad thing" and he said India would work to avoid it. But his speech was one of the most forthright he has delivered on the current Indo-Chinese tension.

He said at no time since India had achieved independence was its military in better shape to defend the nation's 9,000 miles of borders. And he said India's industrial might was equally able to back up military preparedness."

Nehru, in a one-hour speech to a packed House of Representatives, called for political unity and said the border incidents with Red China transcended party politics.

War and peace in the whole world might hinge on settlement of the border disputes, he said. The disputes arose when Chinese Communist troops occupied huge border areas claimed by India.

Money Probe By Ottawa?

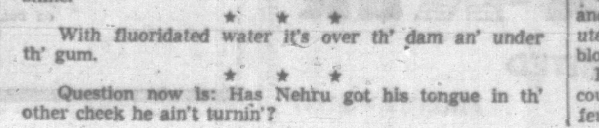
OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal for an independent inquiry into government expenditures, similar to the United States Hoover commission, is being "exhaustively examined" by the government, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

Atom-Powered Ship Planned By W. Germany

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI)—West Germany announced plans today to build its first nuclear-powered merchant ship.

A 16,000-ton tanker, the Esso Bolivar, will be converted from conventional propulsion to serve as a "nuclear test bed," the announcement said.

The Society of Nuclear Engineering, a private group financed by West Germany's four coastal states, made the announcement on the eve of a three-day convention here of nuclear ship experts designed to study atomic propulsion.



Mebbe thet rocket w'd go if they filled it with moonshine.

U.S., FRANCE SIGN HISTORIC TRADE TREATY

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and France today signed a treaty of commerce and friendship designed to make it easier for the two countries to do business with each other.

It was the first time in more than 160 years that there had been any formal regulation of U.S.-French trade relations. A U.S.-British commercial treaty has been in force for more than a century, and the United States has concluded similar treaties with a score of nations around the world since the Second World War.

POVL BANG-JENSEN
. . . burned list

SUICIDE SUSPECTED

Hunt Launched For UN Prober

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (UPI)—Povl Bang-Jensen, a Danish citizen fired from his United Nations job after he destroyed a list of Hungarian freedom fighters rather than turn it over to the UN, was reported today to have been missing from his home and job for more than 48 hours.

Bang-Jensen, 50, was said by police to have been in good health but "mentally depressed over employment difficulties." He is married to an American. They have five children.

His disappearance was reported just a few hours before the United Nations was scheduled to open a new Hungarian debate. Today's UN proceedings had no apparent relationship to his former UN work.

He left his home here at 7.40 a.m. Monday, ostensibly for his job to C.A.R.E. Inc., in Manhattan, and has not been seen since, police said. His wife, the former Helen J. Noland of Port Jervis, N.Y., reported that he left his wallet at home.

CONTROVERSY

His discharge in July 1958 by UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskold followed a long controversy over the names of escaped Hungarian freedom fighters whom Bang-Jensen had interviewed as a member of the UN commission investigating the Hungarian revolution.

He said all had feared reprisals from the Communists and he had assured each that his name would be kept secret.

At the C.A.R.E. office, a spokesman said Bang-Jensen, who also used the Americanized name Paul Jensen, had been hired as a special consultant for a six-month term which expired in October and was then extended for another six months.

NO WORRIES

"He was receiving an adequate salary and had no job worries," the spokesman said. "None of us here knew him very intimately, but he was a steady man and we saw no signs of despondency."

Police, however, apparently were working on the theory that Bang-Jensen may have taken his own life.

Bang-Jensen had been employed by the UN since 1949. He served as deputy secretary to the UN commission which turned in a blistering indictment of Russia's part in suppressing the Hungarian revolution.

Existence of his list of witnesses became known to his UN superiors only after the United States government inquired about a refugee who said he had been interviewed by Bang-Jensen. Håmmarskjold then asked Bang-Jensen to turn over the list to him for safekeeping.

When that was refused, he suggested it be placed in a sealed envelope in the UN vaults. But Bang-Jensen insisted that he had no assurance that a list so stored might not some day fall into Communist hands.

Likely Power Site Granted Free to PGE

A free grant of Crown land to be used as a Pacific Great Eastern Railway way-stop townsite was turned over to the government-owned railway today by cabinet order.

It is located at the junction of Hasler Creek and the Pine River, west of Dawson Creek.

The Pine, a tributary of the Peace, and the halfway river, were mentioned by Peace River Power Development Co. President W. C. Mainwaring Tuesday as logical supplementary power sites, for development eventually in the Peace power system.

The order noted the land grant, (acreage not specified), would be made without charge or Crown fee and would be subject only to prior easement privileges granted the West coast Transmission Company for its pipeline in the vicinity.

PGE officials were unable to comment on the townsite today but Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said it is usual for the railawy to make townsite reserves where any new development is indicated in areas served by the railway. But he did not know of any development there at this time.

TWO ARTICLES ON POWER ISSUE

In a speech to Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday, W. C. Mainwaring, president of the Peace River Power Development Company, outlined plans for the huge Wenner-Gren project and attacked a recent Times series on the power issue.

Specifically he claimed statements in the series regarding delivery of extra Columbia River power to the B.C. coast were "rubbish." A full report of his speech appears on Page 39.

Also, on Page 2, Times Ottawa reporter Tom Gould, who wrote the series, sums up federal power authorities' views on the same subject.

IT WAS JUST ROYAL MIX-UP

King Whistles for Taxi

LONDON (CP)—It's almost unbelievable in a country that specializes in dignified, red-carpet treatment for royalty.

But Tuesday night King Gustav and Queen Louise of Sweden had to stand in the Haymarket whistling for a taxi.

They eventually got one, and then sat still for 15 minutes while fire engines blocked the street.

It happened after the royal couple were driven by chauffeur to the Haymarket Theatre — the wrong place. They meant to visit the Globe.

They dismissed their chauffeur with a minimum of fuss, and walked in. Nobody met them, or even recognized them.

"Where are our friends with the tickets?" asked the queen.

The king and queen were supposed to meet Sir Harold and Lady Zia Wernher in the lobby. Lady Zia is a daughter of one of the grand dukes of Russia.

Then the king noticed that the show was "The Pleasure of His Company." They wanted to see Graham Green's "The Complaisant Lover."

That's when he blew a royal whistle.

They arrived at the Globe 15 minutes after the curtain was due to rise, but the management, expecting the royal couple, waited for them.

Queen Louise, in evening dress and fur coat, apologized to their floor-pacing friends.

"I was sure the show was at Haymarket Theatre," she explained. "I was positive."

The king smiled happily as the four were ushered into their third-row seats.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Land Developer Has His Problems

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

Riddle: When is a deal almost not a deal?

Answer: When the prospective deal is announced before it is actually closed.

Malone

A riddle of this kind had Victoria land developer Milton King looking for tall buildings to jump off recently.

Mr. King was the man behind a Royal Canadian Mounted Police plan to seek new division E headquarters in Victoria.

Primarily the RCMP wanted at least four acres with land, sea and air accessibility. Since the force also employs a number of civilians, adequate bus service was another requirement.

For months King turned up possible sites. But RCMP requirements, being as rigid as its discipline, ruled against them.

To complete Mr. King's frustration, a segment of thinking at Ottawa favored locating the division at Nanaimo instead of Victoria.

Ultimately, however, Mr. King found a site in Esquimalt which seemed good enough to overcome all objections.

Piece by piece he put it together. When all the pieces fell into a four-acre pie, Mr. King presented the plan to Ottawa. It met with favorable reception but Ottawa, being Ottawa, moved with its customary speed. That meant that weeks, perhaps months would go by before the deal was finally approved.

Mr. King waited patiently. Then one day Mayor Scurrah remarked casually that while in Ottawa to seek contracts for Victoria shipyards, he had heard the RCMP headquarters here was moving to Esquimalt.

MORE TROUBLE

This would—or could—have been enough to capsize the King plan. But things got worse before they got better. An irate politician clipped the newspaper story containing the mayor's announcement and whipped it off to Ottawa.

Ottawa, or that segment of it which had favored relocating the division at Nanaimo rather than in Victoria, was disturbed.

The official eastern brass wanted to know: (a) why the story had leaked out and (b) what role did Mr. King play, if any, in the leak.

To untangle the snarl Mr. King reached for his telephone. Several minutes and $65 later he had convinced Ottawa that he was not the villain involved in the leak.

Still shaking from the possibility of seeing months of toil slide down the drainpipe, Mr. King conducted a one-man tour of the new RCMP site.

It consists, briefly, of a former nursing home owned by James and Annie Eccles at 701 Sea Terrace, and adjacent lots. The home, built for the late Senator Barnard, is a magnificent cut stone affair with fumed oak panelling and other materials seldom seen today. Irreplaceable at $100,000 it will likely be torn down, a victim of the trend to structures more practical and less fancy.

Green lawns stretch from the home down to a protected cove, ideal for a patrol boat dock as well as a seaplane base.

Altogether the site seems completely desirable for RCMP purposes. But, as Mr. King said; there were times when it didn't look as if the deal was going to materialize.

In the land development business, as in the kitchen, too much chit-chat by too many cooks can ruin the stew.

* * *

B.C. Electric transportation officials, like other merchants, like Christmas for the dollars shoppers drop in the sock. Like other businesses, however, the BCE has its share of Christmas headaches.

One came to light Tuesday when retail merchants and the BCE were discussing the beltline shoppers' special bus service in the downtown area.

It was suggested by one merchant that the southern loop embrace Humboldt rather than Courtney Street.

"Oh, no," wailed a BCER spokesman. "There's a liquor store on Humboldt which just about drives us nuts at Christmas. People double park and a bus can be held up for hours."

Perhaps there's a moral there. After all, if you're held up, you can't drive. And isn't someone always preaching: "If you drink, don't drive."

BANK CHIEF SAYS:

Business Recovery Major Development

TORONTO, (CP)—Canadians are better off than they have ever been, J. S. Proctor, president, said today at the annual meeting of the Imperial Bank of Canada.

The vigor of the business recovery from the 1957-1958 decline, Mr. Proctor declared, is the most important development of the year.

Government spending had been one of the important sustaining factors in the downturn and now government policy, through fiscal measures, should also play its part in curbing inflation in the upturn. Mr. Proctor added:

"This means that in times of boom the growth of government expenditures on goods and services must be carefully controlled and that government should then balance its budget or run surplusses.

"A great difficulty is in making adjustments quickly enough to prevent anti-recessionary action from becoming an inflationary force as we move into recovery . . ."

TIGHT MONEY CAUSES

Current tighter money and higher interest rates, Mr. Proctor said, reflect high government spending, rapid technological change, high consumer spending and prosperity in external markets, all creating high demand for capital.

"Interest rates much higher than those of the last 20 years will probably be with us for some time.

"That interest rates now are high and credit tight is not because there has been no increase in the money supply and in bank credit. On the contrary, the money supply expanded rapidly in late 1957 and in 1958; and this expansion was accompanied by the acquisition of $1,400,000,000 of government securities by the chartered banks.

"Beginning in late 1958 and continuing throughout 1959 bank loans were expanded by almost $1,000,000,000, or nearly 20 per cent."

Commenting on the United States' current adverse balance-of-payments situation, Mr. Proctor said the U.S. may find it difficult to maintain present levels of foreign aid.

Other countries, Canada included, now might reasonably be expected to assume a greater proportion of this burden.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Loblaw's Big Jump Feature at Toronto

Stocks on the Toronto exchange moved higher today in comparatively heavy but dull trading.

Western oils, which hit a low Tuesday, climbed out of their slump and showed a gain of under a point.

Loblaw Inc. continued to lead industrials, gaining a whopping nine points at 145. Ford went up three points to 76 and Dominion Stores gained 1¼ at 50¾.

Selected issues were in demand at New York as the market moved unevenly in active trading.

AT TORONTO mines were quiet. All senior uraniums gained fractions on small turnover. Algom was up ⅜ at 10⅜ and Consolidated Denison gained ⅛ at 10¼. Gunnar won 15 cents at $9.65.

AT NEW YORK Aluminium gained 1½, Walker-Gooderham 1 International Nickel ⅞, Distillers Seagrams ½, and Granby Mining ¼.

On the American stock exchange, Canadian Marconi gained ⅛ while Shawinigan lost ½, and Scurry Rainbow Oil ⅛.

AT MONTREAL utilities and steels inclined downwards in light trading on the stock exchanges.

AT LONDON stock markets were uncertain today.

Gilt-edged securities were generally lower and dollar stocks were irregular.

Small losses were recorded in the industrials. Steel shares and motors were somewhat lower on balance.

Former Bank Chief Dies at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Byron S. Vanstone, 75, former chairman of the board of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, died Tuesday after a brief illness.

He retired as chairman in 1956 but continued as a member of the board.

Mr. Vanstone became a vice-president of the bank in 1948 and was named president in 1951.

OUT OF THE DEEP INTO THE SKY

New life for 67-foot mahogany mast which lay at bottom of sea off west coast of Vancouver Island is in making in boat-building shop of Naval Technical School, Esquimalt. Mast was salvaged by navy divers from unidentified wreck, is being shaped by apprentice-trainees for use as flagstaff at school—if wood proves sound to core after long immersion. (Times Photo.)

MONTE ROBERTS

It's always so nice to hear from old friends, and one of the loyal constituents has proven this by a verbatim report of a telephone call she received Saturday afternoon:

Rrrrinnnggg . . .

Hello?

Hello, is that Mary?

Yes.

This is Maude.

Why, Maude, how ARE you? I haven't heard from you in ages.

Yes, it has been a long time, too long. I've been meaning to call you.

I've been meaning to call you, too, Maude, but . . .

Yes, Mary, I know how it is. I was saying to my husband just the other day, I MUST call Mary, there are no friends like old friends, I said to my husband.

Now, isn't that a co-incidence, Maude? Just the other day I was saying to MY husband I MUST call Maude, after all, old friends shouldn't be neglected, I said.

How are things going, Mary, keeping busy? Lots of social life?

Oh, we go out occasionally, but . . .

How about tonight, Mary? I know this is dreadfully short notice, but are you busy tonight?

Well, Maude, we were thinking of . . .

Before you answer, Mary, let me explain. You see, one of the biggest clients of my husband's firm unexpectedly flew into town and he is such a big client we simply HAVE to do something to entertain him . . .

I understand, Maude.

Of course, we don't mind, he's a nice man, and so is his wife, and besides, my husband can use his expense account, this is such a REALLY big client.

Mmmm. Sounds nice.

So what we thought we'd do, we'd have cocktails at the club, and then dinner at that new restaurant, and then the supper dance at the hotel . . .

Why, how lovely.

I know this is SUCH short notice, Mary, but . . .

Well, Maude, I think perhaps we could change our plans.

Oh, good! I knew I could depend on you. Then you won't mind if we bring the children over at say, six? We'll pick them up again at about one, and I'm sure they won't cause you any trouble . . . Mary? Darn it, we've been cut off.

'SAFEKEEPING'

Old PPCLI Colors Rest At The Altar

In a ceremony both colorful and solmen the old colors of the 1st Battalion, PPCLI, were placed in permanent safekeeping at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, this morning.

The colors had been in the battalions possession since 1934, when they were presented by the Earl of Bessborough, then governor-general of Canada.

They were replaced this summer when Queen Elizabeth presented new colors at Beacon Hill Park.

Regimental colors, by ancient tradition and by a regulation which came into effect in 1898, are deposited in churches for safekeeping when not in use, or as a permanent record when they have been retired from active use.

The color guard today was escorted by an honor guard with fixed bayonets from Work Point, marching along Head Street to Esquimalt Road, then to the church.

The honor guard was proceeded by the scarlet-jacketed, white-helmeted battalion band.

THREE TIMES

The ceremony at the church began when Capt. Robert Frost, adjutant, pounded three times on the closed doors with the hilt of his sword.

The door was opened by Rev. J. S. Roberts, rector of St. Paul's, and Capt. Frost said:

"Reverend sir, I have been commanded by Lt.-Col. J. C. Allan, commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to inform the authorities of this church that he has repaired here today with the old colors of the battalion and desires admission to prefer a request that they be deposited herein."

'PRESENT ARMS'

The rector replied that "every facility will be afforded him in executing his most laudable purpose."

The honor guard then carried out the command "to the old colors, present arms," and the color party carried the colors into the church.

Following divine service, the colors were turned over to the warden by Col. Allan.

The rector received the colors from the warden, and draped them on the altar, where they were saluted by Col. Allan and the officers of the color party.

Police-Firemen Double-Up Work Report Secret

The report of the B.C. fire marshal's department on the benefit or harm in combining firemen and policemen duties will remain a secret, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

He had called for a study of the problem after New Westminster council recently moved to add traffic duties to the work of municipal firemen. The AG noted at the time that Esquimalt combined its police and fire service in 1956 and he said this would also come under study.

The report now has been received by the attorney-general but he told The Times, "the report from the fire marshal was private information for my department. The current situation does not warrant any expression of opinion by my department."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Two Admit Burglary From City Warehouse

'Code' Doesn't Tell How To Kill Dogs

Small Fine Not 'Judicially Wrong'

The Criminal Code of Canada does not lay down any method for killing a dog or any sentence for cruelty to animals.

"The fine could be anything from one cent to $500," said Judge J. B. Clearihue in a judgment released at Victoria County Court today.

The judge therefore dismissed a crown appeal that a $10 fine for cruelly killing a dog is "not enough."

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy had argued that Magistrate A. I. Thomas should have imposed a heavier fine on trailer camp proprietor Ernest Kay when he pleaded guilty in Colwood RCMP court Sept. 11 to killing a terrier by striking it over the head with a butcher's block brush.

The judge noted that Mr. Kay said he was a butcher by trade.

NO DETERRENT

He said the crown prosecutor had urged that a $10 fine was not sufficient to act as a deterrent against cruelty to animals, but he had "not suggested to me what is the proper fine which would be a deterrent to others."

Judge Clearihue said under the present Criminal Code he could not find that the magistrate was "judicially wrong" in imposing a $10 fine.

Reconstructing the evidence, the judge said the dog was a small terrier about eight months old. It had been owned by a Mr. Nystrom, who was staying at the Belmont Trailer Camp on the Sooke Road last summer.

When Mr. Nystrom left, the dog was abandoned and there was no one to feed it, although it appeared that some of the residents gave it food.

The dog had been a nuisance around the camp, had snapped at people and had been tied up a good deal. Several of the residents had complained to the SPCA about the dog but (so witnesses said) the SPCA had done nothing about it.

"Mr. Kay decided to get rid of the dog and took it into his house where he killed it by striking it on the head with a butcher's block brush," the judge continued.

DOG YELPED

"He says he struck the dog twice on the head. . . . Evidence was given that the dog yelped three or four times but Mr. Kay swears that the yelps, or at least most of them, were due to his carrying the dog by the scuff of the neck."

Martin L. Olsen, a veterinarian, had found that the blow which fractured the dog's skull would have rendered it unconscious.

"The dog evidently suffered some pain but not very much before being killed," Judge Clearihue said. "I must accept the evidence of Mr. Kay that there were only two blows."

"Mr. Kay, of course, should have called the SPCA to destroy the dog, but he says the SPCA had already been called by others and they could not get the SPCA to act; so he acted himself."

Judge Clearihue observed there is no law which requires a person to call in the SPCA to destroy a dog "but he must not cause unnecessary suffering."

NO APPEAL

Wing Commander Philip Wilkinson of the SPCA, who brought the original charge against Kay in police court, said he did not think the SPCA would appeal the case any further.

"We could take it to the Court of Appeal or even to the Supreme Court of Canada, "but no such appeal is contemplated at present."

Detectives Praised By Chief

Two of three young men charged with the $4,000 burglary of Vancouver Barge Transportation Ltd. Friday night pleaded guilty today in city police court.

The trio, including a 16-year-old boy and a naval rating, was arrested at about 3 p.m. Tuesday by detectives who had worked on the case almost around the clock since Saturday morning.

Waldon William Pelton, 20, of HMCS Naden, and Charles C. Casey, 16, of 1228 Crown Crescent, who was transferred to open court from juvenile court, entered pleas of guilty before Magistrate William Ostler.

NO PLEA

Barry H. Sharpe, 23, of 614 Marifield, did not elect his mode of trial and entered no plea. He was remanded to Monday for election and plea and the others were put over to the same day for circumstances.

Magistrate Ostler meanwhile ordered probation reports on Casey and Pelton.

A second joint charge against the three, for theft of a car the same night, also was put over to Monday after Casey and Pelton pleaded guilty.

Police said the waterfront warehouse and office at 1112 Wharf was robbed of about 20 cases of cigarets valued at $2,800; $500 worth of electrical appliances and $705 cash.

RECOVERED

About $2,700 worth of cigarets and $451.50 cash was recovered when police made the arrests and raided a James Bay apartment Tuesday.

A police patrol wagon was used to take the stolen property in about 20 large cardboard cartons to safekeeping in Chief John Blackstock's office.

He praised detectives Angus Munro, Deans Blackstock, Alex Briggs, William Andrews and Richard Berry for the investigation.

SEAT MISSING

Police believe a car property of Betty Smith, Victoria, was stolen from the waterfront area and used in the burglary. This car was recovered in the same general area where it evidently had been abandoned. Its back seat was missing.

It was thought the thieves loaded the rear part of the car at Vancouver Barge, took the goods to the James Bay apartment, then went for another load some time after 9 p.m. Friday.

Employees reporting for work Saturday discovered the break-in and found the office safe had been pushed from its second-storey office over a stair landing to the warehouse floor, helping to smash it open.

'Extreme Poverty' UpCoast

Three Victorians well acquainted with conditions on the west coast of Vancouver Island today backed up claims that many families urgently need relief.

They disagreed with federal officials and a missionary who said there is no real need among the Indians.

Prof. Charles S. Burchill, president of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, said his organization received information that there is "extreme poverty among west coast Indians and a need for clothing."

$14 MONTHLY

He said the federal Indian department paid $14 a month in food for relief.

"I ask you can any white man subsist on $14 a month," he said. "I'm quite sure some are hungry, but I don't know if this is due to mis-management or not. But it can't be otherwise."

He was commenting on a statement made by W. S. Arneil, Indian commissioner for B.C., denying a Vancouver fisherman's report that the Indians are near starvation.

The 33-year-old fisherman, Alec Anderson, said Indian families are so destitute they have been reduced to eating clams and dried bread as a steady diet.

Mr. Arneil, however, did admit the Indians had a poor fishing season and relief is being provided.

INVESTIGATE

He said his department will investigate the fisherman's report.

Mrs. Helen Hunt, niece of Chief Mungo Martin, who acts as the famous totem carver's interpreter, said that while she didn't want to embarrass federal officials, she couldn't agee there was no welfare problem on the west coast.

She said the chief received a letter from an old friend who wrote that conditions were bad, and there was no employment for his people.

Itwas not unusual, she said, for Indians to be hardup during the winter months.

DON'T BOTHER

"It occurs often—whenever the fishing season is poor, she said. "It is so common that Christian people no longer [illegible]

"I've seen a woman with children whose husband was ili searching the beaches for food," she said. "I have often cried for people who were unable to give their children anything for Christmas because they were absolutely destitute.

The only assistance they were offered from the whites were clothing," she added. "But clothing doesn't help the stomach."

TOO PROUD

She said Indians never made a direct appeal for assistance because they are too proud.

"They are so proud that they don't even like anyone to mention that they are poor," she said.

Lt.-Col. G. Howland, treasurer of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, said they had received a request from the wife of Rev. Reginald Bennett at the Ahousat Indian mission for clothing.

"There must be trouble if there is an urgent need for clothing," he said.

Mr. Bennett, a United Church of Canada minister, said Tuesday, he didn't know of any real need.

'Gloves Off' Election Bout Slated Tonight

Edgelow, Smith In Main Event

Probing and counter-punching gives way to a regular slugfest tonight in the civic election campaign with Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow climbing into the ring against J. Donald Smith.

Ald. Edgelow said today he fully expects to be heard at the mayoralty candidate's rally at 8 p.m. in the Crystal Garden "to put a few things straight."

Meanwhile, Ald. Arthur Dowell today renewed his challenge to Mr. Smith to attend a regular council meeting Thursday to back up suggestions of "suspicious" land deals.

He wrote to reject conditions demanded by Mr. Smith for a special meeting at night.

NO NEED

"Regarding the conditions expressed by you in accepting my challenge, I would state that I see no need to have a 'public spectacle', which it would be. Your presence at city council to substantiate your allegations would be fully covered by the press.

"I again, as chairman of the lands committee . . . whose reputation is at stake by your innuendos, reiterate my challenge to you to appear before Thursday's council meeting."

Ald. Edgelow said he will accept Mr. Smith's invitation to attend the Victoria Civic Voters' Association rally tonight as chairman of public works committee which has been under attack by Mr. Smith.

HEAR HIM OUT

"I am going to accept his invitation and go to hear what he has to say," Ald. Edgelow said.

"If there is anything I can clarify, I will request permission to speak after Mr. Smith has said his piece.

Famous Girls' Drill Teams' 'Mother' Dies

Mrs. Mary E. Foster, 82, "mother" of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team founded by her husband, the late Capt. Norman Foster, died in St. Joseph's Hospital today after a brief illness.

Although Capt. Foster trained the team in its manoeuvres, it was Mrs. Foster who had designed the uniform, then made all the uniforms for the girls and kept them in repair.

Born in England, she first arrived in Canada with her husband in 1911, and made her home in Victoria in 1914. She was a life member of the IODE.

After the death of Capt. Foster Jan. 12 this year she moved from the family home on Meares Street to an apartment at 1121 Fort Street.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me the name of the coastal vessel, her owners and when she was wrecked, that lies on a reef in Seaforth Channel, north of Dufferin Island? R. T. T. J.

A. This is the U.S. vessel North Sea which sank in the latter days of the Second World War. Built in New Jersey by Bethlehem Steel in 1918, the 299-foot ship can still be seen where she foundered. Owner was Gilbert W. Skinner and port of registry was Juneau, Alaska.

Q. When Jimmy Durante signs off his show, he says "Goodnight Mrs. Callabash, wherever you are." To whom is he referring? T.P.

A. There have been many stories written about this sign-off signature, but none have indicated Mrs. Callabash was "real". It's a trademark, and actually combines the pathos humor which is Durante.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

POVL BANG-JENSEN
. . . burned list

His disappearance was reported just a few hours before the United Nations was scheduled to open a new Hungarian debate. Today's UN proceedings had no apparent relationship to his former UN work.

He left his home here at 7.40 a.m. Monday, ostensibly for his job to C.A.R.E. Inc., in Manhattan, and has not been seen since, police said. His wife, the former Helen J. Noland of Port Jervis, N.Y., reported that he left his wallet at home.

CONTROVERSY

His discharge in July 1958 by UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskold followed a long controversy over the names of escaped Hungarian freedom fighters whom Bang-Jensen had interviewed as a member of the UN commission investigating the Hungarian revolution.

He said all had feared reprisals from the Communists and he had assured each that his name would be kept secret.

At the C.A.R.E. office, a spokesman said Bang-Jensen, who also used the Americanized name Paul Jensen, had been hired as a special consultant for a six-month term which expired in October and was then extended for another six months.

NO WORRIES

"He was receiving an adequate salary and had no job worries," the spokesman said. "None of us here knew him very intimately, but he was a

Likely Power Site Granted Free to PGE

A free grant of Crown land to be used as a Pacific Great Eastern Railway way-stop townsite was turned over to the government-owned railway today by cabinet order.

It is located at the junction of Hasler Creek and the Pine River, west of Dawson Creek.

The Pine, a tributary of the Peace, and the Halfway River, were mentioned by Peace River Power Development Co. President W. C. Mainwaring Tuesday as logical supplementary power sites, for development eventually in the Peace power system.

The order noted the land grant, (acreage not specified), would be made without charge or Crown fee and would be subject only to prior easement privileges granted the West coast Transmission Company for its pipeline in the vicinity.

PGE officials were unable to comment on the townsite today but Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said it is usual for the railawy to make townsite reserves where any new development is indicated in areas served by the railway. But he did not know of any development there at this time.

'If We're Forced, We'll Fight'---Nehru

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru warned Communist China today that "if war is thrust upon us we will fight with all our strength."

The aroused premier, raising his voice to emphasize India's determination, spoke in Parliament at opening of a debate on India's border dispute with Peking.

As Nehru was speaking hundreds of Socialists who have protested his mild approach to the crisis gathered outside Parliament and shouted anti-government slogans. Police prevented their storming into the building.

Inside Parliament pandemonium broke out when Nehru accused the opposition Socialist parties of using the Peking troubles to further their own political ends. The uproar died when he quickly apologized.

"It is a strange turn of events that India, which has stood for peace so long, is now faced with the possibility even of war," Nehru said.

He emphasized that India wanted peace; he termed war a "dangerous and a bad thing" and he said India would work to avoid it. But his speech was one of the most forthright he has delivered on the current Indo-Chinese tension.

He said at no time since India had achieved independence was its military in better shape to defend the nation's 9,000 miles of borders. And he said India's industrial might was equally able to back up military preparedness."

Nehru, in a one-hour speech to a packed House of Representatives, called for political unity and said the border incidents with Red China transcended party politics.

War and peace in the whole world might hinge on settlement of the border disputes, he said. The disputes arose when Chinese Communist troops occupied huge border areas claimed by India.

There have been several minor border clashes between Indian and Chinese troops and in one in Lakdah in Jammu and Kashmir state nine In-

KRISHNA MENON GETS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon Tuesday received overwhelming support at a parliamentary caucus of the ruling Congress Party.

A party spokesman said all legislators who spoke at the closed-door session supported Menon who has been under fire for his handling of India's defence problems.

The defence minister was reported to have told the meeting that "all steps" are being taken to protect India's disputed frontier with Communist-controlled Tibet.

In forcible language,* Menon declared that Communist China is posing a threat to India's security along the Tibetan frontier.

$2 MILLION A MILE ROAD COST

Tenders for 1.23 miles of Trans-Canada Highway construction in the China Bar section of the Fraser Canyon indicate a new high in construction costs—where it was once described as costing $1,000,000 a mile, the price now is apparently doubled.

The lowest of five tenders opened by the highways branch Tuesday was $2,242,723 —submitted by Emil Anderson and Highway Construction, jointly. Both are Vancouver firms. The highest tender was for more than $3,200,000.

The section of highway involves tunneling and a major rock cut. Engineers describe the project as one of the toughest in the Fraser Canyon section.

U.S. Big Effort 'Set' Thursday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The moon is about to move across the sky like a target in a celestial shooting gallery, and the United States is ready to take a shot at it. The attempt could come Thursday.

A towering Atlas-Able rocket stands on its pad here, waiting the signal to blast into space. Standing nearly 10 storeys high, the rocket holds a 375-pound satellite which scientists hope will go into orbit around the moon.

The 98-foot "Double-A" is the most powerful of all U.S. rockets to date. The four-stage behemoth will be a 375-pound payload that scientists hope to guide into orbit around the moon with a guidance system never tried by an American space rocket.

The spherical payload, riding in the topmost part of the Able upper stages, was designed to take pictures of the moon's "farside" surface with a facsimile scanner and transmit them back to earth upon "command" radio signals from scientists.

Also aboard will be a device to maintain temperature control inside the instrument compartment and an ultra-small electronic brain, designed to relay information to earth in the form of radio signal impulses, as well as instruments to study the lunar gravitational field and space radiation.

The most favorable time for the attempt is a four-day period starting Thursday. The chance of success is greater in this period because the paths of the earth and the moon, as they orbit about the sun, are most closely aligned.

Failure to get the rocket off by Sunday would mean a postponement until late December.

LONG TRIP

If successful, the four-stage Atlas-Able would take 2½ days to reach the vicinity of the moon, about 225,000 miles away. Then retro (reverse) rockets are to be ignited by ground signal to slow the payload so it will be attracted by the lunar gravitational field.

The United States hopes to be first in placing a satellite in orbit about the moon. Scientists here believe this would be

Reds Ease Stand At A-Ban Talks

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia today unexpectedly proposed a study of new procedure to eliminate the veto in a control commission for policing a nuclear weapons test ban.

Hitherto, Russia has insisted on veto rights in the proposed seven-power commission.

United States and British delegates at the three-power talks on a test ban said they would have to study today's Soviet statement closely before they could reply at another meeting Friday.

Today's session lasted 55 minutes. Afterwards, Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told reporters: "We are trying to find forms of voting in the control commission other than unanimity veto rights among the three original nuclear powers."

Tsarapkin said he had urged the Western side to propose an alternative procedure to the veto system.

Russia originally listed [illegible] veto rights should apply. Since the talks began 13 months ago, the list has been whittled down to one item—budgetary and financial matters.

The three-power session took place today shortly before U.S., British and Russian scientists began their talks on detecting underground nuclear explosions.

Tsarapkin agreed Tuesday to the work program for the technical talks on new American data. This data purports to show that underground tests are harder to detect than first was believed.

Tsarapkin accepted an American compromise proposal made a week ago on the way the scientists should tackle the new data.

Western conference sources described the Soviet agreement on the terms of reference for the experts as "a very considerable and welcome advance on the Russian side."

Atom-Powered Ship Planned By W. Germany

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) —West Germany announced plans today to build its first nuclear-powered merchant ship.

A 16,000-ton tanker, the Esso Bolivar, will be converted from conventional propulsion to serve as a "nuclear test bed," the announcement said.

The Society of Nuclear Engineering, a private group financed by West Germany's four coastal states, made the announcement on the eve of a three-day convention here of nuclear ship experts designed to study atomic propulsion.

TWO ARTICLES ON POWER ISSUE

In a speech to Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday, W. C. Mainwaring, president of the Peace River Power Development Company, outlined plans for the huge Wenner-Gren project and attacked a recent Times series on the power issue.

Specifically he claimed statements in the series regarding delivery of extra Columbia River power to the B.C. coast were "rubbish." A full report of his speech appears on Page 39.

Also, on Page 2, Times Ottawa reporter Tom Gould, who wrote the series, sums up federal power authorities' views on the same subject.

IT WAS JUST ROYAL MIX-UP

King Whistles for Taxi

LONDON (CP)—It's almost unbelievable in a country that specializes in dignified, red-carpet treatment for royalty.

But Tuesday night King Gustav and Queen Louise of Sweden had to stand in the Haymarket whistling for a taxi.

They eventually got one, and then sat still for 15 minutes while fire engines blocked the street.

It happened after the royal couple were driven by chauffeur to the Haymarket Theatre — the wrong place. They meant to visit the Globe.

They dismissed their chauffeur with a minimum of fuss, and walked in. Nobody met them, or even recognized them.

"Where are our friends with the tickets?" asked the queen.

The king and queen were supposed to meet Sir Harold and Lady Zia Wernher in the lobby. Lady Zia is a daughter of one of the grand dukes of Russia.

Then the king noticed that the show was "The Pleasure of His Company." They wanted to see Graham Green's "The Complaisant Lover."

That's when he blew a royal whistle.

They arrived at the Globe 15 minutes after the curtain was due to rise, but the management, expecting the royal couple, waited for them.

Queen Louise, in evening dress and fur coat, apologized to their floor-pacing friends.

"I was sure the show was at Haymarket Theatre," she explained. "I was positive."

The king smiled happily as the four were ushered into their third-row seats.

NEW TORY HEAD?

Job Picture Brighter

DUNCAN — There are fewer people out of work in the Cowichan district this year than last.

Monthly report of the National Employment Service shows that the number of unplaced jobseekers during the period ending Nov. 20 stood at 622 compared to 725 in the same month last year.

Logging and lumbering industries maintained full production with only slight cutbacks as operators attempted to build up inventories in anticipation of improved market conditions.

Return of workers from other sections of the province where weather conditions have caused shutdowns has helped relieve the shortage of loggers that existed last month.

Retail trade was sluggish as the district has not fully recovered from the 69-day IWA strike. Merchants are optimistic, however, that Christmas buying will be equal to last year.

According to the report, "tight money" has affected the construction of many residential dwellings. Coupled with the completion of many construction projects, this situation has resulted in a surplus of carpenters and construction workers.

"Nope, it didn't hurt a bit and I didn't even get sick," he said from his bed in the hospital.

U.S., FRANCE SIGN HISTORIC TRADE TREATY

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and France today signed a treaty of commerce and friendship designed to make it easier for the two countries to do business with each other.

It was the first time in more than 160 years that there had been any formal regulation of U.S.-French trade relations. A U.S.-British commercial treaty has been in force for more than a century, and the United States has concluded similar treaties with a score of nations around the world since the Second World War.

'Rainbow' At Fuller's Next Summer

CHEMAINUS—Anglers will be able to fish for rainbow trout in Fuller's Lake next summer, game biologist Dave Hurn said today.

Mr. Hurn said a recent test of the lake showed it completely free of the chemical toxaphene, used a year ago to kill off coarse fish prior to restocking.

The test was made with live fingerlings which showed "an excellent survival."

The game branch plans to restock the lake, located just off the Trans-Canada Highway at the entrance to the community, with 2,000 rainbow trout of from four to five inches in length, in plenty of time to permit fishing next summer.

STAYS CLOSED

However, the lake will remain closed to the public until that time.

"We will restock the lake semi-annually or annually if the fishing pressure is heavy," Mr. Hurn said.

Wheddle's Lake, just west of the community, which was chemically treated last year at the same time, has also been found to be free of toxaphene. Unlike Fuller's Lake, however, it will not require restocking.

RESTOCKED ITSELF

"We found on checking," Mr. Hurn said, "that this little lake has restocked itself naturally. Cutthroat trout from a nearby creek have introduced themselves into the lake and are increasing."

At the present time, Wheddle's Lake is also closed to the public but is likely to be opened shortly.

Galloway in Scotland is known for its hornless black cattle and a special breed of small horses.

Mall Talks Scheduled For Chamber, Council

(From Duncan Bureau)

Effort to establish a downtown shopping mall here gained impetus this week when Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce retail merchants' division decided to put the proposal before city council.

A meeting will be sought to bring together the council, the chamber, and consulting engineer Russell E. Potter of Victoria, who suggested the mall plan. All information available on shopping malls will be gathered for the meeting.

BLOCK LONG

Proposed by the engineer is a block-long mall on Station Street between Canada and Craig, paved the full width and including trees, flower gardens, a fountain, and children's play area.

The chamber will seek more information as to the advantages of the plan and its final cost.

Discussed at length was a proposed "Jaywalker's Jamboree," designed to attract shoppers to Duncan.

During the proposed jamboree period, certain streets in the downtown area would be closed off to vehicular traffic and shoppers would be free to "jaywalk" to their heart's content.

There would also be "carnival type" attractions and stores would offer special prizes. The proposal will be discussed again.

STORE HOURS

Large food stores announced they would keep regular store hours prior to Christmas with the exception of Dec. 23, when they will remain open until 9 p.m. The biggest department store in Duncan announced it would stay open to 9 p.m. Dec. 19, 22, and 23.
